Time key

By Charlotte Varcoe

Wattle Range Mayor Des Noll has expressed his disappointment at the procedures taken to reallocate an empty house in the heart of Kalangadoo to other government workers. The Kalangadoo police station has been closed for a number of years after the town's sole police officer left.

A relatively new home had been available for police officers in Kalangadoo, yet had also remained vacant during the closure. It was recently announced the home would be repurposed to house other government workers outside SAPOL with current Minister for Infrastructure and Transport Tom Koutsantonis announcing it in a recent Parliament sitting.

Kalangadoo resident Jane Fetherstonhaugh had been lobbying the State Government for several months, requesting the vacant house be available for other government workers to rent.

Speaking with The Border Watch, Ms Fetherstonhaugh said she was happy the home was now open to other workers outside SAPOL but remained disappointed at the length of time it took to make the decision.

"We have had three changes of government since the house was originally empty," Ms Fetherstonhaugh said. "I have been writing to various Members of Parliament and Ministers for over several months but I am happy there has finally been some action."

Ms Fetherstonhaugh said having the home open to others gave an opportunity for a family to move into Kalangadoo which would benefit not only local businesses but also the local school and community overall. "They really do need to make a decision about the police station and what they are going to do about that building as well and make it known to other government workers there is accommodation available. Depending on what the government wants to do with the police station I would like to see it as either more accommodation or another shop, however my understanding is that it is still under limbo because of the police review which started in 2018."

Ms Fetherstonhaugh said she was now calling on the State Government to finish the review and make a determination about the police station and either rent it out or sell it.

Wattle Range Council Mayor Des Noll said it was "about time" for the house to be open to other government workers, especially with the ongoing shortage of rural housing.

"There is a shortage of rural housing in the Limestone Coast and it is no different from Kalangadoo and this government house has become available to government employees. It really adds to the value of the Kalangadoo community and I am happy to see it be wrapped up after so long and I feel for the community who have been left alone around this whole issue. I expected more from the Police Commissioner Grant Stevens and for it to be resolved as we had a country police review with no outcome."

Mr Noll said he was unsure what the decision meant for the future of policing in Kalangadoo. "We need to make sure the police station is sold and is able to create opportunities for other developers who may want to utilise the facility rather than just sit there for the next period of time," he said. "We have seen the results of that for over five years and my next step in lobbying for this is to make sure the house and police station is fit for purpose and government workers move in.

"I also want to commend the Kalangadoo community which has continued to advocate for this and without their backing it would not have gotten to where it is today."

A letter written by Limestone Coast Superintendent Campbell Hill reaffirmed there was no definitive answer to the future of the Kalangadoo police station with SAPOL waiting for the outcome of the Premier's Taskforce which would "influence regional policing decisions".

Locals fight for a cure

By Sophie Conlon

Penola community members have come together to raise more than $6,200 to help find a cure for Motor Neurone Disease (MND).

The event was organised by the family of beloved locals Helen 'Helsa' and David 'Grub' Moulton to research the beast that took them both.

Granddaughter Amy Wetherall said the idea for the walk and fundraising afternoon was inspired by FightMND's 27 Challenge.

"Two weeks ago we just started off with an idea of doing the challenge and then we thought, how can we raise more money for the cause?" she said.

This idea grew into a walk on Sunday, September 10, from the Prince of Wales Hotel to Greenrise and back before enjoying lunch and an afternoon of raffles.

NEWS

Livestock funded

Picture: SAM CARTER ON UNSPLASH

Cattle and sheep farmers will be celebrating the news that South Australia's livestock industry is set to benefit from an injection of up to $6.2 million of industry funds to support the sector.

The funds collected into the Sheep Industry and Cattle Industry Funds during the 2022-23 financial year will go towards 29 projects recommended by the Livestock SA Sheep and Cattle Industry Fund Boards to help maintain market access, support animal health, disease surveillance and traceability, predator control and more, while dedicated Sheep Industry Funds will continue to support the maintenance and rebuild of the Dog Fence.

Some of the 2023-24 projects to be funded include:

- The continuation of the Footrot Management Program delivered by Biosecurity SA to reduce the animal welfare issues and economic impact of footrot in South Australian sheep.
- Ongoing Sheep Lice Compliance Program aimed at minimising the impact on the industry by providing education, advice, inspection services and compliance action.
- National Livestock Identification System (NLIS) Compliance Programs for both sheep and cattle to support industry monitoring and enforcing compliance with identification and traceability standards for the purpose of disease control, food safety and market access.

The Sheep Industry Fund and Cattle Industry Fund are established under the Primary Industry Funding Schemes Act 1998 and provide a way for South Australia's primary industry sectors to raise funds so they can favourably position themselves in the national and international marketplace.

For more details on 2023-24 Livestock SA projects funded by the Sheep and Cattle Industry Funds visit livestocksa.org.au/industry-funds or for more information on the Sheep and Cattle Industry Funds visit www.pir.sa.gov.au/livestock

Minister for Primary Industries and Regional Development Clare Scriven said the funds were raised by industry for industry and are particularly aimed at supporting animal health management and biosecurity, key focuses for the livestock sector.

"Our sheep, wool, cattle and dairy industries are important parts of the state's economy jointly generating $3.7 billion in revenue in 2021-2022 and supporting up to 29,000 jobs," she said.

"The funding for these programs helps make our livestock industries more sustainable and profitable into the future while also benefiting producers in their day-to-day activities.

"The programs are also designed to assist in maintaining access to existing markets, securing new ones and supporting sustainable and efficient production.

President of Livestock SA Joe Keynes said the projects identified for support in the current financial year again enable producers to influence the direction and development of their industry.

"A successful livestock industry relies on its people, so it is important that the sector is confident that funding raised maintains robust and relevant programs," he said.

"In addition to the animal health and biosecurity projects, there has been a significant investment in predator and pest control including $460,000 into wild dog control and $150,000 into feral deer and wild pig eradication.

"The funds are also investing in capacity building for the industry by sponsoring the annual Sheep Expo, the SA Junior Heifer Expo and bringing LambEx back to South Australia in 2024."

McBride backs medicinal cannabis call

By Charlotte Varcoe and Sophie Conlon

Member for Mackillop Nick McBride has backed a neighbouring member's call for medical cannabis to be legalised in South Australia.

Member for Mount Gambier Troy Bell presented a motion in the Lower House asking for recognition of the growing importance of medicinal cannabis and cannabidiol as an alternative treatment option for South Australians.

The motion also supported expanded research and clinical trials into the treatment of conditions including endometriosis, Alzheimer's, Parkinson's and chronic pain alongside requesting the streamlining of access to locally manufactured products for residents.

Speaking in Parliament, Mr Bell said he believed South Australian residents "deserve access to the highest quality, modern and affordable healthcare available to them".

"For a growing number of South Australians, this includes treatment with medical cannabis," Mr Bell said.

Speaking to the motion Mr McBride said many general practitioners were increasingly being asked about medicinal cannabis as a treatment option, but there were obstacles in place stopping them from prescribing it.

"I hear that the most potential for streamlining access to medicinal cannabis is in the area of palliative care," he said.

"Sadly, in many palliative care cases we often see patients bedbound and medicated at a level that leaves them in a highly sedated state.

"If medicinal cannabis were an option for GPs for palliative care patients, it is my belief it could potentially provide an elevated quality of life in their final days.

"It could be the medication that provides the important balance of adequate pain relief along with some cognitive function at the end of their life."

He said no one wanted to see patients access medicinal cannabis illegally and he would like to see it become embraced as a mainstream treatment.

"I hope that the current joint committee can provide some recommendations to navigate a pathway forward for more mainstream medicinal cannabis use," he said.

"We need to continue to take up opportunities to research and promote the use of medicinal cannabis for a range of conditions and I do hope that parliament and the state embrace medicinal cannabis or medical treatments as an alternative where modern medicines have failed."

Show time for students

By Charlotte Varcoe

Penola High School students were in awe last week as they attended the Royal Adelaide Show as part of their agricultural program.

A number of students spent close to a week in the heart of Adelaide where they entered competitions, showed their cows with one student also being a part of the daily grande parade.

Penola High School student Brayden said the week was a great success and he had good fun.

"We are here for agriculture and we have been showing cows and walking them around," Brayden said.

"It is part of the agriculture program and we were showing cows all week."

He said when showing a cow, the handler must ensure its back is straight and its legs are in the right position.

"It is pretty good but cows can be temperamental sometimes," Brayden said.

"We really enjoy being at the show, being out of school and doing something different."

Fellow student Wyatt said he enjoyed seeing the different animals at the show.

"I have enjoyed seeing the animals and getting a look at how to do other stuff around animals," Wyatt said.

"I was really interested in the shearing of the sheep and rams and the cows."

He said after the experience he was now interested in working in agriculture in the future.

"Since being at the Royal Adelaide Show I have learnt you should not be scared of the animals because if you are scared it makes them anxious and act differently," he said.

Ag program sets teenagers up for future

By Aidan Curtis

Agriculture students are setting themselves up for their future careers and learning a range of vital skills as part of a pilot program.

Penola High School's agriculture course has gotten students out of the classroom and into the paddock to get hands-on experience with livestock.

The course, which kicked off at the start of this year, has seen students learn anything from animal health to plant science.

With the course having found positive engagement from the students, the school has organised an agriculture open night to show the community what the kids have learned so far.

Agriculture teacher Cory O'Connor said he hopes to see many community members swing by for a look.

"We're just showcasing what our ag program has done across the year, so where it's grown from nothing to quite a sustainable practice," he said.

"We also want to showcase to the community how their donations are benefitting the students' educations and growing our next generation of farmers and livestock agents."

Mr O'Connor said students doing the course were not just learning how to be farmers, with all sorts of opportunities opening up through this education.

"We have a lot of kids who come from a town background, as such, and they're doing it because they want to be vets or just love animals," he said.

"We cater from animal health down to plant science and everything in between."

Students Jack and Mia both came into the course from farming backgrounds and said they were learning handy skills.

"In ag, we're learning with sheep and we're training them to walk on a lead so they can get used to it and they're behaving themselves really well," Jack said.

"I live on a farm and I lead cattle, and it's something that I am passionate about and hoping to do in the future - it's helping me learn different ways to help on the farm," Mia said. The agriculture open night will be held from 4:30pm to 7pm on Thursday, September 21.

Tyler, Brayden and Seth were not kidding around when it came to looking after the goats.

Locals fight for a cure

Amy said the community support had been overwhelming with more people than the family expected joining in.

"It's humbling that so many people, family, friends, and the community care enough to be so generous," she said.

"Everyone's just so genuine, no one's getting the money, it's like going straight to research.

Daughter Michelle Wetherall said while memories of Helsa and Grub were at the forefront of everyone's minds during the event, at its core the day was about raising funds to find a cure for MND.

"We have lost mum and dad, it's the reason we're doing it, but we've also got - in our community- about six or seven other families who have been affected by MND," she said.

"It's about raising money for MND and bringing awareness, but you can't help but get a little bit emotional."

Amy agreed it was great to keep her grandparents spirit alive through raising funds for MND research.

"It's nice because it kind of keeps their memories alive too while you're raising money for others that will be affected by it to hopefully find a cure one day," she said.

The mother and daughter duo both agreed they would like to see the fundraiser become a regular event.

"This is kind of like our first baby, like a test run to see how it goes," Amy said.

"We've had ideas for next year to maybe get a dunk take and do our version of a big freeze, which would be awesome."

Inspiring Miss Congeniality

By Sophie Conlon

After making it all the way to the finals, former Furner woman Lauren Walker has been named Miss Congeniality at the Miss Universe Australia 2023 competition.

When she first entered the competition Ms Walker did not set any goals for herself, but said walking away with the Miss Congenitally title "was the perfect way to end the experience".

"Simply to be chosen to participate in the initial state round was a privilege," she said.

"I never anticipated what the journey would amount to and I never set into it to receive any form of recognition."

Ms Walker said she entered the competition to challenge herself and was proud to be crowned Miss Congeniality by her fellow finalists.

"Throughout the Miss Universe Australia journey, I was committed to staying true to my authentic self and fostering genuine connections with the remarkable women I had the privilege to share this experience with," she said.

"To have these women acknowledge me as the most friendly, professional, and likable is truly humbling and I am honoured."

Looking back on the journey the midwife and horse racing director said it had been a transformative experience.

"It has helped develop a strong sense of self, allowing me to unlock a new level of confidence and left me more self-assured and self-aware," she said.

"It has taught me the importance of embracing my true self and celebrating the uniqueness of others."

Now living in Nar Nar Goon, Ms Walker said participating in the Miss Universe Australia competition had been a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity.

"MUA has opened so many new doors for me and equipped me with the skills and confidence to continue on my own path and working towards my dream life," she said.

Still a bit unsure of what would come next, Ms Walker said she would love to write a book or combine her love of fashion and horse racing.

"The MUA journey has reaffirmed to me the importance of stepping out of my comfort zone and taking risks to pursue my dream life," she said.

"The possibilities are endless I am just excited for what the next chapter of my life holds post MUA."

Ms Walker encouraged others think about entering the competition as through it she was able to meet friends she will have for life.

"My hope is little girls who have watched my journey are inspired to pursue their dreams regardless how big or small, so they too can accomplish something truly remarkable," she said.

"Anyone who is considering entering- I thoroughly encourage you to do so, I promise it will be the best thing you ever do!"

Unusually dry spring weather ahead, says Bureau

After one of the states warmest and wettest winters the Bureau of Meteorology has now warned the South East could have an unusually dry spring.

Bureau senior meteorologist Angus Hines said all of South Australia was likely to have a below average rainfall this spring.

"Most of the state has an increased chance of an unusually dry spring, with the South Eastern corner having the highest chance of an unusually dry spring," he said.

On this, Mr Hines said the South East and Mallee were one of three areas in the state with an increased fire risk this season.

"Australia's fire agencies have identified increased fire risk this spring for parts of the South Australia, including the the far south-west corner next to the WA border, the far north-west corner next to the WA and NT borders, and the grasslands and Mallee Heath areas in the south-east towards the Victorian border," he said.

"Prepare and review your bushfire plan wherever you are, know your weather and know your risk."

South East sewer wipe out

South East sewer habits are causing problems for SA Water, with "troublesome unflushables" often blocking up wastewater pipes in the region.

SA Water has lifted the lid on the South East, with recent data showing the region caused 62 blockages by trying to dispose of fats and oils in the sink, along with wet wipes and other foreign objects going down the loo. During 2022-23, Mount Gambier / Berrin was ranked second for regional centres recording the most blockages, with Naracoorte and Millicent also in the top 10. SA Water senior manager of maintenance Lisa Hannant said the Millicent wastewater treatment plant saw a very high volume of wet wipes come out in the sewerage.

"Our operators are physically removing several kilograms of wet wipes from the plant's primary treatment tanks each week, with no let-up in sight unless people change their flushing habits," Ms Hannant said.

"Unlike toilet paper, which breaks down in around 30 seconds, wet wipes contain multiple layers of woven fibre and are designed not to disintegrate, causing them to clump together and block the flow of sewage.

"This means if they don't cause blockages in our network of pipes or pump stations before even arriving at our plant, there's a risk of damaging the plant's infrastructure and reducing its ability to operate effectively."

Ms Hannant said Mount Gambier / Berrin and Naracoorte were just as bad, which led to a lot of clogs.

"Millicent isn't our only hotspot in the South East, with our treatment plants serving Mount Gambier and Naracoorte also sharing a similar experience, especially across our network of pipes and pump stations in these towns – and local residents are continuing to take a gamble every time they flush wet wipes," she said.

SA Water said it pulls wet wipes out of its wastewater treatment facilities in the South East on a daily basis. Picture: SUPPLIED

"If we look at regional SA's total of 318 sewer blockages during the past 12 months, two-thirds of these occurred at a property's connection before even reaching our pipes – let alone our treatment plants – which increases the risk of an overflow inside your home, and trust me, nobody wants to experience this.

"Luckily, the solution is ever-so simple and all you need to remember is to only flush the three Ps – toilet paper, pee and poo – and put everything else in the bin to help protect your pipes and our sewers."

SA Water spends around $2 million a year in redirecting non-flushable materials from pipes, pump stations and wastewater treatment plants to landfill.

SA spruiks wine, taxes to poach business from Victoria

By Jacob Shteyman, AAP

Victorians are being sold the allure of a better life across the border as South Australia fires up an ad campaign aimed at poaching businesses from interstate.

SA Premier Peter Malinauskas spruiked the festival state's more attractive corporate tax regimen and superior lifestyle, leaving his Victorian counterpart Daniel Andrews incensed.

"We know that the state's tax regimen is extremely competitive in comparison to every other state around the country, including Victoria. We want to tell that story," Mr Malinauskas told reporters on Thursday, September 7.

The Business is Better in SA campaign, which is already running across billboards and social media in Victoria, flaunts better tax breaks for businesses, including zero payroll tax for wages under $1.5 million.

It also claims better training, traffic, beaches and wine.

The campaign highlights that South Australians pay more than $2100 less in taxes per year compared with their Victorian counterparts, and follows the Victorian government's imposition of an $8.6 billion levy to pay off its Covid-19 debt.

As property prices soar across the country, Mr Malinauskas was also keen to point out that land was more affordable in his state for businesses and individuals.

"(South Australia has) far less land tax, far less stamp duty, a highly competitive payroll tax regimen," he said.

"That's what we want the eastern states to be aware of, so when they choose to expand their businesses or establish a new one, they look to South Australia to do so."

Mr Andrews claimed to be unfazed by the campaign, but used the opportunity to stick the boot in over what he perceives to be an unfair carve-up of GST revenue among the states.

"I'd be more worried about South Australia stealing Victoria's GST, frankly," he said.

"If it's so rosy over there, if it's such a great place, maybe they don't need our $670 million worth of GST that we paid them."

Mr Malinauskas brushed off Mr Andrews' criticism and maintained the pair are on a unity ticket of clawing back their fair share of GST revenue from Western Australia.

He also said SA boasted the fastest-growing economy in the country, with Australian Bureau of Statistics figures for the June quarter showing state final demand grew by 1.3 per cent.

Victorian shadow treasurer Brad Rowswell said he didn't blame SA for trying to lure businesses across the border, but urged them to stick fast.

"Please bear with us for the next three years, it won't always be the Andrews Labor government that's in charge," he said.

The SA government intends to expand the campaign to other states after its initial $160,000 run in Victoria, which ends on September 16.

Call for action on hunting

By Sophie Conlon

Birds SA has welcomed a Victorian Parliamentary Inquiry report encouraging the state government to end the recreational hunting of native birds and is calling for similar action in South Australia.

The inquiry had eight key recommendations including ending the annual recreational native duck and quail hunting season opening on all public and private land from 2024 and retaining Traditional Owner hunting rights.

A Birds SA spokesperson said they hoped an inquiry, currently taking place in South Australia, would heed similar results.

"The SA Inquiry will hear the same or very similar evidence – there is no reason why it should not come to the same conclusion to end the hunting of native birds," the spokesperson said.

"This would then bring SA in line with the other states that have banned duck hunting decades ago."

The Victorian inquiry received mixed reviews with BirdLife Australia backing the findings and the Shooters, Fishers and Farmers Party saying the select committee had taken a "ride on the emotional bandwagon led by minority animal activists".

Despite mixed feelings across the border, Birds SA have applauded South Australian deputy premier and minister for climate, environment and water Susan Close and the Malinauskas government for instigating the South Australian inquiry, expected to be handed down in December or January 2024.

"We now urge the SA government to read the Victorian report and to use that information to accelerate this SA Inquiry," the spokesperson said.

"We also call on the Malinauskas government to declare no duck and quail hunting season for 2024 pending legislation to permanently ban this cruel, archaic activity in South Australia."

As part of the ongoing South Australian inquiry The Australia Institute found a permanent ban on native bird hunting in South Australia was supported 76 per cent of the public and would have minimal impact on the state's economy.

The Australia Institute SA director Noah Schultz-Byard said native bird hunting was deeply unpopular, benefited very few people and imposed costs on the community,

"Ending native bird hunting would have a minimal impact on the economy and would provide substantial benefits to residents and businesses near hunting areas," he said.

"Claims that hunting is economically significant rely on biased survey results and economic modelling techniques that make no consideration of environmental costs.

"It is time to do what a majority of South Australian people, and presumably birds, want and end this cruel and economically damaging practice."

Students' eyes on time capsule buried for half-century

By Sophie Conlon

The Mount Burr Primary School community will take a step back in time next month when the school's 50 year old time capsule is opened.

Coinciding with the schools official opening, the time capsule was buried in October 1973 and principal Anne-Marie Fitzgerald said it would be opened on the October 21 anniversary.

She said everyone with a connection to the school, or who was curious about the contents of the capsule, would be welcome to come to the event.

Ms Fitzgerald had no idea what could be buried inside, but had a few guesses.

"I think there could be things like marbles or knuckle bones, writing of some sort, maybe some recounts," she said.

"There'd be some work samples, I think it's more that sort of thing.

"It might even be something about what they think the future is going to be... I think there could be some ideas there."

School leader Jack, year 6, said he thought stuff inside the time capsule would centre around how the school ran 50 years ago.

"I reckon there might be some pictures and maybe some canteen menus, and maybe old books and stuff that they used to use," he said.

"Maybe a memory of how life was back then," he said.

He said photos would be probably be of students or the school and its events.

Jack said in 1973 life might have been more strict and students would not have had the good quality equipment like they have now.

"Like our laptops would be better and they would have had chalk boards a while ago, but I'm not sure if that's how long ago," he said.

George, year 4, said 50 years ago school would have been very old fashioned.

"They would have had chalk boards and they might not have even had computers," he said.

He there might be old coins in the time capsule and said if they were making their own he would definitely put money in there so people in the future could see how it changes.

George was also excited to see if one of his relatives who attended the school might have put something in the time capsule.

"Some people in my family went to this school... my Uncle Deano, he might have put something in there," he said.

Ms Fitzgerald said as well as opening the time capsules visitors would be able to enjoy morning tea and take a tour of the school.

Depending what is inside the time capsule Ms Fitzgerald said they would likely display the contents or return it to its original owners.

The Mount Burr Primary School will be open from 10am to 12pm on October 21, RSVPS to dl.0288.info@schools.sa.edu.au are preferred.

Church marks 150 years

By Sophie Conlon

Penola parishioners have celebrated the 150th anniversary of St Mary the Virgin Anglican Church with a special service featuring a sermon from the Archdeacon of the Diocese of the Murray.

Father Lyndon Sulzberger has been the church's chaplain for about three years and said it was an honour to be at the helm for the milestone.

"It's an honour to honour those that have gone before us, because it's nothing I've done," he said.

"It's over 150 years, there have been many priests and many people all working together and that's what it's about, working together under God to show God's love to others."

About 70 people came out for the celebration and Fr Sulzberger said it was great to see so many people.

"We had people from Beachport, Millicent, Kalangadoo and Penola and visitors that used to be here came from all around," he said.

"It was a wonderful celebration to celebrate the church being here to help people for 150 years."

During his sermon Archdeacon of the Diocese of the Murray father Neil Fernando said the celebration offered a day of rejoicing.

"As we thank God for the 150 years of witness of this house of God, we pray also that it may continue to tell the story of our salvation in Jesus Christ with the greatest eloquence to the people of our own generation," he said.

"Mary MacKillop ventured into the colonial backwater of Penola to do something about the injustices and sufferings of the people.

"We are called to rise to the occasion, to let loose the spirit, to rouse the comfortable, to radically embody the Gospel of justice, love and mercy and to declare the year of jubilee."

Fr Sulzberger said the church surviving for 150 years showed the communities commitment and dedication to God and each other.

"The great commandment is to love the Lord your God with all your heart, mind, soul and strength and to love your neighbour as yourself," he said.

"And so by us working in the community, we're loving others like we would love to be loved and we come to worship God and to pray for people because of what God has done for us in Christ Jesus."

After the service parishioners were invited to lunch and Fr Sulzberger said many memories of the churches history were shared.

Motoring

Plugging generational gap

By Derek Ogden, Marque Motoring

Mazda sports utility vehicle sibling rivalry just got hotter, with a reborn five-year-old CX-8 refitted out and snapping at big brother CX-9's heels, while fending off the challenge of the mid-size CX-5.

Available in six grades – Sport, Touring, Touring Active, GT SP, Asaki and Asaki LE – with petrol or diesel power front or all-wheel drive, the entry-level Sport FWD petrol comes to market at $42,060, plus on-road costs, while the Asaki LE diesel AWD tips the scales at $71,410.

Rearranging the chairs, the Touring Active takes over where the old Touring diesel stood, while the GT SP fills the gap left by the absence of the petrol and diesel Touring SP and GT models.

On test was the GT SP petrol, which takes in premium touches such as power sliding and tilting sunroof and burgundy or black leather seat trim.

Mazda's five-year unlimited kilometre warranty, with roadside assistance, applies across the model range, with service intervals of 12 months or 15,000 kilometres.

Mazda designers have modernised the CX-8 exterior with bold new front and rear bumpers, and tailgate, LED headlamps and tail lights, while a new front grille maintains the company's Kodo – Soul of Motion design tradition.

New signature wings add a premium quality feel, a metallic finish reflecting light in motion, enhancing vehicle dynamics, maybe the colour too, in this case Soul Red Crystal Metallic.

Black metallic and machined finish 19-inch wheels give a lift to the sleek styling and sophistication of the GT SP.

Three rows of seats, with quality finishes, offer enough space to fit all but the most broad-beamed family members comfortably on short trips or long journeys.

Massive rear doors open to almost 90 degrees – there are sun shades too - but there's still some clambering to do to settle in the third row.

Once in, the upright back rest and the cramped knee situation are not conducive to long-distance comfort.

There's limited head room here but the GT SP does have the power adjustment and rear seat heaters of upper specced variants.

A non-too generous 209 litres of cargo space is available with all seats in operation.

A removable base boots capacity to 242 litres.

With the third row folded the total rises to 775 litres.

Call me out of touch but I remain a fan of the switch-and-knob style of control of in-cabin tech.

There is nothing worse than sticky fingerprints on the touchscreen.

The CX-8 centre-console rotary control set-up is my kind of connection.

Some previous CX-8s had only half-smart levels of phone mirroring.

Mazda has fixed this and updates now offer Android Auto and Apple CarPlay wirelessly.

Also newly included is wireless device charging and 10-speaker Bose audio.

On offer is the choice of two engines – a 2.5 litre four-cylinder petrol or 2.2 litre turbodiesel – both mated with a six-speed automatic transmission.

The test vehicle included the former, which came up with maximum power of 140 kW at 6000 rpm and maximum torque of 252 Nm at 4000 rpm.

Diesel versions boast all-wheel drive, while petrol motors have to make do with front-wheel operation only.

The Mazda CX-8 was a five-star rating when it was introduced in 2018.

The upgraded Mazda CX-8 does well fitting into the shape of Mazda's range of SUVs.

Massive interior space allows for comfort on both long and short trips.

As little has been significantly changed the Australasian New Car Assessment Program says it will not be retesting the latest version.

Included are blind spot monitoring, lane-keep assistance, rear-cross traffic alert, tyre pressure monitoring, traffic sign recognition and Isofix child seat anchors for two of the rear seats.

A reversing camera is standard across the range but only in the Asaki and LE is there a full 360-degree system.

The 2.5 litre four-cylinder motor sends a maximum 140 kW of power and 252 Nm of torque to the front wheels only, putting the brake, so to speak, on top-notch towing.

Maximum rating is 1800 kg.

The six-speed transmission is left behind by rivals with more cogs but it doesn't seem to affect the CX-8 unduly, producing a smooth run through all but the upper echelons of the rev band.

Engine noise is the downside here.

Fuel consumption is claimed to be an average of 8.1 litres per 100km for the petrol front-wheel drive on the combines urban/highway cycle.

The test vehicle came up with 11.4 litres per 100 kilometres in city and suburban work and 6.1 litres per 100 kilometres on motorway cruising.

With a bit of heft to handle, the ride can be hostage to some bumps and bangs over bad roads.

Steering responds with feeling and is particularly efficient in parking manoeuvres at lower speeds.

Front-wheel-drive versions of the CX-8 miss out on the Mazda Mi-Drive switchable driving modes allowing the driver to choose between Normal, Sport, Off-Road and a towing mode.

All-round vision for the driver is limited by large rear-view mirrors and a slim rear window but I do rate the clarity of the head-up (any head-up) windscreen display.

Fitting in can be a challenge to anyone going through adolescence.

Doing a person's best for elders can be elusive and so could be the case of the CX-8.

Thankfully Mazda has taken the large SUV and planed off some of the prickly sides to its character, leaving an acceptable member of a growing family.

PICK OF THE WEEK

NEIGHBOURS
10, Monday, 4.30pm (encore 10 Peach, 6.30pm)

It turns out everybody really does need good neighbours – as the iconic soap makes an unexpected but joyous return after an absence of only 14 months. Thanks to streaming giant Prime Video, who have committed to producing at least 400 new episodes, the residents of Ramsay Street are back, with a slew of changes. Firstly, there's a new version of the theme song, performed by Chris Sebastian (The Voice), and some new faces in the cast – notably The O.C.'s Mischa Barton, but details about her character, Reece, are under wraps. Stalwarts such as Alan Fletcher, Jackie Woodburne and Ryan Moloney will be returning, and we'll also be treated to guest appearances from fan favourites.

MISS SCARLET AND THE DUKE
7TWO, Thursday, 8.30pm

Viewers of this charming historical mystery series will be well acquainted with its headstrong heroine Eliza Scarlet (Kate Phillips, Peaky Blinders) – Victorian London's first-ever female detective – and her ability to run rings around the local law enforcement, but this week, in "The Pauper's Grave", the PI is forced to sit most of the episode out after being accused of a string of burglaries. With her offsider William (Stuart Martin, pictured with Phillips) unwilling to help on his day off, it falls to Eliza's housekeeper Ivy (Cathy Belton, Philomena) to clear her name. It's a fun diversion from the usual formula.

THE WHITELEY ART SCANDAL
ABC TV, Tuesday, 8.35pm

Who knew the art world could be so fascinating? First Marc Fennell's heist investigation Framed, and now this – a two-part exposé about what has been called the greatest case of art fraud in Aussie history. It charts an suspected case of forgery and the 2009 sale of two paintings said to be the work of Brett Whiteley. Supposedly part of the artist's acclaimed Lavender Bay series, doubts are quickly raised as to their authenticity, eventuating in a sensational trial. Through an extensive series of interviews with artists, journalists, art dealers, prosecutors and Whiteley's widow Wendy, this account unpacks the fascinating and at-times sordid saga from start to finish.

FIVE BEDROOMS
10, Wednesday, 9pm

In "Two Parties", tonight's episode of this sentimental comedy, introvert Harry (Roy Joseph) is the surprising narrator and reluctant organiser of both a hens' night for Ainsley (Katie Robertson) and Simmo's (Johnny Carr, pictured, right, with Joseph) buck's party. Although unwilling to attend either, Harry is roped into both events after shocking news sends Ben (Stephen Peacocke) spiralling. Hoping to escape the drama, Harry heads to the hens', only to find Liz (Kat Stewart) has a confession to make.

Season set to kick off

The Kalangadoo Bowls Club held its open day recently, with members and friends, along with Mayor Des Noll in attendance.

Members enjoyed the festivities, including a history of the club.

Chris Mules cooked up a storm on the barbecue, while the mayor conducted the formal parts of the day, which included the cutting of a cake to celebrate.

Past club presidents Derk Pietersma and Graham Casey passed on advice to incoming president Marcus Pietersma, while spectators checked out the bowling greens.

Golfers spring into action

Ideal spring weather brought out 72 SE Veterans golfers to the Millicent course with fast greens.

Terry Chant used his local knowledge well to win first division with 35 points, from Robe's Gordon Fleming on 34 and Mick Pedler, also on 34.

In second division, John Kirby sprang from the wilderness to score the day's best score of 36 from two locals, Ian Telfer 35 and Bob Childs 34.

Peter Delaine snaffled the Scotch and the Ross Orchard trophy was taken by Bob O'Connor and SE Veterans president Glen Tilley, who described his result as poor.

Players needed 29 points or better to claim a ball.

An anecdote that came to light and was owned up to, a former North speedy wingman who is renowned for his putting at Mount Gambier, left his putter at the putting green, practiced some chipping and then went out on the course.

A left hander, he used a 5 iron instead to worse effect, recovered the said putter at lunch time, but then continued on badly to record 25 points.

The full clubhouse enjoyed his story.

The next outing is at Naracoorte on September 25, followed by Penola on October 9.

Dawson and Farrell were both part of the runner-up team, joining Mark Giles and Rob Lawrie for a 28+7.

The club welcomed back Giles, as well as welcoming back from injury Nesla Boundy, Jan Fisk and Kerry Boyd.

Pink balls for charity

IN warm windy conditions 17 women play a stableford round at the Millicent Golf Club for the annual Cancer Charity Day Pink Ball teams event.

Teams of three used one pink ball, alternating hitting the pink ball to score for the team.

Karen MacGregor claimed the A Grade win with 37 points from Debbie Tincknell on 35.

In B Grade, Lois Tilley claimed the win with 37 points ahead of Carmel Cory with 34.

In the team event, Janet Watson, Helen Chilton and Bec Shanks claimed the win with 35 points.

Ball winners were Heather Anderson 34 on a count-back from Helen Chilton also with 34, along with Robyn Walters 32.

Nearest the pin second shot, handicap 0-28 on the 16th hole was Walters, on the fifth hole, handicap 32-54 was Annie MacLennan and on the 17th, handicap 28-54 went to Tilley.

Young stars put on strong display in a classic final

17 AND UNDER - MOUNT BURR 48 d PORT MACDONNELL 44

In wet conditions, the rising stars of Mid South East netball played out a classic final.

Mount Burr claimed the 17 and Under semi-final, but not without a fight against Port MacDonnell.

Both teams goalies held strong to gain possession of the ball in a close game that saw the lead change on numerous occasions.

Port MacDonnell's Lara Wilson and Lilly Day shot with accuracy, fed in close to the ring.

Mount Burr's goalies had to work hard for possession in the circle and used their feeders well to have good scoring opportunities.

The Mozzies mid-court made transition hard into the Demons' attack line.

Ella Easterby drove hard through the centre to ensure the Port MacDonnell defenders were kept busy.

Wing Attacks for both teams drove hard to the circle to allow a close feed to goalies.

Brydie McPherson worked hard in the defensive end for the Demons.

In the last quarter both teams started to make more passing errors due to defensive pressure and not adjusting to the weather.

Ashlee Dean stood tall for the Mozzies and in a closely contested game that came down to the last few minutes, Mount Burr pulled away and claimed the win.

Best players for Mount Burr were Dean and Easterby, with McPherson and Day best for Port MacDonnell.

15 AND UNDER - KALANGADOO 74 d HATHERLEIGH 16

Kalangadoo put in a dominant display in the 15 and Under semi-final, off to a strong start and never looked back.

However, despite the final score line there were some close battles over the court.

Kalangadoo created many turnovers to provide more opportunity to score in less-than-ideal shooting conditions.

Shayden Russell was dominant in the circle for the Magpies, shooting 46 of her team's goals.

She was supported well by Lucy Egan at goal shooter.

Hatherleigh created turnovers but struggled to capitalise, with strong defensive work by Maya Anderson in defence for Kalangadoo.

Hannah Bellinger worked tirelessly in the centre for the Eagles, while on the attacking wing, Chloe Bellinger fed the ball in well to her goalies.

Hatherleigh showed plenty of positive signs which they will take into next week's final against Port MacDonnell.

Best players for Kalangadoo were Lucy Egan and Maya Anderson, with Hannah Bellinger and Chloe Bellinger best for Hatherleigh.

13 AND UNDER - KALANGADOO 36 d GLENCOE 24

The youngest members of the Mid South East Netball Association showed plenty of skill in their semi-final.

Both Kalangadoo and Glencoe worked hard for every possession despite the wet conditions.

There were lots of scoring opportunities created, with strong defence applied by Glencoe's Isabella Brierley and Gracie Cary.

At the other end, Kalangadoo's Molly Peacock read the play well and claimed lots of intercepts.

Glencoe goal shooter Ella Stewart shot at 100 percent in the second quarter to keep her side in the game.

Layla Hawke and Annabelle Gordon fed their goalies well and also applied lots of pressure down the court.

Matilda Peacock combined well with Emmity McElroy in the circle to give Kalangadoo lots of opportunities and maintain their lead.

She was well supported by Zara Cole and Ava Prosperi-Porta.

The Magpies were able to maintain their lead in the last quarter to make the final score line 12 goals in their favour.

Best players for Kalangadoo were Molly Peacock and McElroy, with Hawke and Gordon best for Glencoe.

Millicent shows strength

17 and UNDER – MILLICENT 47 d CASTERTON SANDFORD 25

The previous encounters between these two sides have been tight and the first quarter started the same.

However, Millicent put its foot down from there to push out to an eventual 22-goal win over Casterton Sandford in the 17 and Under preliminary final.

The match started well with both teams scoring from their centre pass as the mid courters dominated the play.

Millicent's Lillie Paul was dominant early hitting the circle edge to find Denton, who scored from long range. At the other end Indi Longhurst was finding space in the attacking third for the Cats.

However, the pressure from Lauren Van Eeden and Edie Easterby denied access to the post.

The Saints went into the quarter time break with a seven-goal lead.

The second quarter started evenly with the Cats' shooter Ivy Lane working hard to find space in the goal circle and finishing well.

Poppy Venn used her speed at goal attack for Millicent, opening the goal circle and finding goal shooter Keelie Lindner at the post.

Casterton Sandford goal keeper Sarah Richardson applied plenty of pressure, but the ball speed was too much to contain.

Easterby continued to dominate in defence and was well supported Maya Tarrant who rebounded strongly.

The Saints held a 12-goal lead at the half-time break.

They continued to rotate their bench and the Cats made changes at the break, swinging Longhurst into centre. Her battle with Paul was a tight tussle as both players continued to find plenty of the ball.

With Denton back on at goal shooter Millicent was able to break away as Paul fed long balls and Denton finished with nine for the quarter.

Venn combined well with wing attack Jamie Lucas to ensure the Saints extended their lead further at the final change.

The Cats swung the changes for the last quarter and it worked in their favour as it went goal-for-goal.

Then the weather turned bad and the slippery conditions caused both teams to make errors.

Lane scored well for the Cats and Easterby continued to dominate, taking intercepts all over the court.

The Saints finished with a 22-goal win and the right to challenge North Gambier in the title decider.

Best players for the Saints were Easterby and Paul and for the Cats Lane and Patton earned a mention.

13 and UNDER B – MILLICENT 32 d EAST GAMBIER 17

After a tightly contested first quarter the Millicent Saints pulled away in the second half to run out comfortable 14-goal winners over East Gambier and advance to the 13 and Under B grand final.

PRESSURE: Edie Easterby defends Chelsea Hulm. Pictures: FRANK MONGER

Both teams started nervously and early turnovers had the match go end-for-end without scoreboard damage.

The Saints started to find their attacking flow and with goalies Lindy Van Eeden and Brydie Madden finding their range at the post, while centre Prudence Johnson controlled the midcourt.

They took an early four-goal lead.

East settled through the good work of goal shooter Isabelle Cook.

She found her range and combined well with Sailor McCracken at centre, whose speed was a highlight in the midcourt.

Tight defensive pressure from both sides ensured low scoring until Van Eeden found space and finished with seven for the quarter.

Saints defenders Olivia Hales and Audrey Galambus were able to get some important touches and they extended their lead to be seven goals at the main break.

Changes were made at half time and the Millicent mid court utilised its speed.

Lacey Sunderland hit the circle and combined well with Lottie Matthews to find VanEeden, who continued to be the dominant scorer on court.

East's Ava Hosking made some important intercepts and combined well with Olsen, but the Saints were able to extend their lead to 13 at the last change.

With more players rotated by both sides the quarter was evenly contested.

The Saints moved Johnson to goal defence and she read the ball well to take some timely intercepts.

Millicent controlled the ball in its attacking third and went on to win by 15, earning the right to challenge Casterton Sandford in the grand final.

IN FRONT: Lillie Paul claims possession ahead of Madeline Patton.

Mobbs to show class again

17 and UNDER – NORTH GAMBIER v MILLICENT

On the back of a 25-goal opening quarter from newly-crowned association best and fairest Stella Mobbs, North Gambier easily took care of Millicent in the second semi final.

The 23-goal margin suggests this weekend's title decider will again be lop sided and while the Tigers are clear favourites there are a couple of new facts to add into evidence.

In the second semi final Millicent's Poppy Venn and Edie Easterby were unavailable due to injury.

They both returned to the court on the weekend and they strengthen the Saints significantly.

Easterby adds class to the defensive line or the mid court and she was best on court in the preliminary final.

Venn gives Millicent coach Morgen Lindner options – she can take a shooting role or add bite to the mid court.

That is a mid court already blessed with Lillie Paul, who is smart and composed at all times and has the ability to win the ball back, as well as the reliable Jaimie Lucas and tight-checking Bree Watson.

The smarts and long-range accuracy of Abby Denton cannot be underestimated and then there is the defensive grunt of Maya Tarrant and Mackinlee Alcock.

Stopping supply to Mobbs will be the key mission of the Saints.

That will be tough when you have Macey Griffith not only delivering the ball but shooting plenty of goals herself, with the Tigers' goal attack coming off a stunning A Grade preliminary final on the weekend.

The mid court is also all class with Cara Nulty, Coco Mackereth and Tora Jones.

Specialist wing defence Jayme Young has selflessly taken the goal defence bib in the absence of the injured Luca Roulstone and she will go step-for-step with Lynch to limit her influence.

Ava Collins heads up that defensive end and she is more than capable of creating turnovers when required.

The Saints will absolutely narrow the margin but stopping Mobbs and Griffith from posting a winning score just seems too tough an ask and North should prevail.

15 and UNDER A – MILLICENT v NORTH GAMBIER

Millicent was impressive in the 15 and Under A second semi final and while the Tigers had an easy win in the preliminary final, missing captain and star defender Ruby Mitchell for the title decider will do little to help their cause in reversing that 21-goal loss.

The two sides have had some quality battles over the course of the season but the Saints are clear favourites in this battle.

Mitchell is a huge omission and while Raine Darimaani is an athletic defender, her move into the defensive circle alongside the tight-checking Kelsie Anderson, takes her away from the wing defence role she has mastered in 2023.

That being said, the quality mid court of Maggie Collins and Georgia Nulty and the shooting combination of Mischa Human on the hold and Elodie Adam taking on the long-range shot, gives North plenty of quality.

It is just the Saints also have quality in every role on court.

Kalani Dunn has had a break out season in goal shooter and combines well with Mylee Lynch, who has impeccable timing and is accurate on the finish.

At the defensive end, Emily Denton has the height to match Human while Matti Fauchelle has the agility to run with Adam.

The mid court has three players – Piper Paul, Mia Gysbers and Bell Coghlan - who are all smart, have speed to burn and play as hard defensively ad they do with ball in hand.

Millicent not only dominated the second semi final but had they finished more accurately, they may well have won by more.

It is hard to mount a case for the Tigers in this match.

15 and UNDER B – MILLICENT v NORTH GAMBIER

The 15 and Under B grand final looms as one of the nail-biting contests of the day.

When Millicent and North Gambier faced off in the second semi final it took until the final quarter to decide the result.

That was when Tahnee Grosser dominated the attack end for the Saints and Jeda Hibberd and Eva Crowe created some critical turnovers to push Millicent out to victory.

Those three Saints will again be critical in shaping the outcome this weekend.

As will Asha Gysbers, who is a strong and smart player through the mid court, while Emily Walker is a great foil for Grosser, working hard to make good space and accurate on the finish.

Lainie Rainsford, Ella Matthews and Lexi Nicholls round out the mid court for Millicent and give coach Lisa Duldig plenty of options if change is required.

North's shooting combination of 2023 best and fairest Claire Mitchell and Mia Griffith complement each other and if they can get enough supply, the Tigers will be right in the contest.

At the other end, Isabella Stafford anchors the defensive end and with Penny Coleman not available, Raine Darimaani will no doubt take a role in the defensive circle.

Her battle with Grosser could well shape the match.

The Tigers' mid court has the speed of Lily Brook, while Lacey Allen is reliable on the attacking wing and Zoe Dinnison takes care of the defensive wing, with Georgia Nulty and Jenna Baron also available to take a mid court role.

One of the tougher results to predict, but the Saints might just get up in an arm wrestle.

13 and UNDER A – MILLICENT v NORTH GAMBIER

In the 13 and Under A second semi final, Millicent was off to a flyer and dominated the contest.

However, this weekend's decider between the Saints and North Gambier will not be a lop sided contest.

The Tigers found their groove on the weekend with a dominating victory of their own but it was a game which saw many of its key players play themselves back into form.

Millicent is deserved favourites heading into the title decider - not just based on its second semi final performance but because of the quality of the line-up.

Recently crowned association best and fairest Lucy Crowe dominates the mid court and her battle with Jenna Baron will be one of the key contests this weekend.

So will the clash between Saints wing attack Olive Thorne, who is a reliable and composed performer, and Mackenzie Harrold, who comes off a best-on-court performance in the preliminary final for North.

Millicent has speed to burn with Scarlett Zalme and her battle with Grace Collins, who rarely made an error with ball in hand in the preliminary final, will be another crucial match up.

One of the big challenges for North is stopping supply to Amarlie Thomson.

The impressive shooter finished runner-up in the association medal count and she dominated the second semi final, nailing 42 from 46, including an impressive 11-straight goals in the opening quarter.

Thomson is well supported by Indi Coghlan and the Saints shooting duo will test Tigers defenders Amelie Adam and Ava Halloran, who both performed well last weekend.

One of the reasons the Tigers would have a level of confidence heading into the grand final is the form of Carey Grivell and Lacey Hunter on the weekend.

They combined well and finished accurately and will look to put in a strong performance against the tough defensive Saints combination of Lola Ferguson and Audrey Galalmbos, with the possibility of Crowe also heading into the defensive circle.

This will not be a blowout but the Saints will still get the job done.

13 and UNDER B – CASTERTON SANDFORD v MILLICENT

Casterton Sandford will start the 13 and Under B grand final warm favourites, but the Cats will know not to take Millicent lightly.

After a slow start to the season, the Saints have found their mojo and worked their way through the 2023 finals series, building confidence every week.

The two sides are yet to meet in this finals campaign.

For the Cats Adele Murphy and Renee Gorman are a reliable shooting combination.

At the other end, the tall defensive combination of Ylana Grigg - who finished in the top five in both 13 and Under grades at the association medal count - and Zoya Syed challenge all shooting combinations, especially with their dominance in the air, work over the shot and rebounding capabilities.

It is safe to say, though, the Saints are also well equipped at both ends of the court.

The shooting combination of Lindy Van Eeden and Brydie Madden have built across this finals series and come off a strong preliminary final performance, while defensively the Saints have a plethora of options.

Audrey Galambos anchors the defensive end, combining well with Olivia Hales, who also plays an important role on the defensive wing.

Prudence Johnson, who was runner-up best and fairest in this grade, plays mid court and goals as well, while Sophie Walker is a tough one-on-one defender.

The mid courts of both teams are also quality.

Marlee Robbins runs hard both ways in centre for the Cats, while Brooklyn Mutch is a steadying influence on the attacking wing and Georgia Bailey is as tenacious as they come.

Stacey Edwards and Isabella Luers supplement that mid court and give the Cats plenty of options to run fresh legs.

Millicent has the smarts of Lottie Matthews on the attacking wing, Lacey Sunderland's speed in any of the mid court roles and Johnson, Hales and Clara Vella, who is the quiet achiever of this line-up.

This looms as a tight contest with the Cats to prevail in a nailbiter.

No mercy from Magpies

By Trevor Jackson

KALANGADOO 11.14 (80) d PORT MACDONNELL 8.9 (57)

A strong first three quarters handed Kalangadoo a win over Port MacDonnell in the Mid South East football second semi-final on Saturday.

The Demons held the wood over the Magpies after the minor rounds, with two wins from both contests.

However, that made little difference on Saturday as the Magpies simply went about their job on a wet Tantanoola oval and showed why they are the defending premiers.

The Magpies were out of the blocks fast and kept up the pressure until the final stanza, where they fell off slightly, but with the game already in hand.

The consistent effort saw the margin increase at every break, with the Demons only able to make inroads in the final term, when the damage had already been done.

It was also a consistent effort in front of goals, with Jack Casey, Connor Gentile, Ben Gregory and Lachy Jones all contributing two goals each.

For the Demons, only Alex Ridding kicked multiple goals, with three to his name.

The victory gave the Magpies the first grand final berth up for offer and they will now wait for the winner of Port MacDonnell and Hatherleigh this weekend for their opponent and the chance of back-to-back premierships.

For coach Alex Lyon it was a pleasing result for several reasons.

"It was a great result," he said.

"It all came together for us on Saturday.

"Our pressure on the Port MacDonnell players was really good, our tackling count was right up and we chopped off their shorter options around the ground, which was really pleasing.

Apart from that Lyon said the forwards spread well to negate intercept marks, which the Demons had used to good advantage the last time to two sides met.

It was part of a plan to slow the Demons' run and it worked a treat.

"We just tried to negate their run from the half-back line as much as we could and it seemed to work for us," Lyon said.

"But we never got away from them – I never felt comfortable until the final siren went.

"They can score quickly but our back six was tremendous in the last half of the game.

"They set up beautifully and forced them wide and it is a hard oval to score from if you come in wide."

Lyon said the likes of Justin Bromley and James Pratt were pillars of strength, while Mitch Lowe and Matthew Fatchen provided plenty of run.

Also mentioned was the good form of Tom Williams, Sam Casey and Nick Jenkin.

However, Lyon said against a side like Port MacDonnell, you never feel completely comfortable, even with a 33-point advantage leading into the final term.

"The breeze out there was probably a three-goal advantage and they were coming home with the breeze," he said.

"I didn't want to lock down the footy too much and go too negative in that last quarter and give them the opportunity to blast on some goals.

"They are a team that can score quickly so it was a bit tense."

Lyon said the mid-field was also exceptional, but the main contributing factor was the pressure around the ground.

"I think our tackle count was over 70," he said.

"I was really happy with our brand of footy – our last three games have been pleasing.

"It was also a good response since Port MacDonnell beat us by 40 points on our home deck.

"But the thing that did it for us was our pressure."

With a grand final berth now secured and the chance of back-to-back premierships a reality, Lyon said it was no time to relax.

"I don't think it is an advantage going straight through," he said.

"Our last two flags were won from preliminary finals.

"We just have to keep our heads right for these two weeks and if we play that brand of footy again on grand final day, hopefully we can hold the cup up at the end of the day."

Too strong on the court and under the basket

A GRADE - KALANGADOO 51 d GLENCOE 34

Kalangadoo set up its charge to a Mid South East netball flag with a strong semi-final win over reigning premiers Glencoe on Saturday.

The Magpies won the toss and started with the ball, scoring the first goal through Ebony McDiarmid.

The Murphies overuse of the ball in their attack line allowed Kalangadoo to turn the ball over and push out to an early three-goal lead.

Glencoe settled and scored through Chantelle Cocks, with the game going goal-for-goal.

Slippery conditions caused errors by both sides and did not allow for a high standard of netball.

McDiarmid was a focal point in the Kalangadoo circle, shooting 12 from 12 for the quarter and ensuring her side had a healthy nine-goal lead at the break.

In the second term Glencoe broke Kalangadoo's first centre pass and pegged the lead back by two goals.

Scrappy play by both sides meant neither could gain the upper hand.

However, Kalangadoo settled with excellent pressure along their defensive line and great feeding by Jayde Peacock, giving the goalies opportunities to convert and neither let their side down, increasing the lead to 15 at the main break.

The third quarter saw youngster Chloe Peacock step up her intensity to add extra pressure to the Murphies' defensive end.

However, Glencoe was not to be denied and through the strong defensive work of Sarah Edwards and Chelsea Owen, Cocks and Jenna Paproth were given more opportunities to convert.

FOCUSED: Kalangadoo goal shooter Ebony McDiarmid concentrates on a shot.

Strong work by the Murphies saw them peg the Magpies lead back to 12 at the final break. In the last quarter Cocks and Paproth continued to work well in their attacking end, despite the pressure applied by Lauren Kain and Lara Munro.

At the other end of the court Chelsea Owen worked hard to curb the influence of McDiarmid on the game, but her accuracy under the post meant there were few opportunities.

With five minutes to go Donna Jaeschke had to leave the court with the blood rule, which gave talented Glencoe youngster Zoe Mulraney an opportunity to take the court in an A Grade final.

Accurate shooting by McDiarmid, missing just two goals for the game, was the difference in the end.

Best players for Kalangadoo were Jayde Peacock and Kain, with Jaeschke and Owen best for Glencoe.

Roosters up against it

By Trevor Jackson

RESERVES – HATHERLEIGH v ROBE

Hatherleigh and Robe go into battle in the Mid South East football preliminary final on Saturday, with a good case to be made for either side.

With their A Grade side now out of the picture, the Roosters will have even more desire to reach the grand final and face Kalangadoo.

However, the Eagles finished as minor premiers and would surely see the premiership flag as their own, after dropping just one game for the season.

That loss came at the hands of Kalangadoo, providing even more incentive for Hatherleigh to reach the big dance and seek to atone for that blemish.

The Eagles were comfortable victors the last time the two sides faced off in Round 13.

However, earlier in the season the Roosters took the game up to Hatherleigh and went down by just eight points.

It shows the disparity is not too big and the Roosters are every chance to claim the win, especially on their home deck.

But the Eagles should be at their best and claim the win to challenge for the 2023 premiership flag the following week.

UNDER 17.5 – TANTANOOLA v ROBE

Robe will face minor premiers Tantanoola in the Mid South East football preliminary final on Saturday on their home deck.

The young Roosters would be pleased to have advanced this deep, after they finished fourth on the ladder.

They did that by easily accounting for the third-placed Hatherleigh in the first semi-final.

The Tigers were easily beaten by Port MacDonnell, with both Tanta noola and the Demons finishing equal on points after the minor rounds.

That may work against the Roosters, as the Tigers will come out all guns blazing in the hope of another shot at the Demons and subsequently the premiership flag.

The Tigers should claim this one comfortably after an early barrage from Robe.

UNDER 14 MIXED – PORT MACDONNELL v HATHERLEIGH

The Under 14 Mixed grade promises a quality contest to kick off the Mid South East football preliminary final day at Robe.

Port MacDonnell and Hatherleigh go head-to-head and after a big season for the Demons, they would start as favourites.

The Demons claimed the minor premiership, but by just a few percentage points.

The Eagles finished in fourth place and have a big job ahead if they are to face Glencoe in the grand final the following week.

Port MacDonnell holds the advantage after the minor rounds, with two comfortable victories over Hatherleigh.

They last faced off in Round 18 in what was a big win to the Demons.

Port MacDonnell should have no trouble to advance to the grand final, despite a valiant effort by the Eagles.

Robe will look to the experience of players such as James Francisco when it faces Hatherleigh in the Mid South East football Reserves preliminary final on Saturday. Picture: FILE

Last ticket booked to grand final

B GRADE – MILLICENT 38 d WEST GAMBIER 32

The Western Border B Grade netball preliminary final was expected to be a close contest.

It lived up to that hype and the first quarter was a goal-for-goal affair.

It was not until the dying minutes of the game Millicent was able to finally break away and record a six-goal win over a determined West Gambier.

In wet conditions both sides were patient with their entry into the goal circle.

Saints goal shooter Nicole Domaschenz was the focal point in the attack line, using her height and strength to gain an advantage.

She was well fed by goal attack Josie Lang and wing attack Kalli Brown.

At the other end West's Caitlyn Carrail was the playmaker at goal attack and she did a lot of work out front setting the play, while also finished with eight goals for the quarter.

Scores were all tied up at quarter time.

The second quarter remained the same and the midcourt battles continued to be a highlight.

Krystal Coghlan applied defensive pressure through the middle, causing errors in West's attack with her tight checking style and Bianca Jackway was running hard to give her side an advantage.

Domaschenz played her best quarter scoring 8 from 10 and goal keeper Michelle Flemming rebounded any missed shots to help her team take a three-goal advantage into the main break.

Both sides made changes at half time with West bringing on goal attack Elysha Gillies and Millicent's Jordyn Iovino entering the match at centre.

Iovino added speed and teamed well with Coghlan across the defensive centre where they caused errors.

Coghlan picked up crucial intercepts to help her side take a match winning eight-goal lead at the last change.

The last quarter was a tight affair as West made a fight back through the defensive efforts of Brooke Holmes and Daena Wombwell.

Missed attempts at goal by the Saints were rebounded by Wombwell and transitioned through Jackway.

With Gillies finishing well, West closed the gap to four goals with five minutes to play.

The Saints settled in the last few minutes and with Lang finishing the good work they were able to hold on and take the win by six goals.

The Saints now have the opportunity to see if they can match the talented Casterton Sandford to cause an upset in the B Grade grand final.

Top side to be determined

By Trevor Jackson

A GRADE – PORT MACDONNELL v HATHERLEIGH

One last chance remains to make the Mid South East football grand final, with Port MacDonnell and Hatherleigh to fight for the honour at Robe on Saturday.

The Demons fell just short of the chance to fight for back-to-back premiership flags last season and will not want to miss this one.

In contrast, Hatherleigh showed much potential in 2022, but were easily accounted for by Kalangadoo on a woeful day for football, after dissecting the Magpies in the semi-final.

It provides plenty of desire for both sides and equates to a game not to be missed.

Of course the winner faces Kalangadoo and either side is capable of putting on a good display in the big dance.

First they need to get through this Saturday.

The Eagles come off a week's break after easily accounting for Robe in the first semi-final.

The Demons had their colours lowered by Kalangadoo last week and may be feeling the p[inch of a tough hit-out.

The ledger through the minor rounds sits at one win apiece, but when the two sides last faced off in Round 18 the Demons claimed a 26-point win.

Much of that came from the boot of Kev Thomson with four goals, plus league best and fairest Josh Woodall with three.

Woodall has certainly coached his players to perfection, peaking them at the right time of the year.

However, the same could be said of Gerard McGrath.

He has the Eagles in scintillating form right when it matters and with plenty of options up forward, it will be a matter of accurate delivery and Hatherleigh is every chance to advance to the final game of the year.

In that last clash with the Demons, Eagles Louis Brown and Jed Telfer kicked three goals each, but generally they share the goals around down through a long list, as does Port MacDonnell.

Tom Hutchesson may be the ace the Eagles need to control the ball out of the midfield, as he has hit some good form late after an earlier-season injury.

For the Demons, the likes of Ned Wilke and Mark Smith can turn the game on its head, with a strong in-and-under game and fast ball movement back up the ground to the waiting hands of Colby Munro, or resting talls Will MacDonald or Tim Sullivan.

Jack Skeer is always a big focus for the Eagles, along with Brad Mitchell and of course th elist goes on.

A fast start will be required and the Demons do that well, while the Eagles have been known to be tardy in the opening term.

If they can stick to a solid game plan and take the game up to the Demons from the first bounce, it is anyone's guess who will emerge as the Magpies' challenger the following week.

Port MacDonnell should have enough desire and the fast game plan to take the honours and advance to the grand final, but it will certainly be no easy feat.

A big game from Glencoe's Donna Jaeschke will be key to a Murphies victory in the Mid South East netball A Grade preliminary final on Saturday. Pictures: FILE

Preliminary final to be a cracker set up

A GRADE – GLENCOE v TANTANOOLA

The Mid South East netball A Grade preliminary final is set up to be a cracker of a match when Glencoe takes on Tantanoola at Robe on Saturday in what is forecast to be great conditions for netball.

Tantanoola has enjoyed a week's rest after a hard-fought one-goal win against Robe in the first semi-final.

For Glencoe, despite coming off a loss in the second semi-final would be happy with their last half against Kalangadoo. There are great match-ups all over the court.

With the Tigers expecting the return of Keryl Ousey, they have plenty of options in the shooting circle with any of the combinations including Jami Walker and Emma Gould.

The height of Ousey and Gould would certainly cause headaches for Glencoe defenders Sarah Edwards and Chelsea Owen.

They will need to work hard to minimise the impact of the height, but Jami Walker may take the goal attack position, where her speed and accuracy will cause causes headaches for defenders.

Chloe Pfitzner will need to work hard at wing defence no matter which of the Walker sisters she lines up against, as they are both speedy and creative in the wing for Tantanoola.

Casey Walker lined up on the attacking wing in the first semi-final and had a great effect on the game, although this may change in the preliminary final as she could very well line up on the defensive wing. If that is the case, she will work hard to limit opportunities to Alice Tentye.

Kate Varcoe is consistent in the centre for the Tigers and the tussle between her and Donna Jaeschke will be one to watch.

Jenna Paproth and Chantelle Cocks combine well in the circle for the Murphies and might just have the edge on Kate Bromley and Tayla Rowe.

Glencoe should win and earn the opportunity to defend their premiership title.

The expected return to the court of Keryl Ousey could be a game changer for Tantanoola as they chase the chance to contest the Mid South East netball grand final.

A big game from Glencoe's Donna Jaeschke will be key to a Murphies victory in the Mid South East netball A Grade preliminary final on Saturday. Pictures: FILE

Kalangadoo's Georgia Gentile will need to apply plenty of pressure if the Magpies are to be successful in the Mid South East netball preliminary final on Saturday. Pictures: FILE

Association best and fairest Cody Manning will need to be at her accurate best in the goal circle if the Demons are to prevail.

Grand final berths on line

A RESERVE – KALANGADOO v PORT MACDONNELL

Kalangadoo and Port MacDonnell fight it out for a grand final berth against Robe the following weekend in the grand final.

Best and fairest Cody Manning has proven to be an accurate goalie for the Demons and combines well with Kirby Carrison.

Narelle Lewis will use her knowledge and experience to guide her team from the circle edge, feeding her goalies with precision.

Kalangadoo's Georgia Gentile and Reanna Wetherall will need to apply intense pressure in the goal circle, creating turnovers wherever possible and sending the ball back down the court.

Down the other end of the court Port MacDonnell's Nicola Collins and Isabelle Sneath will get their hands over the ball, snapping up any rebounds that come their way, forcing Kalangadoo goalies to earn every possession.

Gina Gogel and Sophie Wrightson shoot with accuracy in the circle for the Magpies, supported from outside by Lucy Williams.

Both teams have been evenly matched throughout the season and this game will see all players battle hard to earn their spot in the grand final.

B GRADE – ROBE V GLENCOE

Robe and Glencoe have had a win each this season and will play off a final time for the chance to face Kalangadoo in the grand final.

Robe's Maddi Wirth and Amanda Culley will create turnovers for the Roosters and send the ball back down the court through Keelin Winterfield and Jade Regnier.

Glencoe's Kayla McInnes and Kate Sealey will need to work hard to shut down the Robe's shooting line-up.

Runner-up best and fairest Ella Mackey is a focal point in the circle for the Roosters, supported by Amy Wetherall, shooting well from a range within the circle.

Amy Cleggett and Hayley Dunsford will fight to keep their players from the circle edge, forcing errors and turnovers where possible for the Murphies.

Both teams have the potential to win and this may be a close game, with either team heading to the Grand Final.

B RESERVE – KALANGADOO v MOUNT BURR

Kalangadoo and M ount Burr face off in the B Reserve preliminary final, wioth the Mag[pies the favourite to head to the grand final.

Kalangadoo's Jodi Greenwood and Maddi Wilkinson work well together in the goal circle, but they will have to work hard to gain possession under the pressure of Dawn Smith and Rebecca Fox.

Any turnovers for Mount Burr will be fed back down the court by Hannah Fraser and Emily Haines.

Down the other end of the court Magpies Gemma Box and Brianna Devine will work overtime to shut down the influence of Sophie Jankowski and Ava Smith-Muhovics in the goal circle for the Mozzies.

Kalangadoo's Rebecca White and Ange Case will fight hard to get circle edge, feeding into their strong goalies under pressure.

Kalangadoo won both times these teams faced each other in the minor rounds and will come away with another win this weekend to play off against Hatherleigh in the grand final.

17 AND UNDER – PORT MACDONNELL v TANTANOOLA

Port MacDonnell battled hard in the second semi-final in trying conditions going down in a close tussle with Mount Burr.

They come up against a talented Tigers side who are hungry for a grand final spot.

Both teams have strong goal circles with Bella Poulish being a focal point and she is supported well by Ebony Cytrowski.

Lara Wilson and Lilly Day shot accurately in the second semi-final and will need to bring this form into the preliminary final as Molly Cushion has had a great season at goal defence for the Tigers and will snap up any rebounds afforded to her under the post.

Sophie Lewis works hard in the mid-court for the Demons and helps her side transition from defence to attack.

Her influence in this area will be needed if the Demons are to gain the win.

15 AND UNDER – HATHERLEIGH v PORT MACDONNELL

Hatherleigh plays off against Port MacDonnell after a loss to Kalangadoo in the second semi-final at Tantanoola.

Both teams have fought hard for their position in the preliminary final, with both teams having secured a win in the minor rounds.

This game will be one to watch and both teams will work tirelessly to secure their place in the grand final.

Hatherleigh's Hannah Bellinger and Poppy Fitzgerald use their height to their advantage in the defensive circle for the Eagles, applying intense pressure to Chloe Day and Bailee Lewis.

Amber Chester and Leni Carruthers will feed their goalies, Kalli Nettle and Chloe Bellinger, with accuracy from outside the circle, but they will be put under pressure by Demons Jasmine Morgan and Isla Fulham.

Layla McPherson and Chelsea Fulham will work tirelessly in the defensive circle for Port MacDonnell, creating pressure and forcing turnovers for their team, feeding the ball back down the court to their goalies.

Both teams will need to give it their all to come away with the win and the honours will go to whoever fights the hardest on the day.

13 AND UNDER – GLENCOE v HATHERLEIGH

Hatherleigh and Glencoe face off in the 13 and Under preliminary final in a showcase of the young talent in the association.

Both teams have had a win when facing off in the minor rounds and will fight hard to win their place in the grand final.

Hatherleigh's Livvi Faulkner and Sienna Clark shoot well in the circle, moving with ease and are supported from outside by Grace Andre and Mollie O'Connor.

Glencoe's Layla Hawke and Annabelle Gordon will battle hard outside of the circle for the Murphies, keeping their opponents off of the circle and limiting feeding opportunities.

Glencoe's Ella Stewart and Hallie Sealey will move well in the circle, shooting with accuracy, but they will be put under pressure by Eagles Tilly Prouse and Luca Hamilton.

This game has the potential to go either way, with both teams fighting for the chance to play in the big dance.

Eagles chase finals glory

A GRADE – PENOLA v KEITH

Penola's A Grade has a good chance of claiming the silverware on Saturday in the Kowree Naracoorte Tatiara grand final.

The Eagles boast plenty of strength around the court, which saw them lose just three games in the minor rounds to finish second behind Keith.

APRIL POSSINGHAM – An ever-reliable goalie is known for her solid strength on her hold and decisively long arms, which make her a formidable force.

She defends with determination to add versatility into her game.

She is an accurate shooter, proving herself as an asset to the side.

TEGAN LYTHGO – At just 15 years of age, Lythgo is the rising star of the side in the goal attack position.

She has made an impressive debut in her first year of A Grade netball, showcasing remarkable growth and development.

Her ability to stay composed under pressure and her precision when taking shots at the goal is nothing short of impressive.

With each game, she continues to prove herself as an asset to the team's success.

KAITLIN EGAN - The ever-reliable mid-courter whose dynamic drive and pinpoint accurate feeding to goalies causes havoc for the opposition defence.

Egan instils control and confidence in her team through her game-play and coaching.

SIOBHAN ADAMS – A dynamic centre player and the essence of versatility, with incredible speed.

Her combination of attributes makes her indispensable, whether she is intercepting passes or setting up scoring opportunities.

CHELSEA GALPIN – A determined and relentless defender who applies continuous pressure on her opponents, making it always challenging for them.

Galpin has a great ability to drive and find space out of defence, creating opportunities for the team to have a seamless transition.

JORDYN ADAMS – The defensive powerhouse of the team is a force to be reckoned with.

With her exceptional ability to read the play, she anticipates moves, contributing significantly to the team's defensive prowess.

BROOKE KLEMM – Klemm effortlessly comes through, cleanly taking balls away with precision.

Not only is she a formidable player, but she also serves as the captain, a leader on the court who inspires and guides the team with her unwavering determination.

Get ready for a tough arm-wrestle

By James Murphy

RESERVES – MILLICENT v WEST GAMBIER

The 2023 Western Border football Reserves grand final is shaping up to be a blockbuster.

Millicent and West Gambier play off for the season bragging rights and if their last encounter is anything to go by, not much will separate them.

The qualifying final had the Saints book the first place in the decider by just a single point, after a four-quarter arm wrestle at McLaughlin Park.

Now the teams take to Blue Lake Sports Park for the game that matters most, with everything on the line and glory up for grabs.

West finished minor premier and had the best of the head-to-head during the home-and-away season.

However, finals are a different beast and the Saints will be determined to go one step better than their runner-up finish in 2022.

Millicent's Nathaniel Robbins was crowned league best and fairest on the weekend and he will be one to watch on the big stage.

He has appeared in the Saints' best players in 14 of his 15 appearances this year and will need to be kept under wraps to prevent him tearing open the game.

The Roos had to take the long way into the decider, with a win over East Gambier in the preliminary final setting up the rematch.

Patrick Rudd comes off an impressive outing, while Bana Say and Guillaume Ros-Smith also stood out last week.

West boasts Reserves leading goal kicker Josh Schapel and he will be looked at with interest on Saturday.

He scored 52 goals for the year and is sure to further his tally in the final outing of 2023.

Schapel slotted four majors in the second semi final against the Saints, while it was Dwayne Phillips who led the charge as the best on the field.

Millicent has its own scoring power, with Joshua Peters (36 goals) and Steven Duldig (33) doing a bulk of the damage this season.

Robbins, Brad Tilley and Jacob Todd put in two goals each to help the Saints to victory in their last meeting, with youngsters Ty Lang and Colby O'Connor impressive against the Roos on that occasion.

It shapes up as another thriller, but Millicent will hold a slight edge.

Saints earn themselves another shot

By James Murphy

UNDER 16 - MILLICENT 10.8 (68) d WEST GAMBIER 7.7 (49)

Millicent's Under 16 footballers have earned themselves another shot at an undefeated South Gambier.

The young Saints faced West Gambier in Saturday's preliminary final, where a strong second-half performance handed them a 19-point win.

A slow start from Millicent allowed the Roos out to an early lead.

A three-goal opening quarter had them out to an 18-point advantage by the first break, before the Saints managed to reel it back in to four points by half time.

The game remained there for the taking and it was Millicent which pushed ahead in the "premiership" quarter.

A four-goal effort to West's one had the Saints leapfrog in front and carry a 12-point buffer into the final change.

They kept their rival at arm's length with another three goals and despite the Roos' best efforts, two majors were not enough to bridge the gap.

It was no surprise to see Cambell Hateley lead the Saints on the scoreboard, with his four goals crucial to the result.

Kobe Gibson also scored well with three majors and he was named second best on the day for his efforts in and around the contest.

However, it was Harrison Thwaites who impressed most and he received the best-on-ground award.

Ashton Lindner, Teej Lawlor, Charlie Damhuis and Zach Ash also performed well, while Curtis Shanks was another multiple goal scorer with two majors.

The Roos looked to Harvey Croker on the day.

He claimed the best-on-ground honours and kicked three goals in a well-rounded performance.

Rhys Newton was another standout, while Brodie Szopory, Owen Feetom and William Pearson rounded out the best.

While West is sent packing, a big challenge awaits the Saints.

South has been untouchable this season and it will take a mammoth effort for Millicent to knock the Demons off their perch in this week's grand final.

Saints set for glory

A RESERVE – Millicent v West Gambier

The margin in the A Reserve second semi final between Millicent and West Gambier, contradicted a tough opening half and was not reminiscent of the clashes between the two sides during the season.

There is no reason to think the margin will be anywhere in the vicinity of that 19-goal margin in this week's grand final.

Controlling the scoring power of Donna Denton, who was named joint association best and fairest at the weekend's medal count, will be priority one for West Gambier. That puts the pressure on Racheal Langford, who was celebrated for her 300 senior games at the medal count, but will take efforts defensively from all her team mates as well.

Langford is a tight-checking defender who will wear Denton like a glove, while her partner in crime in circle defence Maddie Milich will need to do likewise with Abby Denton and Rylee Kenny, as they are the creative goal attacks who feed the ball to the experienced shooter.

Jackie Sunderland is also key with her connection to Denton, as well as her defensive efforts and that is why she was the other winner of the association best and fairest. Her battle with Anna Bosco, who finished in the best and fairest top five, will be one of the key match ups on the day, with Chelsea Tremelling also possibly called on to quell the influence of Sunderland.

Carlee Ransom is another key for the Roos and her battle with Alice Pratt will be pivotal in the final result.

The West shooting combination of Tahlia Earl and Gracie Peterson has had a stunning season. Earl is strong at the post and Peterson strong on the drive, with Saints defenders Nikeisha Facey and Keeley Stuart needing to be at their best. The Millicent defensive duo certainly got the job done in the second half of the second semi final but West's demolition of North Gambier in the preliminary final will see the Roos enter this clash full of confidence.

It will be a much closer result but Millicent should still get the job done.

B GRADE – Casterton Sandford v Millicent

Casterton Sandford will start the B Grade grand final as favourites.

The Cats have a tall goal shooter in Shelby Nolte who has improved every single outing this season. They also have association best and fairest Trictia Cleary, who not only feeds Nolte with precision, but finishes accurately herself. Then there is the mid court of young speedster Amber Balzan, strong driving centre Anna Whillas, experienced wing defender Kerri Harvey and athletic utility Dakota Crawford.

Defensively Emma Grigg leads the charge with her tight checking and ability to get her hands on the ball to create turnovers, with Jess Cousins and youngster Sarah Richardson taking the goal keeper bib to back Grigg up.

Millicent is not without its chances, especially with Michelle Fleming not ruled out due to her second semi final hand injury and ready to take on Nolte.

Fleming will rely on the support of Veronica Duncan, who is a tight-checking defender with good reach, as well as pressure from the mid court, especially centre Krystal Coghlan who will no doubt be damaging at both ends of the court. The Millicent front line will look to find ways to find Nicole Domaschenz in good space at the post, with Josie Lang and Kate Patten taking the other shooting role, while Kalli Brown brings leadership, a strong voice and plenty of smarts to the wing attack role.

It is hard to see the Cats not claim the title but they will be wise not to take a rejuvenated Saints line-up lightly.

Huge effort from Eagles

Penola's A Reserves and C Grade netballers advanced to the Kowree Naracoorte Tatiara grand final after both recorded victories on the weekend.

It completes a huge effort from the Eagles, who now boast five teams in the season decider.

A RESERVES – PENOLA 48 d KEITH 37

Penola claimed a solid win over Keith after a strong first term.

Accurate shooting from the Eagles provided a six-goal lead at the first break.

Keith lifted the intensity after that, but could not claim the lead, as Penola capitalised on errors to maintain the advantage for the remainder of the game.

I a high-intensity game, with some strong passages of play, Penola proved too strong and advanced to the grand final.

Tess Porter was named best for the Eagles, with Melanie Makin best for Keith.

C GRADE – PENOLA 33 d PADTHAWAY 27

It was a closer contest in the C Grade preliminary final, with Penola claiming the honours by six goals after a strong battle.

Penola shooters Stella O'Brien and Eva Manarangi made the most of their opportunities to open an early lead, but Padthaway hit back in the second quarter to close the margin to four goals.

The third quarter was evenly contested with the score 23-21 in the Eagles' favour heading to the final stanza.

Penola's defence took over in the last term and closed Padthaway down to record the win.

Lucy Catlin was best for Penola, with Michelle Maynard best for Padthaway.
