Hub gains ground

By Charlotte Varcoe

Millicent Kimberly Clark Australia (KCA) mill manager Adam Carpenter said hydrogen could be a direct replacement for natural gas.

Hydrogen has remained a hot topic among local politicians recently with Member for Mount Gambier Troy Bell and Member for MacKillop Nick McBride throwing their support behind the proposed Hydrogen and Renewable Energy Bill.

The proposed bill would allow for exploration of renewable energy resources and establish an "effective and flexible regulatory framework" for the "construction, operating, maintaining and decommissioning" of renewable energy infrastructure and facilities for generating hydrogen for commercial use.

The proposed bill would "facilitate economic prosperity and benefits" for the state "through the development of an industry" in generating hydrogen and renewable energy, and "facilitate the grant of licences" to enable hydrogen and renewable energy projects to co-exist with other land uses.

Millicent Kimberly Clark Australia (KCA) mill manager Adam Carpenter said hydrogen could be a direct replacement for natural gas and as a part of paper product manufacturing, and the company used a "lot of energy in drying of the products".

Mr Carpenter said the thermal energy would be replaced with hydrogen with the company having a commitment to reducing its carbon emissions associated with its operations.

"We also have a local commitment as well, we wish to reduce our carbon dioxide emissions through to 2030, so we need to look at ways we can replace carbon-based fuels with renewable fuels," Mr Carpenter said.

"As part of the feasibility study we looked into the establishment of the hydrogen hub and the idea behind a hydrogen hub is that a third party would produce the hydrogen and they would access renewable electricity so that would be via wind farms or solar to generate the hydrogen but it would be used by other users."

He said the idea of having a hydrogen hub near KCA Millicent would be beneficial due to the mill's "large thermal energy consumption".

"We could utilise that hydrogen, but there would also be hydrogen available for other users," he said.

"It would make sense to establish an industry hub around the hydrogen hub and we applaud the support we get from the state government.

"We have had the premier on site and one of those discussions we had with him was regarding our future and how that could be supported by the government for a more sustainable option."

Leaks hit local group

The South East Family History Group (SEFHG) recently announced their popular computer room will be closed for at least two weeks while repairs are undertaken.

Housed in the 'new' primary school on the corner of Short Street and Mount Gambier Road the building recently suffered major leaks during winter rains which affected the computer room.

Wattle Range Council have undertaken repairs to the building's gutters and are now repairing areas damaged by the water.

Plans are underway to replace the carpet in the near future.

SEFHG's library room remains open and planned guest speaker, David Hood, will still appear at the group's monthly meeting Thursday, October 26.

Up to $10k on offer to help with community projects

STAND Like Stone Foundation (SLS) is encouraging Limestone Coast community groups and not-for-profits to apply for its latest round of grants.

Through the Small Grants program, groups could be eligible for up to $10,000 to help with community projects.

SLS chief executive Roger Babolka said more than $68,000 was awarded to community projects in 2022 and he encouraged more people to get on board.

"We have proudly worked in partnership with our region supporting communities right across the Limestone Coast for over 18 years now," Mr Babolka said.

"As funding for these projects comes directly from the community, it's everyone who has ever donated to Stand Like Stone that makes these grants possible."

"Our Small Grants program enables the foundation to respond to the needs of the people and communities of this region, ensuring local projects receive local support."

Applications for the Small Grants program are currently open and will close on October 31.

St Mary's garden will be open this month.

Enjoy the tranquil gardens at St Mary's.

Stop and smell the roses

The delightful country garden at St Mary's Vineyard with its hundreds of roses and many dry-stone walls is a fitting location for the annual Limestone Coast Plant and Trade Fair this weekend.

Open from 10am until 4.30pm, St Mary's will open the gates to their amazing property as part of Open Gardens SA's spring program.

Established in 1937, the Mulligan family have created an impressive property, with the garden taking centre stage. Over the years plants and bulbs suitable for the soil and climate have been planted and now hundreds of roses, bulbs, iris, hardy perennials, trees and shrubs surround the classic homestead and outbuildings, adding colour and texture throughout the year. However, in this garden it is the rose that is queen!

The owners have used sandstone rock and plate from a quarry on the property as if it were nature's Lego, skilfully and painstakingly constructing many metres of drystone walling, pathways, ornaments, ramps, plinths, platforms and in the front paddock, an outstanding trilogy of tree rings.

A passion for fresh seasonal produce has led to the creation of a substantial kitchen garden in what was once a sheep yard. Using permaculture principles, a range of fruit and vegetables are grown both in raised beds and in the ground, with arches for apples and tomatoes making decorative as well as functional features. A shade house is used for growing seedlings and propagating plants.

St Mary's Vineyard will make an ideal setting for the 2023 Limestone Coast Plant and Trade Fair. A diverse range of talented artists, trades and specialist growers will exhibit everything from bulbs to trees, natives to exotics, garden arts, trades, food stalls, wine tasting, refreshment and children's activity area.

Money raised will go to the Country Fire Service.

Entry is $10 , children under 18 is free. The garden is at 563 V & A Lane, Penola.

Hub gains ground: Local hydrogen support

From page 1

Mr Carpenter said KCA had also had discussions around the idea of a hydrogen hub with Mr McBride.

"Renewable energy is the way forward in the region and we have incredible natural resources in South Australia from what we can see with the wind generation here locally," he said.

"The challenge from a renewable energy point of view is being able to have it dispatched 24/7 and for major manufacturers that will always be the challenge because we need it 24/7."

Mr Carpenter said he believed the South East was a "good place for hydrogen" as it would complement some of the industries which were already in the region.

"We are also looking at moving into transport and we have a lot of heavy vehicles in the region with forestry and long haul trucks," he said.

"There are other industries which could use hydrogen as well." Commenting on the bill, Mr McBride said better infrastructure would be needed in order to implement hydrogen in the region.

"All I can say to any government, no matter the colour of their politics, is that we do need good infrastructure across our state so it not only transports energy but is reliable and safe to use 24/7 rather than switching it off because the winds might be too high," Mr McBride said.

He said the bill gave the "opportunity to license and allow the generation of hydrogen using renewable energy".

"Two of those energies obviously are solar and wind," Mr McBride said.

"In the summer months, we do have more sunshine than in winter months and we also have some large industries which would benefit from this type of energy base if it were allowed to stack up."

Mr McBride touched on the Millicent mill and said if there were access opportunities for KCA to use hydrogen and renewable power to "substitute its high need on natural gas". Also in favour of the bill was Mr Bell, who reiterated that he believed the South East was a good regional area for hydrogen.

"I keep promoting the South East as an ideal place for hydrogen generation," Mr Bell said.

"When you think about it, putting electricity through fresh water to separate the hydrogen and oxygen atoms of courts needs fresh water, and you need - if it is going to be green hydrogen - renewable energy.

"The South East is abundant in both of those categories, it has more fresh water probably running out to sea every day than nearly any other part of South Australia and with the renewable energy in solar and wind farms along our coastlines it has abundant renewable energy."

He also supported KCA being the main property for a hydrogen hub and applauded the government for "looking at many areas across South Australia" for hydrogen development.

Running free

The Coonawarra Running Festival will return in November following the inaugural event's success in 2022.

Entries are open now for keen runners and walkers, with distances ranging from one kilometre to 21 kilometres on option.

There will also be a range of activities for non-competitors, including music, market stalls, Show 'n' Shine vehicles and a toddler race for the very early career athletes.

Also returning on the day will be the Wobbly Winery Walk, which will take participants on a trail through the vineyards to taste local wines.

To make sure people make it back safely, participants can also book a shuttle bus service by contacting the Coonawarra Running Festival committee.

Funds raised through the event will go towards mental health services.

The first race kicks off from 8am on November 11.

Paint, sip and sew together

By Caroline Hammat

Bookings are currently being taken for four upcoming Geltwood Festival workshops being held on Saturday October 21 and Sunday October 22.

Mount Gambier's Kerrie Hirst is hosting a two day carrier bag workshop at the Rendelsham Hall.

Geltwood committee member Margaret Hamilton explained what participants would make over the two days.

"It's a bag to hold all of your sewing utensils," she said.

"There are lots of zips and pockets so you can put all your individual tools inside.

"You can hold all of your sewing utensils if you are going somewhere or if you just want to keep them tidy so you haven't got them all over your lounge room table."

The second fabric workshop is being held by Karen Duncan from Millicent.

Ms Duncan will teach participants how they can use their stash of fabric to make a three dimensional wall hanging.

The workshop promises to teach about colour, design, planning and how to break the rules.

Both machine and hand sewing methods will be used.

Margaret Hamilton can be contacted about the workshops and will supply requirements to participants on booking.

The third and fourth workshops see the return of last year's popular sip and paint events by Jacky Morris being held at the Grand Hotel.

Saturday's painting subject is a whimsical close-up of a donkey and Sunday's a blue Fairy Wren.

Both sip and paint workshops are suitable for beginning artists and those wishing to hone their skills.

Children are welcome but must be accompanied by a paying adult.

Bookings for the Sip and Paint workshop is online through Eventbrite or for further information contact Pat Muhovics on 0417 875 305.

The Geltwood Festival is just around the corner.

Saleyards still on agenda

By Charlotte Varcoe

Discussions around the Millicent Saleyards continue, despite Wattle Range Councillors voting to close the yard several months ago.

Expenditure on the Millicent Transit Yards will be deferred until next year and a councillor rescinded a motion detailing a possible flat rate for stock agents to use the facility during a heated debate at this week's Wattle Range Council meeting.

Currently, Wattle Range Council managers are working alongside farmers who wish to utilise the transfer facility for the transport of livestock with the facilities expected to have a $200,000 facelift.

Wattle Range Council chief executive officer Ben Gower noted to elected members during this week's council meeting that procedures and inductions would soon be underway.

He explained the process - which is expected to be implemented in the coming weeks - would include farmers contacting the council office, explaining they wish to use the transfer station.

The farmers would then receive a National Vendor Declaration which would detail the number of stock transported to the facility as well as details of those moving the stock.

Mr Gower stated this was to help biosecurity measures should there be a disease outbreak at the transit yards.

He said the current procedure expected to take place in the future was to charge each farmer $3.50 per head of cattle which moves through the transit yard and about $1.50 per head of sheep.

Farmers would receive an invoice from council at the end of each month.

During this week's meeting, Councillor Moira Neagle put forward a motion on notice that elected members allow four stock agents pay a yearly rate of $500 to utilise the saleyards for transport of stock.

Elected members spoke on the motion - which Ms Neagle later rescinded - with many in disagreement of the original motion despite it being recommended at the June meeting of the Millicent Saleyards Advisory Committee.

Ms Neagle argued it would be a "clean and straightforward" approach and claimed stock agents "wanted to give it a go".

Many elected members disagreed with the motion with Councillor Dale Price stating he was "not comfortable" with the process.

Mr Price told the chamber he believed it was a biosecurity issue and said farmers were responsible for filling out the declaration with council requiring a copy.

He argued council needed to know who was accessing the saleyards and labelled the proposal an occupational, health and safety risk.

"If someone wants to use it [the transit yards] then paying a fee and paperwork is basic," Mr Price said.

He also said councillors were "responsible to ratepayers" for making financial decisions and by having the $500 flat fee they would be providing a multi-million dollar facility "for nothing".

Mr Gower stated council would still need the declaration forms filled out and handed in yet claimed stock agents "did not want" to fill out the forms themselves and it would instead be up to the farmer.

He also shot down the idea of having a mobile phone attached to a number specifically to send photos of the declaration forms.

The Millicent Saleyards continues to be a topic of discussion.

Mr Gower made it clear the declaration forms was so the council would know who was travelling through the transit yards while Councillors Peter Dunnicliff and Emma Castine argued if there was a set fee for the stock agents elected members would not be able to determine whether $500 was "too much or not enough".

Councillor Dennis Muhovics also chimed in on the discussion stating he believed the flat rate was "at least a starting point" for the future of the facility while Councillor Chris Brodie claimed he would prefer to see a per head rate and he "did not think much" of the motion.

Following the debate, Cr Neagle rescinded the motion.

After the discussion, Cr Dunnicliff put forward a motion without notice that the expenditure on the transit yards be postponed until the Wattle Range Council Audit and Risk Committee receive a report in February 2024 in relation to its usage and operation.

Mr Dunnicliff stated he believed this motion was "on the right track" and said he wanted to know whether the facilities had been used and if so, how much stock travelled through the transit yard.

Mr Gower reiterated to Ms Neagle that the process for signage around the yard's new procedures would still go ahead alongside inductions and the declaration procedure.

Councillor David Walshaw said he saw the transit yards as a "risk" and wanted a reasonable time period to look at how much the yards were being used.

Mr Walshaw questioned whether 30 or 40 cattle being transferred through the facility was worth a $200,000 upgrade and said if the yards were "underperforming" the money would be better spend elsewhere.

Mr Gower stated there was minimal risk of injury to users of the transit yards while Mr Price suggested the facilities be locked until new signage and procedures were put in place.

During the debate, Ms Neagle stated in her five years as a councillor she had never experienced more discussion on a topic than the saleyards.

She claimed the "community" was telling elected members they wanted the saleyards and questioned whether council was listening.

Wattle Range Mayor Des Noll interjected, clarifying he believed it was not the entire community stating they wanted the facility to remain open and claimed it was only a small portion.

Ms Neagle reiterated she had not experienced any other issue where people had "come out" other than this.

Elected members voted in favour of Mr Dunnicliff's motion with six councillors voting for and four voting against.

Councillors David Walshaw, Dale Price, Peter Dunnicliff, Richard Cassidy and Chris Brodie voted for the motion while Councillors Moira Neagle, Dennis Muhovics, Sharon Cox and Deb Agnew voted against it.

Council seeking matched cash for next streetscape stage

Wattle Range Councillors were updated on several major projects this week including the Millicent and Penola streetscape, McLaughlin and McCorquindale Park fire services and the Millicent depot shed.

According to a council report, Sprout has completed its work on the streetscape with the next stage being referred to next year's council budget.

Elected members were told council would "seek matching funding" through both state and federal grant programs.

The report also stated officers were awaiting services consultant Lucid to provide the final costing for the preferred ring main and fire hydrant protection method of McLaughlin Park before entering as two separate business cases for future consideration.

This will also be referred to the budget process for consideration in the 2024/2025 budget.

Other major projects included power being connected to the Millicent depot shed and the overhead crane being fully commissioned.

Floor treatment was expected to be applied in the final weeks of September and early October with officers proposing a tour of the new facility towards the end of the month.

The Millicent Swimming Lake refurbishment was also mentioned in the major projects report stating FMG Engineering has been appointed by officers to undertake a technical assessment and prepare aquatic engineering report with detailed scope for the required swimming lake upgrade.

A site survey is expected to take place a geotechnical investigation team scheduled to be onsite October 23 to drill exploratory bore holes and find footing dimensions of the lake walls.

Elected members were also informed that the draft tender and contract documents provided by Norman Waterhouse has been forwarded to Chapman Herbert to consolidate ready for tendering at the end of October 23 for the council service centre.

Blue sparks health talks

By Caroline Hammat

Millicent's newest sculpture of a large hand, installed two years ago on the corner of Williams Road and Ridge Terrace, has turned blue for the month of October.

The idea is an initiative of the Wattle Range Suicide Prevention Network (WRSPN) to raise awareness of Mental Health Awareness month.

Gaining permission from Wattle Range Council the WRSPN purchased blue covers to place over the existing lights which turn the white hand blue at night time.

Secretary of the WRSPN Marg Chapple said

"The network did it this month because October is Mental Health month and we hope it will start conversations.

"It will be lit up for the rest of October."

The hand sculpture is on the corner of the parklands that houses the tree painted blue by WRSPN members in February this year as part of the national Blue Tree project.

Both projects are intended to help spark difficult conversations and encourage people to speak up when they have mental health concerns.

Recently the group also supported Vesta service technician John Hutchison, to light up one of the service provider's wind turbines for the third consecutive year.

The 67 metre wind turbine owned by Engie (Canunda wind farm) was lit up blue for mental health and suicide awareness.

Ms Chapple said there was a good crowd at the event which occurred the night before daylight-saving began.

"Millicent Shares a Plate group supplied free soup for the night and the coffee van didn't charge either but donations were accepted" she said.

"We raised about $280 dollars for the Shares a Plate group."

Mr Hutchisson and WRSPN members Rick Errington and Ben Gower addressed those in attendance about mental health.

"They reminded people to look out for their mates and check in on them," Ms Chapple said.

The sculpture will be lit up all October.

Millicent's Domain marker statement has been lit up blue for Mental Health Awareness month.

Quilters meet for festival

Interested quilters and crafters are invited to attend the Geltwood Festival's Quilting Convention being held Monday October 23rd.

The convention includes a fashion parade and guest speakers including from Adelaide and Robe.

Convention tickets are $20 each and although they are available at the door on the day attendees are encouraged to let organisers know they are coming for catering purposes.

Growers to benefit from China hay trade deal

By Aidan Curtis

South East growers are set to benefit as Australia's relationship with China stabilises, with trade impediments on hay lifted.

In late September, the Federal Government announced hay exports to China would improve with trade impediments in place since 2021 to be removed.

While the Limestone Coast has a diverse range of primary production, Minister for Primary Industries and Regional Development Clare Scriven said the trade news was a great sign for the region.

"Overall, having a positive relationship with China in terms of trade is really important for the Limestone Coast," Ms Scriven said.

"Of course, this follows on from the relaxing of impediments for barley and also for timber.

"There is still quite a lot of work to be done, it's quite important for rock lobster and wine, and hopefully the continued stabilisation of the relationship with China will result in some positive outcomes for those as well."

For the state, the Australian-Chinese hay trade was worth around $33 million prior to 2021, and Ms Scriven said she hoped to see that start to pick back up.

"The China trade relationship is very important and we're glad that it is improving," she said.

Minister for Primary Industries and Regional Development Clare Scriven said the trade news was a great sign for the region.

"Of course our producers will continue to have diverse markets and to pursue diversification of markets going forward, that is simply good commercial practice.

"Through the hard work of the Federal Government, and of course this comes hot on the heels of the Premier's visit to China a couple of weeks ago, so I'm hopeful that the relationship will continue to stabilise."

Our region through a lens

By Caroline Hammat

After 25 years the Wattle Range Photographic exhibition shows no signs of waning in popularity.

The exhibition launched on Friday night and attracted 376 entries by almost 50 different photographers.

On display are framed photos of the winning entries and those awarded merit certificates.

Other entries are displayed in a digital format on large screens in the library.

Friday's launch attracted over 80 people and judge Steve Chapple spoke about the philosophy of the long running exhibition and what makes a good photograph.

Wattle Range council manager libraries and cultural services Janice Nitschke was pleased to see new photographers continue to enter the exhibition and the return of regular exhibitors.

"It's been really good to watch the progression of entrants over the years" she said.

"Last year Catherine Allen achieved a merit award, but this year she was a winner.

"Mary Whitehead has supported us every year and won two prizes and received a merit this year.

"It's great to see Liam Mills and his drone photos as he started his photography here by entering the youth award.

"Now if you drive into Beachport you see his photograph on the entrance sign and that was a result of the photographic exhibition."

Photos are on display for up to six weeks and will be moved from the gallery into the library during the Geltwood exhibition.

Below are the entries awarded first, second and third across ten categories plus the first time winner award.

Price's voice to the fore

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Like many of your readers I was first introduced to my country Liberal Party colleague Jacinta Nampijinpa Price thanks to Sky Television's free to air service for regional Australians.

I remember thinking what a brave woman Jacinta was.

Her common sense contributions were as refreshing as they were authentic.

Accordingly, when my former colleague Nicolle Flint arranged to host Jacinta in Canberra, I made sure I was in attendance.

Jacinta had travelled to Canberra as Deputy Mayor of the Alice Springs Town Council bringing with her a small number of indigenous women who were seeking to raise the plight of remote indigenous women and children.

They shared their personal experiences of domestic violence and child sex abuse and called on decision makers to address the crisis playing out in Indigenous communities as a first order priority.

Sadly, only a small number of Members and Senators made themselves available to hear these first-hand and harrowing accounts. This meeting left me feeling physically ill.

But my nausea quickly turned to anger when I realised that these brave women had travelled to Canberra to ring the alarm on what was happening in remote indigenous communities but the mainstream media had showed no interest in reporting on this event.

As conservative commentators like Peta Credlin noted at the time, if these events were playing out in a suburban context it would have been labelled a national disgrace, there would have been blanket news coverage and action would be taken.

Instead, Jacinta and her fellow travellers returned to Alice having caused barely a ripple on the surface of Lake Burley Griffin.

That meeting is the reason why I support the establishment of a Royal Commission into child sexual abuse in Indigenous communities.

But I think that meeting was the genesis of so much more.

Speaking to Jacinta more recently I understand that the limited number of Members and Senators willing to attend that meeting in Canberra acted as motivation for her to run for Federal Parliament.

I have previously noted the divisive nature of the Referendum taking place on Saturday and from my perspective the damage it is doing to our sense of national cohesiveness.

The one positive, however, is the profile that this campaign has provided to the now Senator.

The campaign for the Voice has elevated hers and I for one think remote indigenous communities will be better for it.

Tony Pasin,
Federal Member for Barker

Supporting community through sizzling snags

Two local businesses joined forces on Friday and Saturday to host a sausage sizzle in support of Foodbank which is the largest food relief organisation on the Limestone Coast.

Staff from South East Property Sales (SEPS) cooked the barbeque which was set up in the Banner Mitre 10 carpark for the two day fundraiser.

Georgia Clarke from SEPS explained it was the first time since covid restrictions they were able to hold a sausage sizzle.

"All proceeds made during the two days go to the Foodbank organisation so we can help support the less fortunate in our community for Christmas meals" she said.

Non-perishable items are able to be donated throughout the year to Foodbank and can be deposited at the branded bin at SEPS.

Foodbank works with local charities, community groups and schools on the Limestone Coast delivering over 400,000 meals every year to those who would otherwise go without in the region.

Supporting the Foodbank sausage sizzle being cooked by Georgia Clarke and Amanda Thomas are the Stephan family, Samson, Matilda, Edith and Lisy.

More news for our readers

A new paper is set to change the news landscape of the Limestone Coast, as SA Today, publisher of The South Eastern Times and Penola Pennant, launches a new masthead.

SA Today, the independent publishers of a number of regional newspapers across South Australia including the Limestone Coast region, have revealed their latest plans to increase local public interest journalism for the Limestone Coast by announcing the launch of a new regional newspaper called Limestone Coast Today.

The new publication will replace the Naracoorte Herald with expanded coverage into Kingston and Robe.

In addition to being a standalone publication, Limestone Coast Today will also form the basis of regional news coverage that will see significant expansion to the Tuesday edition of The Border Watch, the Penola Pennant, South Eastern Times and the Border Chronicle.

Managing director of SA Today Paul Thomas said this expansion will significantly improve the local news coverage for the Limestone Coast region while retaining local news and the legacy of the historic community newspapers.

"We'll be following the proven success of our other major regional publications, The Border Watch, Eyre Peninsula Advocate, Fleurieu Sun and Plains Producer", he said.

SA Today launched in July 2020 when it revived The Border Watch, following its closure by the previous owners, and has subsequently revived The Penola Pennant, South Eastern Times and a second edition of The Border Watch on Tuesdays.

In April, SA Today purchased nine historic mastheads from Australian Community Media, including the Border Chronicle.

Since then, SA Today has already doubled the local news content in those publications and this plan will see them expand further.

The new model allows for the best of both worlds, SA Today managing director Paul Thomas said.

"From October 25, Limestone Coast Today, Penola Pennant, South Eastern Times, Border Chronicle and the Tuesday edition of The Border Watch will all have significantly increased content and we expect them to be more than 70 pages, primarily being local and regional news," said Mr Thomas.

"We will keep a local focus on each of the communities served by the current local papers and we will add comprehensive coverage of relevant news that affects the broader region including regional sport, politics, agriculture, wine and tourism."

"This model allows the best of both worlds - we will still be local, but we'll add a lot more value for readers and advertisers and create a louder voice for the region to connect the community and advocate for better outcomes for the Limestone Coast."

Community helps ID photos

Since February the South East Family History Group (SEFHG) has shared photos from their collection with The South Eastern Times in an attempt to name them.

Around half of the photos which have appeared in this newspaper have now been fully named with several others partially identified.

The SEFHG are thrilled with the responses received which will help preserve history for future generations and are thankful for the assistance.

Included on this page are photos which have appeared in previous editions of The South Eastern Times but their identification remains incomplete.

If you can assist in providing any information about these photos please contact South East Family History Group researcher Colleen Hammat at the SEFHG on Wednesday or Saturday 1-5pm on 8733 1100 (or leave a message) or via email info@sefhg.org.

Local identity Mrs Ethel Kealy who was well known in Millicent for driving her Armstrong Siddeley into town is on the right.
The woman sitting to the left of Mrs Kealy remains unknown.

This photo of five flower enthusiasts shows the women wearing corsages on their dresses as they surround a large floral bouquet.
One woman has been identified as Joan Engel (second from left), the rest of these ladies remain unnamed and the reason for the event is unknown.

This Tantanoola Cave photograph has been identified as a mid 1980's promotional photo for the Tantanoola Caves. Several people came forward with information which has named all but one person. Tantanoola cave manager John Callaghan and his wife Jo (far right), who was a cave guide, and their children Kathryn and Andrew Callaghan seated at the front. Ern Altschwager is on the left with the lady next to him still unnamed. Previous cave manager Verd Lane is in the middle.

Can you identify the truck driver in this photo? The man standing is Des Corcoran who was the member for Millicent from 1962-1975.

This photo, dated February 1980, is partially identified. The man on the left is Mr Gordon but his christian name is unknown and the man on the right has not been indentified.

Liberal party member Hon Harold Allison is shaking the hand of the Tantanoola Miss Showgirl watched on by two young women. Far right is Kate McCourt but the other two women remain unknown.

It is uncertain when this photo was taken or the reason for it but it is believed to be in Millicent. The lady second from left has been identified as Jan Inglis with the rest of the woman remaining unnamed, can you help fill the gaps?

Holiday program lifts off

School holiday activities were in full swing last Thursday with free activities available for local children.

Banner Mitre 10 Millicent offered a pet rock painting workshop and the Millicent library's build an airplane activity proved popular.

Both venues were a hive of activity as children painted rocks and banged pre-prepared wooden pieces together to create their planes.

The Wattle Range Council's Full Throttle in Wattle holiday program continues this week with free activities on offer today, Friday and Saturday.

recipe

Lamb Shank Pilaf

Prep time: 15 minutes
Cook time: 3 hours
Serves: 4

Ingredients:

- 2 tbsp olive oil
- 4 lamb shanks (approx. 400g each), fat trimmed
- 2 tbsp mild curry powder
- 1L salt-reduced beef stock
- 400g can diced tomatoes
- 1 red onion, thinly sliced
- 200g basmati rice
- 350g butternut pumpkin, peeled, diced into 3cm cubes
- 1 small bunch English spinach, trimmed, chopped
- 1/3 cup dried apricots, finely chopped Toasted pine nuts, chopped, mint sprigs, baby leaf

Method:

Sauce

1. Preheat oven to 180°C (160°fan-forced). In a large snap lock bag place half the oil, lamb shanks and curry powder. Season and rub to coat.
2. Heat a large ovenproof casserole dish over medium-high heat and cook shanks, in 2 batches, if necessary, for 8-10 minutes or until browned all over. Add stock and tomatoes and bring to the boil. Place in the oven for 2-2 ¼ hours or until tender and falling off the bone. Remove shanks from sauce and set aside in a large bowl covered with foil to keep warm. Reserve sauce.
3. Heat a large frying pan over medium-high heat, add remaining oil and onion and cook for 3-4 minutes or until lightly golden. Add rice and stir well. Add pumpkin and 4 cups (1 litre) of reserved sauce, stir well and bring to the boil. Reduce heat to low, cover and simmer for 20 minutes or until the broth has been absorbed and the rice is tender. You may need to add a little more sauce or stock to the rice throughout the cooking process. Remove from heat and add spinach and apricots. Season, stir well and replace lid for 2 minutes. Place shanks on top of with pilaf and spoon over any remaining sauce.
4. Sprinkle with pine nuts and mint. Serve with baby leaf salad, cucumber and lemon wedges.

TIPS:

- Either serve the shanks whole on the bone or you can shred the meat off the bone and stir the meat through the pilaf.
- For a quick version of the pilaf use lamb leg or rump steaks instead of the shanks.
- You can buy pre-diced pumpkin from most supermarkets or greengrocers to save time.

Easy Microwave Lemon Curd

Prep time: 10 minutes
Cook time: 7-10 minutes
Makes: Approx. 1½ cups
Difficulty: Easy

Ingredients:

- 3 egg yolks
- 1 whole egg
- ½ cup (110g) caster sugar
- 2 tsp lemon zest
- 2/3 cup (160ml) lemon juice (approx. 2 lemons)
- 125g chilled butter, diced
- Pancakes and blueberries to serve
- 100g Greek feta, crumbed

Method:

1. Combine egg yolks, egg, sugar, lemon zest and juice in a large heatproof microwave-safe bowl. Whisk with a balloon whisk until combined.
2. Add the diced butter and place onto the microwave turntable.
3. Follow manufacturer's instructions to reduce microwave power to 50%. Cook uncovered for 7-10 minutes, stirring every minute until mixture is thick enough to coat the back of a wooden spoon. (See tips)
4. Cover the curd surface with plastic wrap to prevent it from forming a skin. Let cool to room temperature, then refrigerate until cold.
5. To serve, spoon lemon curd onto pancakes and top with fresh blueberries

TIPS:

- Begin checking the thickness of the curd at 6 minutes cooking time.
- Dip a spoon into the curd then run your finger over the back of it. If it leaves a clean line in the curd, it's cooked enough and ready to cool.
- Microwaves vary in type, wattage and size, so cooking times may vary. Use cooking times as a guide.
- Curd will thicken as it cools.
- Spoon into a container, cover and refrigerate for up to 2 weeks

GREAT AUSTRALIAN WALKS WITH JULIA ZEMIRO
SBS, Thursday, 7.30pm

Host Julia Zemiro (pictured) is a purveyor of fine conversation, amiably chatting to her diverse guests who have ventured onto this nature-loving travel series. But, as the final episode lands tonight, if there's anything that viewers can take away from this refreshing amble it's an appreciation for the natural beauty of our great outdoors and indulging in some fresh air and exercise. Tonight, Zemiro concludes her tour of 10 of Australia's most idyllic walks at her old stomping ground in Sydney's Bondi Beach. She meets a local with disarming images from thousands of years ago and catches up with a chess master.

WHY SHARKS ATTACK
SBS, Friday, 7.30pm

Who needs to indulge in the terror of Jaws or The Shallows when there's the spectacle of concerning real-life shark attacks to consider? In this British documentary, a compelling mix of current affairs investigation and scientific analysis tries to answer the question as to why there has recently been a concerning influx of shark attacks around the world. Could growing pressure from humans, including from fishing, tourism and man-made climate change, be changing how these fearsome predators live and hunt? Paddle in with caution: it's not exactly reassuring viewing as recent unusual shark encounters, including in Sydney, are examined.

THE VOICE REFERENDUM
ABC TV, Saturday, 5.30pm

It's a momentous night for all Australians as the Voice Referendum is finally decided. After months of contentious debate and lobbying, the country's vote on altering the constitution to recognise the First Peoples of Australia will be revealed. It's the first referendum for many voters, but just like election night, the meticulous coverage kicks off as the polls close, with veteran analyst Anthony Green and a panel of experts providing updates of the count, as well as analysis of state-wide and regional trends. As the votes are gathered, guests and commentators will share their thoughts before the result is written into the history books.

A YEAR ON PLANET EARTH
Seven, Wednesday, 8.30pm

Host of upcoming quiz show Jeopardy! Australia, Stephen Fry (pictured) is many things: a comedian, an actor, a director, a writer and even a narrator on children's show Pocoyo. But is this thespian now aspiring to be David Attenborough, too? Fry is muscling in on the naturalist's territory as he explores the majesty of Earth. While Fry doesn't possess the poetic turn of words of Attenborough, footage from more than 60 locations almost makes up for it. This four-episode series begins with winter and a polar bear smartening up its cub.

Crosstrek 2.0S Hybrid

By Alistair Kennedy, Marque Motoring

Crosstrek is the smallest of Subaru's three SUVs, sitting below the mid-sized Forester and larger Outback.

It competes against vehicles such as MG ZS, Mitsubishi ASX, Kia Seltos and Mazda CX-30.

While the name is new, Crosstrek has actually been on the Australian market since 2012 as the XV.

Five Crosstrek variants are offered: 2.0L, 2.0R, 2.0S (petrol), plus Hybrid L and Hybrid S, with prices ranging from $34,990 to $45,090 plus on-road costs.

Our test was in the top-spec Hybrid S.

As with all Australian Subaru models, except for the Toyota re-badged BRZ coupe, Crosstrek comes with all-wheel drive.

LED headlights, plus cornering lights, improve visibility at night and add to power savings, while LED rear combination lamps feature a sharp 3-D C-shape.

Rear-view mirrors are smaller, improving aerodynamics and present a less obstructive view.

All Crosstrek variants come with dusk-sensing LED headlights, roof rails and power-folding door mirrors.

Crosstrek 2.0R, 2.0S and Hybrid S also get LED Daytime Running Lights with the top-spec 2.0L and Hybrid L featuring bulb type DRLs.

STYLING

While the general appearance of the Crosstrek is a carry-over from the XV, the bonnet and radiator grille have been updated.

Use of lightweight aluminium for the bonnet contributes to improved pedestrian protection with a softer head impact zone, while aluminium front fenders save two kilograms and optimises weight distribution all round.

While the grille retains the signature hexagonal shape, it's now larger with an aggressively styled honeycomb design.

INTERIOR

The cabin of the Crosstrek Hybrid S has a real premium feel, which it should, given that it will cost close to $50,000 on the road.

It's light and spacious with a friendly soft-touch material on the dashboard and steering wheel.

The front seats are comfortable and supportive with eight-way power adjustment and lumbar support for the driver in the R and S models.

There's good leg, head and shoulder room, although the centre-rear seat position is best suited to young children as expected in a relatively small vehicle.

Boot space in the Crosstrek hybrid is a reasonable 315 litres although it doesn't come with a spare wheel of any sort.

Instead, it relies on a puncture repair kit, a feature likely to deter those who may be considering using the car's AWD and 220mm ground clearance to take it off-road.

Petrol-only models do get a space-saver spare which reduces the boot capacity to 290 litres.

ENGINES / TRANSMISSIONS

Petrol-only Crosstrek variants are powered by the latest version of Subaru's 2.0-litre four-cylinder horizontally-opposed (Boxer) engine, delivering maximum power of 115kW at 6000 rpm and top torque of 196Nm at 4000 revs.

The same engine in the hybrid models get slightly less power (110 kW at 5800 rpm) but the same torque figure.

The electric motor adds 12.3kW of power and 66Nm of torque and is self-charging, capturing kinetic energy through regenerative braking and coasting.

The electric motor is placed near the vehicle's centre of gravity, while the battery and other components are positioned above the rear axle, providing balanced front/rear vehicle weight distribution.

Drive from the e-Boxer engine is sent to the all-wheel drive system through a CVT automatic with seven-steps for manual override.

The cabin of the Crosstrek Hybrid S has a real premium feel.

SAFETY

Although it's yet to undergo ANCAP testing the outgoing XV scored a maximum five stars and with a comprehensive range of safety features the same rating is likely for Crosstrek.

Standard features in all variants include nine airbags, blind spot monitoring, front side radar, lane change assist, rear cross traffic alert, rear parking sensors, reversing camera, reverse automatic braking, driver inattention warning, tyre pressure monitoring and Isofix child seat anchor points.

R and S variants add front and side view monitors, high beam assist and a 360-degree camera.

Standard across the range is Subaru's EyeSight Driver Assist system which includes adaptive cruise control, autonomous emergency braking, numerous lane control and pre- collision alerts and braking assist features, speed sign recognition and speed limiter.

The two hybrid models also come with a pedestrian alert system.

INFOTAINMENT

Crosstrek combines an 11.6-inch infotainment touchscreen in the centre of the dashboard with a 4.2-inch Multi-Information Display (MID) in front of the driver.

The central screen is in portrait mode. It has large buttons and fonts and is within easy reach of the driver.

There are physical knobs for the audio system and, although the climate controls are on the touchscreen they can be adjusted with a minimum of distraction.

Wireless Apple CarPlay and Android Auto smartphone connectivity are standard across the range.

The nine-speaker Harman Kardon audio system provided excellent sound reproduction.

It's standard in the two S variants with the lower-spec models getting a more basic six-speaker system.

Likewise, embedded satellite navigation is only available with the top-spec S petrol and hybrids.

All models get USB-A and USB-C ports in the front console and there are also USB charge ports in the R and S.

Subaru Crosstrek is a sensible small family SUV.

A wireless Qi smartphone charger is standard.

DRIVING

Unlike most other hybrids which start silently and smoothly under battery power, the Crosstrek Hybrid's engine kicks in immediately, taking away much of the appeal of the EV component.

That means missing out on the instant torque that's such an appealing feature of electric vehicles.

On the plus side the engine will shut down when the vehicle is coasting or in slow-moving traffic and run solely on battery power.

The e-Boxer logic adjusts the power split between petrol and electric to match driving conditions.

It automatically changes between three modes: Motor Assist EV driving; Motor Assist electric (EV) + petrol engine driving and engine-only driving.

The lower centre of gravity and greater rigidity provides excellent driving dynamics, both on and off the bitumen.

When cornering, there is little evidence of body roll and it doesn't get fazed by rapid changes in direction.

The electric power steering is well-weighted and provides plenty of feel on both bitumen and loose surfaces.

The steering wheel is both reach and tilt adjustable.

Crosstrek's 220mm ground clearance is regarded by many as being the minimum for a genuine off-road vehicle.

You wouldn't call it a genuine 4WD in appearance, but under its station wagon body it's close to being one.

SUMMING UP

XV was a consistent seller for Subaru throughout its decade on the market.

There's no reason why the more-sensibly named Crosstrek won't continue that trend.

It's a relatively conservative vehicle designed for couples or small families with all the latest in safety features.

While its ground clearance and all-wheel drive means that it can cope with moderate off-road conditions.

Subaru is at pains to describe Crosstrek Hybrid as a 'mild' hybrid and it falls a fair bit short of the sub-5.0L/100km fuel consumption figures that we're used to from Toyota hybrids such as the similar-sized Corolla Cross.

On the combined urban/highway cycle, Crosstrek hybrid uses a claimed 6.5L/100km compared to 7.2 L/100km for the petrol model, making it hard to justify the $3600 surcharge.

At the same time performance is hampered by the hybrid's extra weight.

Back-to-back for triples

A strong turnout of players graced the Millicent Bowls Club's greens on Sunday to contest the annual Triples Championships.

All games up until the grand final were played over 15 ends, with the grand final played over 18 ends.

In the women's category, six teams took part and the grand final saw Robin Rolfe, Carol Gibbs and mac macdonald up against Joy Warren, Elaine Goode and Sarah Ross.

The Ross team came out on top to claim the Triples Champions honours for the 2023/24 season.

The men's championship saw 10 teams entered.

The grand final came down to the teams of Jim Campbell, John Scudds and Kym Stewart, up against reigning Triples Champions, Steve Skeer, Aaron Emonson and Ben Masters.

At the 13th end the scores were sitting at 12-all, but then the Masters team was able to break away to win the next five ends and claim back-to-back Triples Championships.

Women's runners-up, mac macdonnell, Carol Gibbs and Robin Rolfe.

Rain or shine, 24 bowlers still took to the green

Frank Cooper and Iain Campbell claimed the overall win with a score of 33+10.

South East claims third

From page 32

Similarly, the Under 17's gelled well and although a little rusty in their first hit out, grew into the competition as the rounds continued.

Sarah Brown and Will Cameron had plenty of close games across the tournament.

Overall, the South East won 95 sets and finished in third position.

The Adelaide Hills-Fleurieu region dominated many age groups and was even undefeated in some categories, amassing 148 sets to take out top spot. Individually, Annabelle Gordon, Thomas Handbury and Brown were recognised for their sportsmanship and won the aptly named awards for their respective grades.

South East was also well represented throughout the finals of the individual competition on Friday, with several players securing their spot on the state team.

That team will travel to the Gold Coast in December to compete against the other states.

INDIVIDUAL RESULTS

- Under 12: Annabelle Gordon (runner-up); Thomas Handbury (runner-up).

Renzi ready for top role

By James Murphy

Thomas Renzi is set to coach Millicent's A Grade football side in 2024. Picture: JAMES MURPHY

A Familiar face will take the helm at the Millicent Football Club next season, with Thomas Renzi to coach the A Grade team in 2024.

Renzi is no stranger to the top job, having previously coached Mount Burr in the Mid South Eastern Football League, while he co-coached the Saints alongside Clint Gallio this season and assisted in 2021 and 2022.

He has been a prominent voice in the leadership of the club since he joined at the end of 2019.

Now he looks forward to his next endeavour.

"I am looking forward to it and I am excited, it should be good," Renzi said.

"We are going to do a few things both on and off the field a bit differently.

"I think that is important just to keep things fresh."

Renzi takes the reins on the back of an impressive period at Millicent, with last month's grand final win completing a three-peat of premierships, while the club has also won four of the last five Western Border flags.

However, he said the pressure of expectation was not weighing him down.

"Pressure is a privilege," Renzi stated.

"You don't get pressure unless you are doing something right.

"You can either crumble under it or you take it onboard and do something with it."

The junior talent will remain a key focus at the club and Renzi is excited to see it continue to develop.

"I am really excited about the young fellas we have," he said.

"We are not going to go out and try to reinvent the wheel - we have talent there we want to keep and I think that is the future of the club."

In terms of recruiting, there were a few conversations being had already.

"I have a few people that we are speaking to currently, but I am also conscious that it takes one person to ruin a club," Renzi said.

"You can go and recruit someone from Adelaide and it can cost you $600-$700 and you lose three or four of the kids at your club."

That is a price Renzi was not prepared to risk, with those kids and their families more important to the club's longevity.

"We are going to put a good little committee around the juniors and I work closely with the coaching groups at every year level," he said.

"If they are developing, understanding and playing the way we do in senior footy, it is easy for them to come up and they can fit right in."

Renzi will be assisted by premiership captain Jacob Carger.

"I am looking forward to working with Cargs as assistant coach this year," Renzi said.

"It is something he is interested in and something I think he will be good at.

"He also coaches the Under 18's and he is well respected by the kids."

Renzi said the club would enjoy a slightly prolonged break before hitting the training track closer to the new year.

Teamwork counts

A four-ball-better-ball stableford event was the format for the Millicent Golf Club women last week, with 16 keen golfers taking up the challenge.

The format sees teams of two each play their own ball and the teammate with the best score counts as the team score.

Making the most of it for the win were Annie MacLennan and Karen Lock, who signed for 47 points.

Janet Watson and Carmel Cory were runner-up with 43 points after a count-back.

Mary Winser and Sue Agnew were ball winners with their 43 points, while Kirsty Bailey claimed the nearest the pin on the third hole, along with a birdie.

Nearest the pin second shot on the 17th hole for handicaps 25-54 went to Janet Watson, while Bec Shanks claimed the honours on the fifth hole for handicaps from 32-54.

South East in top three

A squad of 28 Limestone Coast tennis juniors represented the South East at the State Foundation Cup last week.

The six-region competition was held for the 10th consecutive year at the Berri Tennis Club and continues to act as a key pathway event for regional players and coaches alike.

The latest edition did not disappoint, even with less-than-ideal weather conditions, and the South East finished a respectable third overall.

Rain hampered preparations for the team event, but matches started on time in cool, damp conditions with only the Under 17's forced off mid-fixture when the rain returned at the end of the first day's play on Tuesday. On Wednesday, windier conditions added a challenge for players, but a full day of action was completed with all age groups hotly contested.

Matilda Lush, Phoebe Bonney-Dowson and Ryder Telford fought tremendously in the Under 11's while every player in the grade benefitted from the experience. Paige Telford improved greatly over the course of the week in the Under 13's and Hamish Gordon performed consistently despite only just returning to action after breaking his leg in July.

Harrison Ellis thoroughly enjoyed his first taste of action on the grass and all members of the successful Under 15's - who finished runners-up – supported each other well.
