Top winemaker

A Coonawarra winemaker is on cloud nine after taking out top honours at a national awards ceremony.

Penley Estate winemaker Kate Goodman made history when she became the first person from Coonawarra to win the Halliday Wine Companion Winemaker of the Year award.

Ms Goodman said the award was evidence that Penley is on the right track, with the winery also being shortlisted for Australian Winery of the Year.

"Since the beginning, Bec and Ang Tolley have given me the complete support and encouragement to turn things on their head, and push to the point of failure to really work out what our vineyards can do," she said.

"That's incredibly rare and offers me and our team the opportunity to create great things.

"Winning this award and being shortlisted for Winery of the Year is recognition and confirmation that we are on the right path, and we don't have to keep second guessing ourselves."

Penley Estate co-owner Ang Tolley said the award was well-deserved, with Ms Goodman obviously looking to invest in the winery's vision.

"Kate's leadership, together with viticulturist, Hans Loder feels as though we have taken an almighty breath of fresh Coonawarra air and we are totally inspired to continue to push boundaries and create," she said.

Halliday Wine Companion chief editor Campbell Mattinson said Ms Goodman's achievements at Penley were "quite astonishing".

"It's rare - if not unheard of - that a winery do everything well," he said.

"And yet somehow Kate is producing everything from the avant garde to the traditional to an exceptional standard.

"She's obviously getting people excited about Penley but I'd also go so far as to say that she's turning people on to Coonawarra itself."

It was a good weekend for Limestone Coast wineries, with Padthaway's Landaire Wines also winning two award for the estate's 2021 Chardonnay, grown and bottled in the upper south east.

Carolyn and David Brown, of Landaire Wines, are celebrating with their team after their wine won the Chardonnay of the Year and the overall White Wine of the Year for the 2024 edition of the Halliday Wine Companion.

Mrs Brown is a former CSIRO research scientist and said the vineyard is well suited to producing a Chardonnay.

"The soil is our greatest asset, allowing us to manage the vines to produce a small crop of flavourful grapes," she said.

We pick the grapes on flavour... I love the acidity in our wines."

Mrs Brown said that the award was unexpected and a great surprise.

"Our wine brand is quite small, and we only make a certain amount of bottles but have a wide variety of what we produce," she said.

Mrs Brown said that the vineyard and label has been in work since the space was purchased and she and her husband are very proud of where it is today.

The Halliday Wine Companion Award was the first for the vineyard.

"We recieved 98 points (out of 100) for the Chardonnay and won that category, and then the top white wines went against each other for the overall White Wine of the Year, which we were thankful to receive," he said.

"Our wine from this little part of South Australia went up against wines from around Australia."

Dear Ed,

The neurological damage from the forever chemicals and others, is well documented now after years of cover ups, and class actions are continuing against the chemical manufacturers. (Watch "Blackwater" starring Mark Ruffalo).

Noosa was the first community in Australia to become plastic free and now others are joining the Boomerang Alliance.

Google "The Boomerang Alliance" to see the National Plastics Plan 2021 which includes banning polystyrene packaging, micro fibre filters on new washing machines, and a global agreement to remove plastic pollution from the environment.

PVC packaging labels and non certified compostable packaging products, cigarette filters, Takeaway food containers and much more, are under the spotlight.

The ABC "War on Waste" episodes showed us the challenges faced in Australia and also the heart-warming efforts currently being undertaken by volunteers to deal with this gargantuan problem.

Many people are still storing soft plastics following the collapse of the Red Cycle scheme in the hope that further processing infrastructure will be built quickly.

Compostable BPA free bags and wraps are available and if your supermarket doesn't have them, ask them to get some in.

The costs to society of plastic pollution includes environmental clean ups, eco system degradation, shorter life expectancy and medical treatment which exceeds $100 billion per year so it would be good to see all communities in Australia joining the Boomerang Alliance, because once chemicals in plastics and cardboard have been reduced to micro particles they are still causing damage to all

Hatherleigh woman killed in Furner crash

Major Crash are investigating a fatal crash at Furner last week.

Just before 2.45pm Sunday, August 6, emergency services were called to Conmurra Road after a Toyota sedan rolled.

Sadly, the driver and sole occupant, a 85-year-old Hatherleigh woman, died at the scene.

Conmurra Road was closed for several hours while Major Crash officers examined the scene, but has since reopened.

Anyone who witnessed the crash or captured it on dashcam footage is asked to contact Crime Stoppers on 1800 333 000 or report online at www.crimestopperssa.com.au – you can remain anonymous.

The woman's death is the 73rd life lost on SA roads this year, compared to 45 at the same time last year.

Penola remembers

By Aidan Curtis

The Penola community paid tribute to a fallen soldier as part of a national remembrance service to honour individual losses from the Vietnam War.

On Thursday, August 3, members of the community gathered at War Memorial Park to remember the loss of David Steen, a Penola resident who was killed during the Vietnam War on February 18, 1968.

The service came as part of Vietnam Veterans Vigil's (VVV) national push to hold memorials for individual soldiers who lost their lives during the war ahead of Vietnam Veterans' Day on August 18.

Steen was the only soldier from Penola killed during the conflict.

Coonawarra and Penola RSL president Peter Degaris led the memorial service, which included poems read by Penola High School students.

Mr Degaris said it was important to remember all those who fought and died for Australia, even with all the protests that surrounded the Vietnam War at the time.

"Whilst we did our service in Vietnam, we were pretty well protected from all the protests that were going on," he said.

"Looking back, it's important to remember that a fair proportion of those in Vietnam were national servicemen and they did their duty to the country.

"When they came back, in most cases, there was thanks given for our service."

During the service, Steen's niece, Angela Gartner, was invited to lay a wreath at his memorial.

Ms Gartner said though she did not have a chance to know Steen, it was still very special to see people gather in his memory.

"It's lovely to see everyone out here, and especially the kids," she said.

"I don't know how much they know about the Vietnam War, so it's just really good to see everyone here.

"I didn't know David, so I'm a bit overawed by it."

Both Mr Degaris and Ms Gartner thanked all those in attendance for being there on the day.

Spirit producers look to export strategy

South East spirit distillers will target international markets through the development of a state-wide export strategy.

The State Government has granted $50,000 to Distillers South Australia (DSA) to develop a new export strategy for businesses that produce spirits.

Through the grant, DSA will help producers enter new markets and build on existing partnerships, while also establishing an international trade event expected to be held next year.

South East brandy producer Majella Wines welcomed the news, with owner Brian Lynn expecting the strategy to help build exports to Asian markets.

"China, Hong Kong and Singapore in particular are interesting markets that South Australia can work to sell product into," Mr Lynn said.

"Obviously trade shows are an important way to do this, but it is also about having people on the ground."

Mr Lynn said interest in dark spirits appears to be growing and he hoped to be able to capitalise on that.

"I hope that Australian brandy, which had a huge market share prior to the mid 1970's, will see a revival," he said.

Department for Trade and Investment director of trade Tim White said it was pleasing to see the export strategy develop as it had a lot of potential benefits for South Australia.

"Assisting more distillers access and grow in international markets will deliver jobs and growth for the state's economy," he said.

"It will also showcase our world-class spirits offering to global consumers, enhancing South Australia's reputation as a premium beverage producer."

MAJELLA WINS BIG

Majella Wines has won big at one of the biggest and oldest regional wine shows last month.

The results of the Cowra Wine Show were announced on Saturday evening and Majella's wines stood out.

The 2021 Majella "The Musician" was awarded the Imperial Hotel Trophy for the Best Dry Red Blend, and the 2021 Composer secured three trophies - the Breakout River Meats Trophy for the Best Cabernet Sauvignon, the Benedict Cowra Quartz Trophy for the Best ed Wine of the Cowra Wine Show and the Trophy for the Best Wine of Show.

Fatality at Bordertown

A teenager has died following a fatal crash at Senior near Bordertown on Tuesday night.

At 6.45pm on Tuesday, August 8 police were called to Senior Road, about 17km north of Bordertown, following reports of a single vehicle rollover.

The occupant of the Toyota Hilux, a 17-year-old boy from Senior, sadly died at the scene.

Major Crash Investigators attended from Adelaide to examine the circumstances of the crash. The teen's death is the 74th life lost compared with 46 at the same time last year.

Major investment planned

By Caroline Hammat

An ambitious goal to modernise the Millicent Golf Club continues with doors currently being replaced with large glass sliding doors allowing wheelchair and disability access.

Upgrades have been made available due to a $28,800 grant from the State Government's Thriving Communities Program.

The club has 12 months to complete the project which includes a deck at the front of the clubrooms accessible to all.

But the club has not stopped there with plans and grant applications are underway for a $500,000 dollar project to further upgrade course facilities.

Club president Mark Pilmore spoke to the South Eastern Times about the club's goal to improve course irrigation and fully automate the watering system.

"Watering is a costly exercise every summer, it's a very labor intensive exercise" Mr Pilmore said.

"You lose a lot of water during the daytime due to the wind, and there is overwatering and underwatering.

"It's very archaic and a fulltime job.

"Unfortunately we have just lost our greenkeeper, Colin Vanderheul.

"He has been with us for 15 years and decided to retire, his last day was on Monday."

The retirement of Mr Vanderheul has left the watering as a completely volunteer job with Mr Pilmore saying they have people organised to head out at 6am to water the course with the use of sprinklers.

As part of the project on-course toilets and an all-weather undercover driving range are also in the planning stages.

On-course toilets will bring the course in line with many others that already have these facilities with a toilet planned for each of the front nine and back nine holes.

Members of the Millicent Ladies Golf are already on board and helping with the fundraising which they believe is important to encourage more women to play.

At Fosters Foodland is Bec Shanks selling raffle tickets to help raise funds for the golf club's on-course toilets with June Whitehead happy to support the cause by purchasing tickets.

Heidi Muhovics and Bec Shanks have only been playing golf for the last 12 months but are helping with the fundraising.

"It takes about four or five hours to do the course and toilets are common on other courses," Ms Muhovics said.

"Fundraising and grants will hopefully get us there, we are just going to keep going until we can do it.

"We are at the preliminary stages with other fundraisers in the works."

Ms Shanks said it would be a big benefit to the course.

"Instead of having to go in the bush in the middle of summer when there are snakes around," she said.

Mr Pilmore believes the planned undercover driving range will also be a game changer for the club and open opportunities for golfing workshops and schools to use the facilities as part of their sports programs.

"It's a lot of fundraising and a lot of work," he said.

"But everyone at the golf club are really hard working volunteers.

"It is a big investment, but we're going to do it to keep moving forward."

Advocates to tour region, speaking up for mental health

By Sophie Conlon

Mental health advocates Ben Pettingill and Mike Rolls will visit the Limestone Coast this week and next to host several community events to help normalise conversations around mental health and suicide.

Mr Pettingill, who lost 98 per cent of his vision at 16-years-old, said he and Mr Rolls, who lost both his legs to meningococcal at 18-years-old, would share their stories of overcoming adversity.

"We're just a couple of blokes who have been through some st, have been through some tough times, just as all of us have, and we're going to share a bit about it," he said.

Jokingly referring to themselves as Legless and Blind, Mr Pettingill said the visit to the South East would form part of their wider mission of bringing awareness to regional and rural communities.

"We have partnered with Ski for Life, a South Australian charity focused on promoting mental health wellbeing and suicide prevention, to deliver what we have called their Mates on a Mission program," he said.

Mr Pettingill said the sessions would be relaxed and conversational and not too serious with lots of laughs.

"It's not your stereotypical mental health information session, that's for sure, especially when it's delivered by two blokes called Legless and Blind," he said.

"That's pretty intentional because quite often when you've got a mental health information session you don't get the people coming that probably need to come.

"That's why we do it a little bit differently and why we pitch it as a story telling night where you'll hear our own personal stories of overcoming adversity."

In sharing their stories, Mr Pettingill said they would talk about the good and bad experiences they had had.

Mental health advocates Mike Rolls and Ben Pettingill will deliver several community events to help normalise conversations around mental health and suicide. Picture: SUPPLIED

"We will share some of the challenges that come with that, also some of the opportunities and the laughs and some of the lessons we've learnt along the way," he said.

"Some of those lessons include looking after yourself, looking after your mates and not being afraid to ask for help when you need it."

Mr Pettingill said the sessions would be appropriate to anyone and everyone in the community.

"Our target audience is anyone that experiences a tough time in life from time to time and that can be big, small, any shape or size," he said.

"Most of us go through a tough time every now and again so therefore it is appropriate for everyone."

He said the sessions would encourage people to band together and keep battling to make it through to the other side.

"Sometimes the most important thing is just sitting and listening, you don't have to give advice, you don't have to have the solutions, you don't have to fix the problem, you've just got to be there and start the conversation," he said.

During the week long visit to the region Mr Pettingill said he and Mr Rolls would also deliver 15 sessions across seven Limestone Coast schools, including Millicent and Penola, which would have a different focus than the public sessions.

"They will be based on our lived experience, but it's more interactive, we involve a lot of activities, high energy, music," he said.

"The four key messages there are about building a team, leaning on your mates, calculating your control, and taking one step at a time."

There are three free community sessions confirmed at this stage, with another expected in the region on Tuesday, August 15.

Confirmed public sessions, all beginning at 7pm, are Thursday, August 10, at the Port MacDonnell Football Club and; Friday, August 11, at the Ary front bar.

Cop station future unclear

By Charlotte Varcoe

There remains no plans to reopen the Kalangadoo police station with residents and Wattle Range Councillors now calling for the vacant police house to be repurposed for other government workers.

The police station has been unmanned since 2017 with former Police Minister Corey Wingard originally citing a statewide review of regional policing service delivery.

Since then, there has been no announcement of the review and the Kalangadoo station remains closed.

Alongside the police station, a dedicated home for an officer in Kalangadoo has remained vacant since the decision was made.

Wattle Range Councillors discussed the decision at this week's chamber meeting following a string of correspondence from local politicians.

Police Minister Joe Szakacs wrote to Member for MacKillop Nick McBride confirming there were "no current plans" for the office to be reopened.

"I can reassure local residents, however, that the Kalangadoo area police response continues to be served by police officers based out of neighbouring police stations of Millicent, Penola and Mount Gambier," Mr Szakacs wrote in the letter.

"Police response to the area is based on identifying and deploying the nearest patrol to an incident, regardless of the police station of origin or shift commencement."

He also stated Minister for Infrastructure and Transport Tom Koutsantonis was responsible for reallocating the vacant home for other government workers, stating the home was "considered a single location" for the Government Employee Housing program and thus he could not utilise the home for employees outside SAPOL.

Wattle Range Council Mayor Des Noll with Kalangadoo resident Jane Fetherstonhaugh call for the SAPOL home to be changed from a single government home to multi-government home.

Kalangadoo resident Jane Fetherstonhaugh initially wrote to a number of Limestone Coast politicians regarding allowing other government workers to live in the home.

"There was someone in the home for the first few years after it was built and that was the town policeman but since then there has not been anyone," Ms Fetherstonhaugh said.

"We would just like to know one way or the other what will happen and if they are going to close the station then just close it.

"Everyone has resigned to the fact the police station will not reopen but given the house is a fairly modern new house with nobody in it and there is a shortage of housing for key workers it makes sense."

She said following the recent announcement of four new key worker houses being built in Mount Gambier, she believed the Kalangadoo home could be open to all government workers rather than just police officers.

"The house could be supporting a worker in any of the surrounding towns and the people of Kalangadoo just want to know and want something done with the police station and the house," she said.

"It is disappointing not to have a dedicated police officer and it has been talked about with the police review being underway since 2018 but it is still not out."

Ms Fetherstonhaugh said while the review was underway the house had been sitting empty, labelling it as an "absolute waste".

"Hopefully we can get a family in there and kids can go to the primary school here," she said.

"We have all the facilities and it is a great little town and it will bring a family into the community.

"We need an answer and the house needs to have someone in it and if they are not going to use it then sell it to someone who will come into town."

In a statement provided to this publication, Mr Szakacs said the "strategic deployment" of police and operation resourcing was a decision undertaken by SAPOL.

"SAPOL have advised me they have no plan to change the staffing arrangements in place since 2017 at the Kalangadoo Police Station," Mr Szakacs said.

"The State Government and SAPOL are dedicated to ensuring those who live or visit the South East are as safe as they can possibly be.

"The Limestone Coast Local Service Area proactively responds to emerging trends to best dedicate resources to form a collaborative approach to ensuring community safety."

During this week's council meeting councillors elected for Mayor Des Noll to write to the relevant ministers to advocate for both the home and police station to be changed from a single government used facility to a multi-government use facility or if not possible for the station to sell it for further use.

Members for MacKillop Nick McBride supported the change of the housing facility and said he would work with the government to advocate for it.

"I have seen this police station empty for nearly all my political term and we have not been lucky enough to have a police station there because I think it is too close to Mount Gambier," Mr McBride said.

"Now it has been exhausted, the house and infrastructure there would be better served by other government workers and I will do everything I can to make sure that will happen if the police station will never be policed again.

"The next step will be working with the ministers to see what we can do whether it make amendments so the house can be taken up by other government sources like health or education."

'Weathering the storm': Ups and downs of wine industry

By Charlotte Varcoe

The state's wine industry continues to struggle with market access, over supply, supply chain issues and an increased cost of production yet Coonawarra Vigneron president Dan Redman says the Limestone Coast region was "weathering the storm" better than other areas.

Mr Redman said although other regions found themselves in difficulty - with some grape growers and producers walking away - the Coonawarra region was not facing as many challenges.

"Coonawarra is not immune from issues but the region is weathering the storm better than other regions," Mr Redman said.

"We are facing challenges but not as much as others and there is a little bit of light at the end of the tunnel with China lifting tariffs on Bali and politicians stating the next tariff target is the wine industry."

Shadow Minister for Regional South Australia Nicola Centofanti said she had been made aware of a number of concerns from vineyard owners following a number of factors including market access, over supply, supply chain issues and increased cost of production.

Coonawarra Vigneron president Dan Redman says the Limestone Coast region was "weathering the storm" better than other areas.

Ms Centofanti said due to these issues

there was a risk of vineyard owners walking away from their land.

"What this will create is a potential biossecurity risk as well as potential biohazard for various regions," Ms Centofanti said.

"In addition to that it would mean what was once productive land now becomes unproductive and for the viability of our regions going forward I think it is important to keep that land productive."

Ms Centofanti said she had called on the State Government to provide greater support for growers so the land and owners could stay productive.

"Whether this includes support to stay in the sector or support to diversify agricultural or horticultural practices on their land," she said.

"It is about keeping our region and land production."

She said she had been made aware of issues in the Riverland, McLaren Vale, South East and more areas.

"Growers are doing it tough and they are facing one of their toughest periods in living memory," Ms Centofanti said.

"They would like some support in terms of allowing them to either stay in the wine grape sector or to leave the industry with some dignity and diversify into other practices."

Councillor Moira Neagle and Toby the dog collect the bags of damaged potting mix donated by a local business.

Inspiration growing

By Caroline Hammat

In October last year the call went out over social media from Wattle Range councillor Moira Neagle to help beautify a short laneway among the shops in Kentish Place, Millicent.

With the blessing of the complex owner, Dave Foster, Cr Neagle placed a small collection of potted plants in the space and encouraged others to join her.

Located between Shearer's Cook Cafe and Odd Socks Laundromat, the laneway is used as a thoroughfare by those accessing businesses from the rear carpark.

It has become a thriving patch of greenery softening the stone, pavers and asphalt environment with Cr Neagle and others continuing to add to the initiative.

Inspiration for the project came from a segment on the ABC Gardening show which featured a Sydney laneway the local residents were beautifying.

"My first thought was of McLaughlin Way but I decided it was a bit large and decided to start small," she said.

Keeping a regular eye on the pots and plants and making sure they are watered when needed Cr Neagle is delighted the idea has grown and said "we lose plants, but gain more."

Community support is also growing with South East Property Sales offering funds from their Community Funnel for larger pots and planters and Banner Mitre 10 Millicent recently donating unsaleable damaged goods which are to the project.

"I got a message from Mitre 10 offering some damaged pots, torn bags of potting mix and some plants that need TLC.

"I'm really thrilled, it was just a little idea that is growing," Ms Neagle said.

Drivers nabbed

Limestone Coast Police detected a number of recent traffic violations.

About 2.45am on Saturday 5 August, a 32-year-old Mount Gambier man recorded a blood alcohol reading of 0.160 when pulled over on McArthur Street, Mount Gambier.

He was reported for drink driving and issued with a 12-month instant loss of licence. His vehicle was impounded for 28 days and he will appear in court at a later date.

About 4.20am on Saturday, a 32-year-old Mount Gambier woman was stopped by police on Wireless Road West, Mount Gambier.

She recorded a blood alcohol reading of 0.161. She was reported for drink driving and issued with a 12-month instant loss of licence.

Her vehicle was impounded for 28 days and she will appear in court at a later date.

Just after 5pm on Saturday, a 44-year-old Mount Gambier man recorded a blood alcohol reading of 0.079 when he was stopped on Crouch Street, Mount Gambier.

He was reported for drink driving and will appear in court at a later date.

About 9.20pm on Saturday, a 64-year-old Mount Burr man was stopped by police on Mount Burr Road, Millicent.

Police checks revealed the man's driver's licence was disqualified. He was reported for driving disqualified and his vehicle was impounded. He will appear in court at a later date.

Just before 1.30am on Sunday 6 August, a 38-year-old Mount Gambier man recorded a blood alcohol reading of 0.097 on Yahl Road, Glenburnie.

He was reported for drink driving and lost his licence on the spot for six months.

He will be summonsed to appear in court at a later date.

Buffalo Dundee opens up

By Caroline Hammat

A Beachport man has recounted his story of a run-in with a buffalo which left him injured.

Since 2015 Beachport resident Gordon Sargeant has spent a substantial part of each year living close to nature at King Ash Bay in the Northern Territory's Gulf Country.

Last month, the 73 year old was collecting firewood with two friends about a kilometre from their King Ash Bay campsite when he was charged by a wild buffalo and gored.

The shocking incident has left Mr Sargeant shaken, injured and incredibly grateful to his friends, Stevo Nicholls and Roger Smith, who played a crucial role in saving his life.

Sited on the bank of the McArthur River in the heart of remote Borroloola fishing country, the area attracts hundreds who enjoy the camping facilities on offer.

Mr Sargeant loves the lifestyle and although he travels up by himself most years for four or five months he said he's never alone.

"I go up as a one man show but that doesn't mean I'm on my own because I've got that many mates doing the same thing.

"My camping setup is very crude, practical and simple.

"It does me, I go up there and enjoy myself fishing."

Mr Sargeant, who camps with Mr Nicholls and his partner Karen Huntley on their block, was joined by Beachport resident Roger Smith.

The trio of men were collecting firewood and saw the buffalo running past Mr Smith's Land Cruiser but were out of its line of sight.

Once the buffalo passed the vehicle, it did a quick u-turn and charged the group of men who were about 10 metres away from their vehicle.

"We heard this noise and didn't know what it was," Mr Sargeant said.

"It sounded like horses galloping and all of a sudden it was there.

"I was in the middle and received the full impact of the initial head butt.

"Stevo was on my right and also was hit and received bruises and Roger got some scratches as well.

"I was knocked to the ground and the buffalo proceeded to impact my right leg with his head while using his left horn to thrash around my lower legs.

Face to face with the estimated 500 kilogram beast Mr Sargeant said he managed to keep hold of its right horn to protect his stomach and chest.

"Stevo was shoulder to shoulder with the buffalo," he said.

"I was on the ground and just fighting, but he was physically facing it, beating it and trying to save me."

At one stage Mr Sargeant was tossed upwards and received a puncture wound penetrating his lower right buttock with the tip of the horn exiting higher up.

Mr Sargeant said he did not know what had happened or feel it at the time.

It was at that moment when Mr Nicholls grabbed a piece of wood and hit the animal on the neck and back which gave him the opportunity to haul his friend off the ground.

Mr Nicholls later recalled his friend felt like a feather when he was dragging him to his feet.

They found shelter behind a small tree with Mr Smith which offered minimal protection as the men dodged the horns of the buffalo which wrapped around the trunk.

"It was ramming the tree and that's where Stevo says we were dancing around to miss the horns.

"Stevo was throwing me around, telling me to stay on your feet.

"Any individual on their own in those circumstances wouldn't have survived."

With the three men behind the same tree, Mr Smith decided to run to the Land Cruiser, this manoeuvre distracted and confused the buffalo which then ran off.

It was only then the extent of Mr Sargeant's injuries was realised and the trip to Borroloola's medical clinic began.

"The Land Cruiser did not have wings but we flew into Borroloola," he said.

"There was no way of calling for an ambulance because there's no phone service.

Gordon 'Buffalo G' Sargeant with national newspapers featuring his incredible story.

Australian aeromedical charity Care Flight transporting Gordon to Darwin Hospital from the remote township of Borroloola.

"When I was within range I phoned them up and said we're coming in with a buffalo injury."

Mr Sargeant spoke highly of the Care Flight team who took three hours to arrive at the Borroloola airstrip and medically evacuated him to Darwin Hospital.

He credits Care Flight for preventing serious damage as Thigh Compartment Syndrome was starting to develop, which could have caused irreversible muscle and neurovascular damage.

Unable to bring himself to contact his wife Yvonne Sargeant back in Beachport, Ms Huntley made the difficult phone call.

"I was extremely shocked and horrified," Ms Sargeant said.

"My phone was home on charge while I was busy doing church flowers and then I saw all these messages when I got home.

"My heart absolutely sank of course."

Miraculously, Mr Sargeant spent only four days in the Darwin Hospital before spending time recuperating with Beachport friends Mike Coonan, Dianne Roach and Heather Burdon who were staying in Darwin.

Less than two weeks after the attack, Mr Sargeant flew back to the South East where he was met at Mount Gambier airport by his wife Yvonne.

With a thorough checkup undertaken and his dressings changed at Mount Gambier Hospital, he was able to return to his Beachport home.

Mr Sargeant is still recovering and may have a greenstick fracture to his lower left leg. He has completed a course of heavy duty antibiotics, but still has many grazes from the incident and will remain scarred.

The incident has resulted in national media coverage with the story featuring on the front page of the NT News and the Advertiser printing a cartoon by their editorial cartoonist, Peter Broelman.

Mr Sargeant has said the incident will not prevent him from returning next year.

"We're living with nature, I'm not upset about the buffalo, we're in their environment," he said.

"It's an open site and not fenced off from wild animals.

"Crocodiles are close to the camp but there is a high embankment and they are on the other side of the river.

"That's how we live.

"I always thought crocodiles were going to be my worst enemy, not the buffalo."

Since recovering, Mr Sargeant has contacted Care Flight to thank them and ask if there was any fee for their service.

"There was absolutely no cost to me, because it's mostly voluntary," he said.

"I've actually ended up donating because they are looking for donations all the time."

Care Flight are holding their annual Hangar Ball fundraiser next week where Mr Sargeant is likely to make a pre-recorded video appearance telling his story.

"The main thing I want to do is to thank everyone sincerely," he said.

"The King Ash Bay Fishing Club and community, and especially Stevo and Roger who saved my life."

Craft group president Raz McDonald with group members Julie Hoffmann, treasurer Emelia Tidy, Judi DePamphilis, Sandy Hamilton, Anna Jones and Pearl Ransley have already begun knitting and crocheting for the ambitious project.

Yarning leads to big idea

By Caroline Hammat

A Spanish laneway in Malaga is the inspiration for the Millicent Craft Group's latest Geltwood Festival project.

Craft group member, Maria Seiler, recently shared a photo of the laneway with members during their regular Friday coffee catch up at the Shearer's Cook Cafe.

The European laneway is decorated with brightly coloured crocheted work which has been joined together to form a sunshade.

Ms Seiler suggested the group could undertake something similar in the laneway next to the coffee shop.

Since October last year, the laneway has transformed from an empty thoroughfare to a growing oasis of greenery from a potted plant project initiated by Councillor Moira Neagle.

President of the MCG Raz McDonald said Moira has put so much work into that area.

"We want to highlight it, the plants look great," she said.

"We loved Moira's idea and have enough people involved to join the large work together, but we do need help in making smaller pieces.

"It is a matter of use what you've got, don't go out and spend money."

Ms McDonald said they have a basket of yarn at the Shearer's Cook Cafe for anyone to use and contribute to the project.

People can knit or crochet any shape or size as long as they use acrylic yarn due to its longevity and lighter weight.

"The idea is to be as colourful as possible and for people to enjoy what they are doing," Ms McDonald said.

"If people give those pieces to us we will get it together.

"That will be the biggest task because it will become quite heavy.

The group have discussed the installation with site owner Dave Foster who is supportive and will assist in ensuring the work is safely attached to the walls.

It is not known how long the installation will remain in place but once it starts to show signs of damage and wear it will be removed.

This year's Geltwood Festival is scheduled for October 20 to 23.

Tune in to classical music

By Tyler Redway

Local singer Naomi Summers will be returning to her home in the Limestone Coast to help bring a unique genre of music into the regional spotlight for the Close to Home Project in Coonawarra.

The Close to Home Project is a program which explores the range of classical music which features the work of South Australian composer Pamela Walker OAM and a variety of renowned poets such as Adam Lindsay Gordon and Max Harris.

Ms Walker was a gifted composer and vocal teacher, who founded the Southern Heritage Singers in 1993, which Ms Summers became a part of during her time as a student of Ms Walker's.

Ms Walker sadly passed away in 2021, as Ms Summers now hopes to bring her knowledge she had gained over the years to revive Ms Walker's music and teachings.

Ms Summers originally grew up in Mount Gambier and learnt the classical music genre from Ms Walker, which inspired her to pursue music further in Melbourne, where she now resides.

Ms Summers said she always had a passion for music while growing up, adding she had always been a part of school choirs or constantly sang around the house.

She said it was a great thing to be able to express the value and beauty of this genre of music with the knowledge and skills she had gained from her years as a singer.

"For me coming home to perform is always special because I am performing for people who know, love and support me and have always done that through my career," Ms Summers said.

"Performing regionally personally for me from growing up in a regional community, I find audiences are very warm and appreciative to hear music which is rarely performed in the area."

Ms Summers had been a part of the Southern Heritage Singers for 10-15 years, which she said helped to build a connection with the music Ms Walker taught her and other peers.

She said she would like to continue touring classical music regionally in order to give the genre itself and Ms Walker's teachings more exposure.

"Like many of the other singers of the region who studied with Pamela and remembers the Southern Heritage Singers, this music really connected a community of singers and I can say personally I have some lifelong friends through the connections of Pamela and this music," she said.

"It is really personal for me to be able to come home and perform this music with colleagues and friends from Melbourne.

"I would like to do more regional performances because not only is this music beautiful but also I would like to share it with more audiences to get more exposure for it and give opportunities for other people to perform this music as well."

The Close to Home Project will kick off at Parker Estate in Coonawarra on August 26 at 7pm.

Ticket information can be found on Ms Summer's website.

Naomi Summers will return to Coonawarra later this month to help share the teachings from her former mentor Pamela Walker and to ensure the classical music genre can be enjoyed by all.

Art of brewing on show

By Caroline Hammat

For the first time a newly established artist studio in Hatherleigh opened to the public for this year's South Australian Living Artists (SALA) festival.

Selena and David Smith moved to the historic home in the township with Selena's parents, Elizabeth and John DeKoke, seven months ago.

The family has settled into the district and set about converting an old barn into a working artist's studio on one side and a home brewery on the other.

The unique SALA event is titled Nest and includes drawings and sculptures by Ms DeKoke, photography by Mr DeKoke and paintings by Ms Smith.

Outside, a path leading to the studio, winds its way through a garden installation of nests created from natural foraged and upcycled items.

"It's been going really well, I'm really pleased with the local support," Ms Smith said.

"People have come from 50 minutes away because they've seen the brochure or the article in the paper.

"It's been a good networking event to integrate with locals and other artists.

"We will be able to build on SALA and make it a bit bigger for the region next year, and we've all sold something which is nice.

"It's nice to see people still believe in the arts and what it can do, and come and have some time out."

Ms DeKoke agreed and said they have had people through everyday.

"That is reassuring and I've got to thank all those for backing us," he said.

Included as part of the event, for three days only Mr Smith, gave brewers talks about his personal beer brewing journey over the last 30 years which led to the creation of Blanket Flat Brewing.

In an hour long presentation Mr Smith set about demystifying the brewing process and explained the art of brewing beer in simple terms.

The impressive home-brewery includes the old Grand Hotel wooden fridges installed and in use.

Further work is planned with pizza ovens being built, and development approvals, liquor licensing and ATO approvals to become a producer underway.

Mr and Mrs Smith both talked about creating a community through their combined interests of brewing and the arts in the future.

"I'm not in the business of becoming a millionaire from this, but my philosophy is the community," Mr Smith said.

"We have talked about, once a month, let's have people around.

"You can drink beer if you want, or wine or water or whatever you like.

"We will open the place up, put the pizza oven on and spend some time with people as a community activity."

The Old Barn Studio is located at Thyme

Cottage, 6 Third Street, Hatherleigh and Nest the exhibition remains open until August 16, 10am-4pm daily.

Ms Smith is also exhibiting at Gallery 54 in Penola in her solo exhibition titled From his garden and mine - after Giverny.

Ann Carpenter, Kirsten Johnston and Andrea Bartetzko at Friday night's exhibition opening of Heartlines.

Exhibit open

By Caroline Hammat

Three Limestone Coast artists joined together for this year's South Australian Living Artists (SALA) exhibition at the Millicent Gallery.

It is the second time within the last three years the close friends have exhibited together at the site.

50 people attended the opening of Heartlines which was opened by Wattle Range Council mayor Des Noll followed by the three artists who each spoke about their practice.

Glencoe's Ann Carpenter works from her home based 'art shed' and spoke about the generational influence on her art career.

Exploring lately how to say more with less in her acrylic and ink figurative work.

Kirsten Johnston is a Mount Gambier artist and said she makes "art from the heart."

"The things I love about art making are the materials, I love the canvas, I love the paint, I love the tools I use to get the two of them together" she said.

"It's quite random, it's fun, they don't always work out but they are a lot of fun trying."

The three are long term friends and Andrea Bartetzko from Worrolong praised her fellow artists.

"We have a wonderful friendship and spend many happy days in the studio where we just play, chuck stuff around, have some champagne, have some food and just enjoy the sort of art play," she said.

"It's really important and I just love them to bits."

Ms Bartetzko spoke of the joy in her latest body of work for Heartlines which reflects her love of the local landscape and annual camping visits to Robe.

The artists acknowledged the assistance of Peter Dunn, Carol Baxter and Julie Ann McEwen in curating the exhibition.

Heartlines remains on display until September 19.

Looking into the history of Sharam Cottages

In association with State Heritage, Penola's branch of National Trust SA has developed a mobile phone app called SA Heritage, to enable people to learn more about historic sites within Penola on self guided tours.

The following is one of the subjects from this app:

SHARAM COTTAGES

English-born Christopher Sharam sailed to Australia and in 1845 arrived in Portland, where he worked for the Henty brothers as a bootmaker, and as a hut-keeper guarding the sheep flock at night from the safety of a 'watch-box'

In 1848 Christopher Sharam was 29 and working for Donald McArthur on Limestone Ridge Station as a bootmaker when he married 15 year-old Ellen Patching, a shepherd's daughter from nearby Glenroy Station. With no local Anglican priest available they travelled 120 miles of winding track through dense bushland to Portland where they found their only option was to be married by the Presbyterian minister.

They moved to Penola in 1850 at the invitation of Alexander Cameron who was keen for Christopher to set up a boot-making business. Here in Petticoat Lane Christopher built this two-roomed cottage with a bark roof and walls of vertical slabs cut from the blackwood trees on the banks of a nearby swamp.

Their second son William, born here in 1850, was thought to be the first white child born in Penola. This 'tiny pale pink bundle was a source of wonderment' to the nearby Aboriginal women who would steal him away to their camp and suckle him.

Christopher built the second cottage of sawn slabs in the mid-1860s to accommodate his growing family of fifteen children. In 1875 he was elected Warden of St Mary's Anglican Church, a position he held until his death in 1890, following which a marble memorial was erected in the church.

Ellen was 16 when her first child was born and 41 when Alice, the last of the fifteen children, arrived. She at first lived through extremely difficult times but later became healer, adviser and confidante to many and became affectionately known as 'Granny Sharam'.

The cottages remained in the Sharam family, with descendant Sarah, known as 'Granny Davis', being the last to live there until 1941 when they were purchased by Bob Fennell. The Penola Branch of the National Trust of South Australia purchased this State Heritage Listed property in 1981.

The Petticoat Lane experience, of which these cottages are a part, is very popular with people visiting from all over Australia and indeed the world.

- 250g Queensland Strawberries, hulled and halved

Method:

Making the Pastry:

- Place the flour, butter, sugar & salt in a food processor.
- Pulse in the food processor until the mixture resembles breadcrumbs.
- Add the two egg yolks & vanilla bean paste whilst blending, then add 3-4 tbsp of chilled water until the mixture comes together.
- When the mixture just combines, stop the processor & form a disc in your hands. Wrap in cling wrap & chill in the refrigerator for 1 hour.
- Preheat oven to 180°C fan-forced (350°F).
- Grease & line with a circular disc of baking paper a 28 cm loose-bottomed tart pan.
- On a surface with a large piece of cling wrap underneath (you may need two pieces joined together), roll the pastry until it is round & 4-5mm thick, using a dusting of flour occasionally.
- With the cling wrap still attached to the pastry, carefully lift the pastry & gently flip into the tart tin pastry side down. Trim the edges by pressing down with the heel of your hand.
- Chill for 10 minutes in the freezer or 20 minutes in the fridge.
- Remove the cling wrap, prick the pastry with a fork then line with baking paper & fill with pastry weights.
- Blind bake your pastry for 10 minutes. Remove pastry weights & baking paper then bake for another 5-10 minutes, until just cooked through.

Strawberry Filling:

- Whilst the pastry is baking, make the filling.
- Place butter, sugar & vanilla in an electric mixer & beat until butter mixture is light & creamy.
- Add eggs one at a time & make sure they are fully incorporated before you add the next.
- Finish by adding the almond meal & mix through gently.
- Spoon this creamy Frangipane mixture evenly over the pastry, smoothing out the top when finished.
- Place the strawberries over the top of the almond mixture, pushing slightly into the batter. Finish with a scattering of slivered almonds.
- Bake for 35-45 minutes until it has turned a golden brown on top. Cool in the tin for at least 30 minutes before serving with fresh cream, vanilla bean ice cream or Greek yogurt.

Notes:

- Don't skip the resting/chilling process. It is essential to stop the shrinkage of your pastry. You can also make this pastry a day or two in advance, simply keeping it chilled in the refrigerator as a rolled ball, wrapped in cling wrap.

When you need a Strawberry dessert that looks and tastes the part, you can't go past this classic Strawberry & Almond Tart

Spinach, Ricotta & Egg Torte

Serves: 6

Ingredients

Spinach filling

- 1 tbsp olive oil, plus extra for greasing
- 1 small onion, finely diced
- 1 large stick celery, finely diced
- 1 clove garlic, crushed
- 3 x 250g packets frozen spinach, thawed and squeezed of excess moisture
- 150g firm ricotta

- ½ cup (40g) grated parmesan
- ½ tsp lemon zest
- 1 egg
- Salt and pepper to taste

Ricotta filling

- 500g firm ricotta
- ½ cup (40g) grated parmesan
- Salt to taste
- 4 whole small eggs, plus 1 beaten egg for glazing
- 2 sheets shortcrust pastry, just thawed
- 1 sheet butter puff pastry, just thawed

Method:

Spinach filling

- Heat oil in a large non-stick frying pan over medium-high heat and add onion, celery and garlic and cook for 3-4 minutes until softened but not coloured. Transfer to a mixing bowl and cool. Stir in spinach.
- Add ricotta, parmesan, lemon zest, egg and season with salt and pepper. Mix well and set aside.

Ricotta filling

- Mix together ricotta and parmesan. Season with salt.

Assembly

- Place a baking tray onto the middle rack of the oven and preheat to 220°C fan-forced. Grease a 21cm x 9cm (base measurement) loaf pan with oil. Line with baking paper, making sure to leave a 5cm overhang on both long sides.
- Place a shortcrust pastry sheet onto a lightly floured work surface. Cut the other sheet of shortcrust pastry in half. Attach it to the first sheet by brushing one edge of the pastry with beaten egg, overlapping sheets by 5mm and rolling over seam with a rolling pin to secure. You should now have 1 ½ sheets of pastry attached together.
- Use a rolling pin to carefully place pastry inside

- loaf tin, lining the long sides with pastry and gently pushing into the edges of the tin. Brush edges with beaten egg.
- Cut remaining shortcrust pastry in half across ways to line the ends of the loaf tin. Press overlapping pastry to join the pastry together.
- Brush egg wash all over the base and sides of pastry. Spoon cooled spinach mixture into the tin and smooth out. Add ricotta and press down evenly. Make 4 holes along the top of the ricotta. Crack an egg into each hole. Brush all the edges with beaten egg.
- Cut 2/3 of the puff pastry sheet to make the top. Place onto the loaf and press down gently over the egg. Trim off excess pastry from the edges.
- Pinch and fold over edges to seal. Cut out leaf shapes from remaining puff pastry and arrange over the top. Glaze the top with remaining beaten egg.
- Place loaf tin on preheated baking tray and cook for 15 minutes. Then reduce temperature to 180°C (fan-forced) and cook for a further 45 minutes. If pastry is browning too fast, cover the surface with foil. Cool completely in tin.
- Serve warm or cold.

YOUR WEEKLY TV GUIDE

HOARDERS SBS Viceland, Friday, 8.25pm

Most of us can't stand living in a messy home, but there's something transfixing about peeking into the abodes of those who can't bear to part with any of their possessions. After almost 15 years of eye-opening episodes, this US series is still powering through the rubbish and rubble. Whether it's a cautionary tale or an insight into how a stash of stuff can grow and take over our lives, it's a fascinatingly grim snoop into the complexities of mental health. Featuring cleaning expert Cory Chalmers (pictured), who has been with the show since its beginning, it's often hard to witness. Tonight, we meet Tim, an avid recycler of sorts, whose materials have taken over his home.

THE SOUNDTRACK OF AUSTRALIA ABC TV, Tuesday, 8.30pm

Do you remember the Golden Record? In 1977, a record of Earth's sounds, which documented the diversity of life here, was sent into space with NASA's Voyager probes. Now, inspired by this celebratory act, nature journalist Dr Ann Jones (pictured) sets out to create her own version of a golden record of Australia. Across two episodes, beginning tonight, tune in for a captivating journey into the sounds of our unique country. The search begins with the cicada, the chorus of an Australian summer. Dr Nathan Emery reveals the power behind this tiny creature's call. Jones also meets didgeridoo maker Kristian Benton, exploring the instrument's unmistakable sound.

WOLF SBS, Wednesday, 9.40pm

One of Game of Thrones' most memorable bad guys, Iwan Rheon - who played the twisted Ramsay Bolton - stars in this gruesome new crime thriller. It's based on Mo Hayder's novels and anyone unfamiliar with the source material might be taken aback by this moody-then-unexpectedly-gory British six-part series, which doesn't stick to the conventions of any genre. The story follows young detective Jack Caffery (Ukweli Roach, pictured), who is obsessed with finding whoever killed his little brother more than two decades ago. Featuring three story threads, along with two other police officers played by Rheon and Sacha Dhawan (Doctor Who), it's not for the faint-hearted.

PICK OF THE WEEK

GREAT AUSTRALIAN WALKS WITH JULIA ZEMIRO SBS, Thursday, 7.30pm

After strolling into the hearts and homes of notable Australians in the long-running Home Delivery, which finished last year, Julia Zemiro (pictured) makes her highly anticipated return to presenting in this 10-part series. The Fisk star brings her trademark sincerity and wit as she explores 10 of Australia's most beautiful and significant bush walks. Featuring guests including Mental as Anything's Pete O'Doherty, Blue Heelers' Tasma Walton and world champion surfer Pauline Menczer, as well as surprising and enlightening archival footage, this trek through nature and history is a breath of fresh air. In this premiere episode, Zemiro arrives by ferry in Sorrento, before setting off on a 14km hike around Point Nepean.

Motoring

Electric, compact SUV

By Alistair Kennedy, Marque Motoring

Although the name BYD will be well-known to electric vehicle buyers, it's still largely unknown in the Australian motoring mainstream – but that's about to change.

Somewhat quirkily BYD stands for Build Your Dreams and the Chinese company is actually the world's second-largest manufacturer of fully-electrified vehicles, second only to Tesla.

When plug-in hybrids (PHEV) are added, it's the largest, with over 1.6 million built in 2022.

Although there were a couple of BYD models sold in Australia from 2017 onwards these were private imports.

It wasn't until the arrival of the Atto 3 in June, 2022 that the brand made any impact, and an impressive one at that, with sales of nearly 7000 in its first year.

A fully-electric compact SUV, the Atto 3 comes in two variants.

There's Standard Range and Extended Range, priced at $48,011 and $51,011 respectively (plus ORCs).

That's around the same price as its closest competitor and compatriot, the MG ZS EV which also comes with standard and long-range variants.

With a length of 4455mm, Atto 3 is around the same size as Mazda CX-3, Nissan Qashqai and Toyota CH-R – but 135mm longer than the MG.

Although the overall design of the Atto 3 is neat and attractive, it's relatively conservative especially when compared to the Ioniq 5 and Kia EV6.

As with most electric cars there's no real or pretend grille.

A horizontal bar with the BYD insignia on it merges into narrow sweeping LED headlights with a thin band of LED daytime running lights between them.

The profile is similar to many similarly-sized SUVs although we did love the design of the 18-inch alloy wheels.

We find the 'Build Your Dreams' lettering spaced across the rear a bit too quirky.

We understand that some owners have been able to successfully remove the letters without causing damage – but don't take our word for it.

The rear also features a full width LED brake light and powered tailgate.

Four colours are offered. White is standard while the other three (grey, blue and red) are $700 extra.

When you step inside the BYD Atto 3 Monty Python's catchphrase "And Now For Something Completely Different" springs to mind.

It is very different with a number of groundbreaking interior features.

We reckon buyers who are willing to think outside the square and buy a BYD will love the adventurous approach of this newcomer to the Australian market.

With predominantly sculpted soft-touch materials, overall build quality and fit and finish of the Atto 3 is excellent.

Some of the features are gimmicky, others are functional.

Some are both, such as the three guitar-type strings that act as sides of the door storage pockets, but which are just asking to be twanged.

We shudder to think how annoying that could be on a long trip with children in the rear.

After initially searching for the interior door handles, we found they were flip-up levers on top of the small round speakers in each door.

In this case however form and function combined nicely and we quickly adapted to them.

Large circular air vents dominate the front of the centre console but are easy to adjust and provide excellent air flow.

BYD's Atto 3 . . . the best EV you've never heard of.

In front of the driver is a 5.0-inch screen that effectively combines a head-up display with a digital instrument panel cluster.

The front seats are large, supportive and comfortable although the headrests are moulded into the seatbacks, so they can't be adjusted.

They also partially block forward vision of rear-seat occupants.

Otherwise, rear passengers are well catered for with a similarly comfortable bench seat, although they do have adjustable headrests.

There's plenty of leg, ankle and headroom with the flat floor making the centre seat more bearable than vehicles with a transmission tunnel.

The air vents are the same design as those in the front.

The panoramic sunroof extends across the full roof with a powered blind, although only the front section can be opened.

Available boot space ranges from 440 to 1340 litres with a powered bootlid and two adjustable floor levels.

There is no spare wheel, just a tyre repair kit below the boot floor.

Atto 3 scores a full five stars for safety, with an extensive list of safety equipment, starting with seven airbags, six radars, adaptive cruise control with stop/start, automatic emergency braking, front and rear collision warning, blind spot monitoring, lane departure warning, lane keeping assist, rear cross-traffic alert and braking.

There are front and rear parking sensors, rear-view 360-degree cameras, Isofix child seat anchor points and hill descent control.

The standout feature is the 12.0-inch high-definition tablet-style touchscreen which, at the touch can rotate between landscape and portrait format.

So, for features like map and camera displays it works best in landscape, while for most other features, portrait is not only more suitable but also brings the screen within closer reach of the driver.

The original Atto 3 did not come with either Apple CarPlay or Android Auto but these have been added with the MY2023 update and will also be installed as part of the latest upgrade for earlier models.

Apple CarPlay is wired, Android Auto is wireless.

There is a wireless smartphone charging pad at the base of the front console.

Sound comes through an eight-speaker Dirac digital audio system.

There are USB-C and USB-A ports underneath the centre console and also in the rear.

The cameras provide a large variety of features including a dashcam which automatically records and saves action in front of the car.

The videos are stored on a memory card which can be extracted and the videos transferred to an external source.

Very handy if there are any incidents or even to monitor the driving habits of different drivers.

Young or inexperienced drivers – you have been warned!

At this point in time, BYD doesn't have the same media fleet as almost all other brands, so we weren't able to conduct our normal week-long test.

Fortunately, however, one of our neighbours recently bought an Atto 3 and she was able to give us a guided tour of the car and let us take it around our usual drive route.

Apart from the normal key fob the Atto 3 comes with a plastic card which opens and closes the car by tapping it on the driver's side door handle.

Entry is quite easy even for larger occupants and the seats are large, supportive and comfortable.

There's an aircraft-style gear selector which is fun to use.

Like all other electrified vehicles, the instant torque provides exhilarating speed off the mark.

The dash to 100km/h takes 7.3 seconds which is brisk but not nearly as quick as many EVs.

Drive is to the front wheels through a single speed transmission, with a single electric motor for the front axle that puts out 150kW of power and 310Nm of torque.

The standard model gets a 49.92kWh battery and the long range, 60.48kWh.

Regardless, energy consumption is 16.0kWh/100km with a driving range that is listed for the two variants at 410km and 480km under the old NEDC system or 345km and 420km using the more realistic WLTP measure.

Our test car was the Atto 3 Extended Range variant.

Its larger battery brings kerb weight to 1750kg -- 70kg heavier than the Standard Range.

Inevitably extra weight affects performance and we found the Extended Range Atto 3 a little more sluggish than competitors with lighter batteries.

So, something of a trade-off there.

The car's regenerative braking has only two modes, standard and high, operated by a small toggle lever on the centre console rather than the more convenient steering wheel paddles of most EVs.

Nor is there a single-pedal option so the brake pedal needs to be employed to bring the car to a stop.

Atto 3 is built on 400-volt electrical architecture and supports maximum AC charging (Type 2) of 7 kW (standard) or 11 kW (option) as well as DC fast charging (CCS2) at a maximum rate of either 70kW (Standard Range) or 80kW (Extended Range).

It does have V2L (Vehicle-To-Load) charging which allows external items to be powered from the vehicle.

More and more people are asking us about fully-electric cars.

Our standard response is to hold off until prices reduce and the driving ranges increase.

That time is moving closer, triggered mainly by the arrival of Chinese EVs such as the MG ZS EV, GMW Ora and – most impressive of all – the BYD Atto 3.

Although it lacks the head-turning looks and performance of rivals such as the Hyundai Ioniq 5 and Kia EV 6, the Atto 3 is significantly cheaper and, at the end of the day, most EV owners are looking for sensible, affordable transport rather than sportiness.

There's no doubt the Atto 3's interior, with its combination of quirkiness and gee-whiz technology, will attract most sales.

So, if you are going to take one for a test drive, and we'd certainly recommend doing so, then set aside plenty of time to experiment with the many features.

It's an ideal size for a small family and for urban commuting, with very competitive pricing.

And, with zero emissions, the planet will thank you.

Demons turn on the style

By James Murphy

PORT MACDONNELL 21.19 (145) d
TANTANOOLA 5.4 (34)

Ladder leader Port MacDonnell made short work of its Tantanoola guests in Round 15 of Mid South Eastern football.

The final margin was a convincing 111 points and aside from a close opening term, the match was predominately one-way traffic.

The Tigers held their own early and the first quarter had a lot of back-and-forth play.

As a result, the Demons held a slim 20-14 point lead at quarter time.

However, the home team lifted in the second term and caught the Tigers napping to pile on eight goals.

Tantanoola added just one major during that time, leaving it at a 53-point disadvantage heading into the main break.

The worst was yet to come and the Demons held the Tigers scoreless in the third quarter.

They added six goals of their own to push the lead out to 94 points and the game was all but over when players returned to their positions to start the final term.

Port MacDonnell continued to dominate and converted four goals from 10 scoring shots.

Tantanoola managed two consolation goals, but there was little to be done by that stage.

Alex Ridding was a highlight of the Demons' performance and he was named best on ground with an impressive seven goals to show for his efforts.

Colby Munro was second best and he snagged an equally notable six majors, bringing his season total to 48.

Ned Wilke and coach Josh Woodall also scored multiple goals with three and two respectively and both featured highly in the best players.

Wade Chant and Christian Howlett rounded out the list, in another solid outing from the Demons.

For the Tigers it was coach Jack Dawe who led his troops by example.

He was named best on ground and pushed forward for a goal as well.

Bradyn Reilly, Troy Hatt, Brandon Pitts and Hayden Brown were also noted for their efforts, in what was otherwise a tough day at the office.

The challenge continues for the Tigers next week when hosting third-placed Hatherleigh, while Port MacDonnell visits Kalangadoo for the match of the round.

Comeback win for Tigers after Port Mac switch off

TANTANOOLA 43 d
PORT MACDONNELL 34

In slightly damp but sunny conditions, Port MacDonnell took on the Tigers at home in Round 15 of Mid South Eastern netball.

The Demons got an early turnover which they capitalised on, then scored from their own centre pass to give them an early advantage.

Considering the still weather, both sides missed goals early and took a bit of time to settle.

Megan Hein and Kori Collins were playing well and had the upper hand on Tigers defenders Tayla Rowe and Kate Bromley.

Port MacDonnell centre Kate Faint left the court with the blood rule with about five minutes to go and A Reserve player Cody Manning hit the court for the remainder of the quarter.

However, the Demons remained on top and went into the break with a six-goal lead.

The second quarter saw no changes from Tantanoola, while Faint returned to the court for the Bay.

Faint was having a good tussle with Kate Varcoe through the middle.

Tiger defenders Rowe and Bromley picked up their intensity and made things harder for the Demon goalies.

Port MacDonnell defenders Alana Berkefeld and Alysha Coon gave their all.

Demons WD Shannon Scheidl was also having a good game, creating drive down the court, while gathering any loose balls.

The Bay remained on top heading into the main break with a 23-18 lead at half time.

The third quarter was all Tantanoola as Port MacDonnell seemed to stop and the Tigers put their foot down.

Tantanoola moved Emma Gould back to Goal Shooter and Jami Walker out to Goal Attack, which had an immediate impact.

They were supported by Varcoe and Casey Walker in the mid-court who were hitting their straps.

Talented Tigers junior Bella Poulish was also having a good game at Wing Defence, getting her hands to many balls.

Tantanoola scored 18 goals to four in the third quarter to take a 36-27 lead at the final change.

In the final quarter, Port MacDonnell switched its captain Berkefeld from defence to Goal Attack and moved Megan Hein from Goal Shooter to Goal Keeper.

Bromley and Berkefeld had a great contest, while Hein was able to put the pressure on Gould to slow the scoring.

The final quarter was an even contest and the Tigers held on to claim a 43-34 win on the road.

Gould and Bromley were the best players for Tantanoola, while Scheidl and Faint were the best players for Port MacDonnell.

Eagles spread their wings

By James Murphy

HATHERLEIGH 22.22 (154) d
NANGWARRY 6.2 (38)

It was always going to be a tough road trip for Nangwarry when visiting Hatherleigh for Round 15 of Mid South Eastern football.

The Saints sit on the all-too-familiar bottom rung of the ladder, while the Eagles have hit their straps at the right end of the season and have now risen to third after the weekend.

The home team wasted no time bothering the scorekeepers and eight first-quarter goals set the tone for what was to come.

Nangwarry found the big sticks once during that time – its only goal of the first half.

In contrast, Hatherleigh kept things rolling in the second term.

The Eagles had the bulk of possession, but would have been disappointed with their return of four-goals-eight-behinds during an inaccurate patch.

Regardless, the margin was out to an unsailable 77 points at half time.

Michael Telford had already started to make his presence known, with his efforts earning him the best-on-ground honours for the victors.

The Saints found some avenues to goal in the third quarter, with three for the term.

However, their opponent still extended the lead with five of their own.

The Eagles ran through the motions in the final stanza, adding five goals to Nangwarry's two and wrapping things up with a 116-point win.

The Eagles had 22 goals for the day, with Jack Skeer the main culprit.

He bagged an impressive eight majors, which had him named second best, while William Chay, Jed Telfer and Tom Hutchesson were also impressive.

Hutchesson bagged four goals to complement his performance, with Bradley Mitchell finding the big sticks on three occasions. Louis Brown and Patrick Chay had two each, while the remaining goals came off individual boots.

It was no surprise to see Andrew Hyland lead the Saints on the scoreboard.

He slotted two on Saturday, bringing his season total to 42.

In terms of best players, Jack Stocker got the nod for best on ground, while Luke Thomson, Thomas Vanderhorst and Logan Gibbs were also solid.

Hatherleigh a class above to score home-court win

HATHERLEIGH 61 d NANGWARRY 28

Hatherleigh claimed a solid win in Round 15 of Mid South East netball on Saturday.

Nangwarry had the first centre pass, but Hatherleigh turned it over and converted which set the scene for the quarter.

A changed attack line for Hatherleigh saw youngster Imogen Nowak at Goal Shooter.

Nowak and Demi Vanderhorst combined well and shot with accuracy.

At the other end Maddie Redman, Elly Redden and Lara McGregor applied great pressure and got their hands to plenty of passes, making Nangwarry's Hayley Vanderhorst and Cassie Dinnison work overtime for every possession.

However, despite the pressure they continued to keep strong and presenting.

The second quarter started scrappy for both sides as turnovers sent the ball up and down the court before any goals scored.

Increased defensive pressure from Nangwarry's Crystal Lock and Kayla Gray slowed down Hatherleigh's movement of the ball into attack.

Passes had to be on point or were quickly intercepted by both defenders who were playing with increased intensity.

Nangwarry had a lot more of the ball, but unfortunately were unable to make it count on the scoreboard.

Vanderhorst and Dinnison found themselves out of the circle on a number of occasions to combat the strong play of McGregor and Erin Watson who were making life difficult for Scarlett Black and Brittany Dycer who were trying to feed the ball into their attack.

The Eagles went into the main break with a solid 27-11 lead.

In the third quarter, Gray stood strong under the ring for rebounds to help give the Saints more opportunities to score but Hatherleigh's Watson read the ball well, pouncing on any loose passes.

Rosie Nettle continued to feed the ball into attack with precision, demonstrating great patience and vision.

Nowak and Demi Vanderhorst looked like they had been playing together for years, anticipating each other's movements and backing each other.

Vanderhorst continued her high work rate putting in the second efforts down the court, pressuring the ball out of attack after any turnovers.

Nangwarry's Dinnison worked hard out at Goal Attack and shot accurately, despite the very physical defence.

The Eagles looked like they wanted it more, chasing down loose balls and backing each other up to ensure they retained possession from turnovers.

They consequently had more of the ball and further extended their lead to be up 47-20 going into the last.

Nangwarry made another change swapping over the circle defence with Dinnison appearing to be relishing the move out to Goal Attack for the second half, getting a lot of the ball, with just her accuracy letting her down.

At the other end, Gray had come out to Goal Defence and was providing great drive when coming out of defence.

Both Lock and Gray were making Hatherleigh's Nowak and Vanderhorst move and work for the ball and picked off any passes that were not on target.

Accurate shooting from the Eagles in the last quarter saw the hosts claim a 61-28 win.

Vanderhorst and McGregor were the best players for Hatherleigh, while Black and Dycer were the best players for Nangwarry.

IN FORM: Demi Vanderhorst was a key player in attack for Hatherleigh.

Mozzies finish off buzzing

By James Murphy

MOUNT BURR 12.11 (83) d
GLENCOE 11.8 (74)

IN a round full of blown-out scores, the Mid South Eastern football match of the week was undoubtedly played at Glencoe.

The Murphies hosted Mount Burr for Round 15 and after four quarters of back-and-forth football, the Mozzies prevailed by nine points.

Little separated the two teams in the opening quarter.

Glencoe had more scoring shots, but Mount Burr entered the first change three points ahead thanks to some straight kicking.

The Mozzies found a foothold in the second term and a four-goal return pushed them to a more comfortable lead.

The Murphies had just one goal for the quarter and as such trailed by 22 at the main break.

However, they were not out of the contest and a huge turnaround had the hosts pile on seven third-quarter goals to steal the lead heading into the last.

At the final change the margin was three points in favour of the hosts, but the Mozzies were not out of the hunt.

Some positional changes at three-quarter time paid dividends and from that emerged the top two players of the match.

"We changed up our midfield setup in the last quarter, which paid off for us," Duncan said.

"Our best two players for the day were two young guys we used in our midfield."

Jett Bowering and Calum Sparkes stepped up to the task and helped push Mount Burr over the line.

The Mozzies booted three goals to Glencoe's one and at the end of play secured a nine-point win.

Mount Burr coach Reece Duncan acknowledged the Murphies for their persistence, but was ultimately pleased to come away with the points.

"They certainly wouldn't go away - credit to those boys," he said.

"We were able to score early and played well in the first half, then in the third quarter they went bang, bang, bang.

"It was one of those good footy matches and I was just glad for us to come away with the win."

After four consecutive losses, Duncan was happy to see his team back on the winner's list.

Kallan Bevan and Jack Gregory led the charge up front and piled on five goals each in impressive displays.

Gregory sits four goals clear on top of the league goal kicking, while Bevan potentially played his last game with the Mozzies for some time.

"I think he is going to spend the rest of the year in Adelaide and next year I believe he is planning on going up there for the year," Duncan said.

"Hopefully he can grow up there - he has a huge future ahead of him."

Sam Wallis was rock solid down back, while captain Josh Fiebig took control on the wing in the second half.

For Glencoe it was coach Tom Edwards who impressed most, while Brodie Glynn and Darcy Williamson also excelled.

Zacc Cocks was also strong, as was Dylan Childs, with Harry Comley rounding out the best.

With finals mathematically impossible for both teams, the next few rounds will provide a chance to build towards next season.

"We just have an aim to finish the year off well, get the wins we should be getting and play some good, solid football," Duncan said.

"You are only as good as your last match, so we want to make sure the way we finish off this year can set the boys up for next year."

STRONG HANDS: Mount Burr's Josh Fiebig played a key role during the Mozzies' tough win over Glencoe.

Murphies in control all the way to a comfortable win

GLENCOE 60 d MOUNT BURR 34

GLENCOE took on Mount Burr in what was set to be a highly contested game, with both sides looking to bounce back after losses in the previous round.

The Murphies took the first centre pass and transitioned the ball with precision to get the first score on the board.

As the Mozzies tried to hit back, their attack line was met by a clinical Glencoe defence.

The combination of Sarah Edwards, Chloe Pfitzner, Donna Jaeschke and Chelsea Owen worked overtime to limit any time and space for Mount Burr.

As the quarter wore on, the defensive efforts of the Murphies did not let up, creating plenty of turnovers and intercept ball.

The Mozzies had no answer to the immense pressure being applied to them, while for the Murphies any turnover balls were transitioned from defence to attack and eventually to post seamlessly.

The goalie combination of Jenna Paproth and Chantelle Cocks showed early form with the pair presenting strong options, making it difficult for the Mozzie defence of Madi Hagggett and Olivia Dean to have any impact on the game.

In a dominant first quarter, Glencoe went into the first break with an impressive 18-3 lead.

With early work to do for Mount Burr, they re-entered the game having swapped Hagggett to Goal Keeper in an attempt to limit the holding game of Cocks.

Captain Laura Schultz and speedy youngster Ella Easterby stepped up their output in attack to work the ball with increased patience and safety to work their way through the Glencoe defence and onto circle edge. Ebony Clark also came out with a point a prove and used her experience against a younger opponent to become a dominant presence along the baseline.

Glencoe's attack line continued to work the ball safely through the court.

The outer-circle combination of Jaeschke and Alice Tentye worked hard to provide strong drives down court and onto circles edge and fed into their goalies with precision.

Despite the efforts of the Mozzies' defence, the safe handling by Glencoe did not allow many turnover opportunities and the Murphies again pushed out their lead by six goals to lead 34-13 at half time.

The Mozzies again made a change heading into the second half with Maddie Gamble entering the game at Wing Defence and Simone Westerman going to the bench.

In a highly defensive quarter, it took both teams some time to settle.

The Burr defence lifted in this quarter and the height and strong hands over the ball by Hagggett allowed her to gain so much needed possession for her team.

Down the other end, Edwards kept the contest even as she forced several turnovers.

Some silly mistakes from both sides made for a scrappy quarter and the Mozzies managed to reduce the deficit by one goal headed into the final break.

The last quarter saw Glencoe regain control over the game.

Jaeschke and Tentye continued to cause headaches for Mount Burr as they found space and continued to feed into the circle with patience and accuracy.

Paproth increased her work rate and took on the heavier shooting load, scoring 11 of the 16 final term goals for Glencoe.

Clark continued to be the focal point of the Burr goal circle and Easterby did her best to be a reliable option and apply defensive pressure for her team.

However, the Glencoe defence continued to be a hassle as the Murphies ran out 26-goal victors.

Tentye and Jaeschke were the best players for Glencoe, while Easterby and Schultz were the standouts for the Mozzies.

Roosters break drought

By James Murphy

ROBE 19.14 (128) d KONGORONG 7.8 (50)

IN a mostly one-sided weekend of Mid South Eastern football, Robe broke a four-round losing streak with a convincing result over Kongorong.

The Roosters visited the Hawks for the Round 15 clash, with a handful of ins helping their cause.

Injuries had contributed to Robe's plummet down the pecking order in recent weeks, but the club would be pleased to return to the winners' list.

Playing coach Nathan Brown was one big in and his on-field leadership and clutch skills made a difference on the day.

However, it was Bailey Walker who impressed most for the Roosters and he was given the best-on-ground honours.

The Roosters wasted no time establishing dominance, with six first-quarter goals setting up a 29-point margin at the change.

Kongorong resisted in the second term and managed to win the quarter 21-14, but Robe remained comfortably in front at half time.

Another five goals from the visitors stretched the margin further in the third quarter.

Kongorong added two majors of its own but trailed by 39 points at the final break.

The Roosters took full control in the fourth, holding their opponent to one point while finding plenty of avenues at the other end.

They scored six-goals-four for the term and at the final siren triumphed by 78 points.

Walker's best player accolade was complemented by three goals, while leading the Roosters on the scoreboard was Zac Deane.

He pushed forward for five majors and was joined by a list of multiple goal scorers from the victors.

Brown, Ben Dinning, Kane Dunn and Thomas Wachtel all slotted two each, keeping Hawks' defenders guessing all day.

Michael Waters led Kongorong with a best-on-ground performance, while Paul Ellis and Cameron Sandercock were best up forward with two goals each.

Lennox Lewis, Tyrese Newton and Matt Cordy were also solid for the Hawks, but it was not enough on the day.

Robe too strong on the road for Kongorong

ROBE 62 d KONGORONG 35

THE Roosters made the trip to Kongorong and came away with a solid win in Round 15 of Mid South Eastern netball.

The Hawks got off to a great start as they scored from the first centre and moved the ball quickly.

However, Emma Grant for Robe was on from the second the first whistle blew, working hard in the circle applying pressure down the Hawks' end of the court.

Down the other end of the court, the Hawks defensive line of Riley Buckingham, Emily Lightbody and Ebony Lawson adjusted quickly to the Roosters' quick ball movement and settled in to try and curb some of Robe's momentum late in the quarter.

With the Roosters working hard in the first quarter, they were able to capitalise well thanks to the accuracy of Demi Carter and Tori Gluyas in the circle and led by six goals at the first break.

Grant for the Roosters and Tilah Buckingham for the Hawks battled hard in the circle, both at times being influential for their respective sides through the second term.

The Hawks settled in the second quarter, with Evie Sealey and Tilah Buckingham able to look after the ball with some accurate feeding from Jasmin McKinnon and Rach Perry.

However, Halle Carter and Annie Regnier turned it up another gear for Robe and their experience showed as they remained composed to help extend the lead to eight goals at half time.

The Hawks went into the third quarter with work to do, starting with Lightbody in Goal Keeper, whose height proved crucial as she was able to get her hands to any rebounds.

Riley Buckingham lifted her work rate and started to see some rewards from her pressure in the first half.

Lawson was crucial for the Hawks, as she maintained possession and worked the ball down the court which led Kongorong to its highest scoring quarter of the game.

Down the other end of the court, the Roosters defenders were also finding their groove with Ellen Ramke and Grant finding hands all over the court and capitalising on any missed shots by the young Hawks.

Demi Carter and Gluyas were in fine form as they scored 19 goals from 23 attempts to outscore the hosts by seven in the quarter.

Both teams continued to fight hard defensively but the Roosters showed their class as they capitalised on errors from the opposition. Despite the young Hawks improving game and attempts to limit the damage on the scoreboard, fatigue from Kongorong allowed Robe to finish the game scoring 18 to 6 in the last term.

The Roosters proved they were the more polished side and were able to maintain possession of the ball and play with speed and accuracy which ultimately saw them run away with the game.

Riley Buckingham and Lawson were the best players for Kongorong, while Grant and Gluyas were Robe's best players.

ONE TO WATCH: Port MacDonnell coach Josh Woodall will hope to lead his Demons to another win over Kalangadoo in the top-order Round 16 clash.

All eyes will be on prelude to finals

By James Murphy

KALANGADOO v PORT MACDONNELL

There is no doubting the match of the week in Round 16 of Mid South Eastern football.

Kalangadoo hosts Port MacDonnell for a top-of-the-table clash, in what will be a likely prelude to finals.

The sides sit second and first respectively, but the hosts will need a win to keep themselves inside the top two.

In their last meeting the Demons prevailed by nine points at home after a four-quarter arm wrestle.

Since then Port MacDonnell has only dropped one game and enters the round off a six-match winning streak.

The Magpies have also gone from strength to strength and they sit one better having won the seven games since Round 7.

Fresh off the bye, Kalangadoo will have a point to prove on Saturday and the reigning premiers have plenty of in-form talent to do so.

Dylan Bromley has been the main target in front of goals and his tally sits at 38 for the season.

Ben Gregory is equally reliable, while the likes of Sam and Tye McManus and Lachy Jones are regulars among the best players.

The McManus boys enter the round off solid outings against Tantanoola in Round 14, while Mitchel Lowe also impressed in that game.

The Demons have a two-win buffer at the top of the table and with a bye next round, a win this week will be vital in taking out the minor premiership.

Their last game was also against Tantanoola, but was a far more convincing result.

While Kalangadoo fended off the Tigers by 37 points, Port MacDonnell got the job done by 111.

Alex Ridding was a standout for the Demons last week, as was Colby Munro.

The pair were goal magnets on the day with seven and six respectively, while Munro sits second on the league goal kicking with 48 for the year.

Coach Josh Woodall has also been in form, while the recent return of Kev Thomson adds further depth to the forward line.

The clash could really go either way, but the visitors hold the slight edge again this time.

Eagles swoop on Tigerland

By James Murphy

TANTANOOLA v HATHERLEIGH

It is difficult to mount a case for the Tigers when they host an in-form Hatherleigh for Round 16 of Mid South Eastern football.

Despite a solid first quarter against ladder leader Port MacDonnell last week, Tantanoola was otherwise left wanting and succumbed to "the Bay" by 111 points.

Another tough outing awaits this Saturday and although the Tigers enjoy the comforts of home, the Eagles will be no less forgiving.

They have dominated the second half of the season and enter the match with six consecutive wins.

Last week Nangwarry felt the sting of their form and Jack Skeer was a standout in an eight-goal performance.

Hatherleigh currently sits in third position, but with only percentage separating second to fourth the prize of a top-two finish remains up for grabs.

Michael Telford was another highlight last round and his impact around the ground will be something to watch for again.

Tom Hutchesson has strung some solid performances together of late and the future Eagles coach can always be relied on with his clutch skills.

William Chay is another regular in their best players, while every member of the squad has had their moments.

Tantanoola has been well served by coach Jack Dawe, while the likes of Jordan and Troy Hatt, Braydn Reilly and Brandon Pitts have also been solid.

Last time the Tigers played at home they put in a valiant effort against second-placed Kalangadoo.

Besides the second quarter the home team matched it with the reigning premiers, but ultimately went down by 37 points.

They will look for a similar performance this week, although it will be no easy task to clip the Eagles' wings.

After the disappointment of losing last year's decider, Hatherleigh will have its sights set on the ultimate prize in 2023.

Saturday will move it one step closer to that goal with what will be a valuable percentage boost heading into the final minor rounds.

FORM: Hatherleigh's Michael Telford enters this week's clash with the Tigers off a best-on-ground performance.

Hawks enter the round as underdogs

By James Murphy

MOUNT BURR v KONGORONG

The Mozzies will still be buzzing after a hard-fought win over Glencoe last week and now host Kongorong for Round 16.

They should be well placed for another victory as the Hawks have not tasted success since way back in Round 4.

The last meeting between the sides was a back-and-forth contest, but Mount Burr got the job done in the end by 33 points.

Kongorong will hope for another close tussle, after leading that game at the first and last changes, before succumbing to a six-goal turnaround from the Mozzies.

Matt Cordy was best on ground for the Hawks on that occasion, a position he is all too familiar with.

His influence will be vital again this week, while the likes of Michael Waters, Lennox Lewis and Tyreese Newton come off good games in the loss to Robe last round.

Mount Burr's Jack Gregory bagged five goals in Round 7 and enters the rematch off another haul of five majors.

He sits third in the league goal kicking and will be on the hunt for another bag, with young guns Jett Bowering and Calum Sparkes entering off impressive midfield performances.

Another good battle could unfold, with this likely being the next closest game after the top-of-the-table clash.

However, Mount Burr should take the points and continue to build towards a strong finish to its season.

BUZZING: Mount Burr hosts Kongorong for Round 16 of Mid South Eastern football.

Chantelle Cocks will be a force to be reckoned with when the Murphies take on Nangwarry.

Casey Walker will be a key player in the mid-court for the Tigers when they take on the Eagles in the match of the round this weekend.

At the business end

HATHERLEIGH v TANTANOOLA

The Eagles and the Tigers face-off in the match of the round this weekend at Tantanoola.

Tigers goalies Emma Gould and Keryl Ousey may not be able to use their height to their advantage as they typically would with the strength and vertical leap of Maddie Redman and Elly Redden.

Hatherleigh's goalies Maddie Pulmer and Demi Vanderhorst will have to work hard to move in the circle and get the ball past Tantanoola's strong defensive line-up of Tayla Rowe and Kate Bromley.

Kate Varcoe and Erin Watson will fight hard for the ball down the court, neither one giving an inch.

Both teams will come out firing and this clash could go either way but the Tigers will have an extra boost knowing they claimed the win last time these two sides met.

KALANGADOO v PORT MACDONNELL

Kalangadoo hosts Port MacDonnell this weekend after a week off for the Magpies.

When these teams met earlier in the year, the Magpies claimed a 62-33 win down at the Bay.

Kalangadoo's Abbey Duncan and Ebony McDiarmid combine well together, with both goalies shooting with accuracy.

Demons defenders Alana Berkefeld and Alysha Coon will create pressure for the Magpies goalies but the accurate feeding from outside the ring will prevail.

Kori Collins and Megan Hein combine well in the goal circle for the Demons, moving well and shooting with accuracy.

However, the added pressure of Kalangadoo's Lauren Kain and Lara Munro will make it hard for the Demons' attack line to feed into their goalies.

Kalangadoo's strength and endurance will prove too much for the Demons, with the Pies coming away with the win.

NANGWARRY v GLENCOE

Nangwarry hosts the Murphies this weekend in what will likely be a one-sided affair.

Looking back at Round 7, Glencoe put on an absolute clinic on its home court to claim a monster 76-11 win.

It was a relentless four-quarter performance on that occasion as they limited the Saints to just one goal in the third stanza when these sides last met.

Looking ahead to this week, Glencoe's Sarah Edwards and Chelsea Owen have proven to be a formidable defensive combination and will make it difficult for Nangwarry's attack line once again.

Nangwarry goalies Hayley Vanderhorst and Demi Hoffmeister combine well in the goal circle but will be up against it when they take on the reigning premiers.

Glencoe goalies Jenna Paproth and Chantelle Cocks have been in fine form and will look replicate their efforts from the last clash between these two sides.

Alysha Coon and Abbey Duncan will be hopeful for better weather when they meet again for Round 16 of Mid South East netball this weekend.

Pictures: FILE

Ultimately, the Murphies will have too much class for the Nangwarry but the Saints will be hoping they can show signs of improvement on their home court.

MOUNT BURR v KONGORONG

The Hawks head to Mount Burr this weekend to face off against the Mozzies in what could be an intriguing battle.

Mount Burr is currently seventh on the ladder with four wins for the year, while Kongorong is eighth with just the solitary victory.

When the two sides met in Round 7, the Mozzies proved too good and claimed a solid 43-20 win.

However, there have been some signs of improvement from the young Hawks line-up in recent weeks and a closer battle could occur this weekend.

Mount Burr's Laura Schultz and Ella East-erby will be pivotal in the mid-court and have fed the ball effectively this season to goalies Lauren Wheeler and Ebony Clark.

However, Kongorong's Riley Buckingham and Emily Lightbody will apply intense pressure and make it difficult to get the ball into the circle.

The return of Madi Haggett to Mount Burr's defensive line-up has proven to be influential and when combined with Olivia Dean, they have proven to be a tough defensive combination. The duo will make life difficult for Hawks goalies Tilah Buckingham and Evie Sealey.

However, the height of Buckingham will likely ask questions of the Mozzies' defence.

Mount Burr should prove too strong and will come away with the win but a strong performance is expected from the Hawks.

Murphies a sure thing on the road

By James Murphy

NANGWARRY v GLENCOE

Glencoe will return to the winner's list when visiting Nangwarry for Round 16.

The Murphies' hot streak came to an end against Mount Burr last week, with not even a seven-goal third quarter enough to avoid the Mozzies' sting.

Now they visit the bottom-placed Saints with the aim to bounce back in a big way.

Glencoe was led by example last round with coach Tom Edwards named best on ground and he will be looked to again.

Back in Round 7 the Saints put in a high-scoring performance against their rival.

They scored an impressive 95 points, but still succumbed to the Murphies by over 14 goals.

On that occasion Glencoe put eight goals on the board in both the first and second quarters to breach the 100-point mark by half time.

Patrick Mitchell and Tory Weaver led the onslaught with nine and seven goals respectively for the match, while it was Zacc Cocks and Edwards who topped the best player's list.

For Nangwarry leading goal kicker Andrew Hyland hit his target five times, while Joel Virtanen was also good, bagging three goals and a feature highly in the best.

Finals are out of reach for both teams, but they will be looking to finish the year off strongly, with Glencoe the sure bet to win.

LEADER: Glencoe playing coach Tom Edwards will lead his Murphies to another strong result this weekend.

Tough weekend for juniors

The second term was an even contest with both sides kicking 3.1 (19) and the hosts went into the main break with a 47-19 lead.

At the start of the third quarter Penola was down two players in Ryder Tilby and Jace Minge.

Ben Copping and Currie combined for the Eagles' fourth goal of the game but the Tigers kept the pressure up.

Marcus Brand looked to provide some spark with some strong tackling but it was not enough to help claw back the deficit as Kybybolite went into the final break with a 37-point lead.

The last quarter was a tussle as the Tigers added two more majors to put the icing on the cake as they ran out 50-point victors.

Currie, Copping, Merrett, Skeer, Gosse and Brand were the Eagles' best players.

Penola wins well

A GRADE

PENOLA 75 d KYBYBOLITE 50

Penola's A Grade netballers claimed an exciting 25-goal win over Kybybolite in Round 14 of Kowree Naracoorte Tatiara netball on Saturday. A fierce battle was predicted and with a different line up again, it was going to be a difficult match for the Eagles.

After the last game between these two sides ended in a draw, there were plenty of bragging rights on the line.

With Siobhan Adams out with concussion, Kaitlin Egan moved into centre and Sally Skeer started the game at WA.

They both picked up from where they left off with the mid-court combo moving the ball well. Although the Tigers got the early jump, the Eagles found their rhythm, dominating the second half of the first quarter to take the lead out to seven goals at the first break.

It was a case of deja vu for Penola early in the second quarter as Brooke Klemm took a big fall and landed badly.

As a result she was unable to return to the game and like the week prior, the Eagles were forced to make some changes to their lineup.

Chelsea Galpin moved back to GK and Tara Millard stepped up once again in WD to play seven quarters for the day.

Jordyn Adams was pivotal in the match up on Charlee Hodges wearing her like a glove and getting some amazing deflections and interceptions all throughout the court.

Despite the setbacks, the Eagles pushed out their lead to 20 goals at the half time break and were in full control. Multiple changes were made to the Kyby side throughout the match but that did not stop the Eagles.

April Possingham was well supported by young-gun Tegan Lythgo who was impressive all day as she was often left alone to land beautifully and finish strong.

She netted 27 goals from 31 attempts at 89 per cent which is elite for a goal attack under normal circumstances, let alone a 15 year old in her first year of A Grade.

The second half was much closer but the Eagles were too strong winning every quarter and stretching the lead out to 25 by the final whistle.

Goalies Lythgo and Possingham were the best players for Penola.

13C

The 13C girls made the trip to Kybybolite and were met with beautiful, sunny conditions.

The girls played great, improving each game and growing in confidence.

Maddison played a strong game and chased lots of loose balls, while Henna made several intercepts at centre and held the ball effectively in the goal circle.

13B

PENOLA 14 d/w KYBYBOLITE 14

The Eagles were fortunate enough to play extra quarters so both of their 13B teams could get a decent run.

The girls started off strongly and continued to play well all game.

Defensively Penola was fantastic at shadow defence, causing lots of pressure and turning the ball over often.

The Eagles' ball movement down the court was good and they showed promising signs with the timing of their leads and changes in direction.

Milly Finch and Lilly Flint were the best players for Penola.

13A

KYBYBOLITE 30 d PENOLA 28

The Eagles came out with fire in their bellies ready to take on a competitive Kyby, in what was one of their best games of the season.

Chelsea Galpin put in a strong performance in defence for Penola's A Grade netball side.

Defensive pressure was tight with lots of turnovers from both teams, going goal-for-goal throughout.

Kyby stepped it up in the third to stretch the lead to 5 goals.

However, Penola stepped up the intensity and pulled the margin back to just two goals at the final whistle in what was a strong performance.

The Eagles' best players were Winnie Zadrow and Lily Hackwill.

DIVISION 3

KYBYBOLITE 87 d PENOLA 15

Penola battled hard against an older and more experienced team.

To the Eagles' credit, they never gave up and had plenty of great plays resulting in goals.

They worked effectively as a team and every single player tried their heart out.

Lucy Lambert and Kirra Pitt were Penola's best players.

DIVISION 2

KYBYBOLITE 44 d PENOLA 17

Penola played well against a tall and talented Tigers side.

Pressure all down court saw multiple hands to balls and pick offs from the Eagles.

Maggie Bell and Macey O'Brien were the best players.

C GRADE

PENOLA 53 d KYBYBOLITE 23

Some strong defence and accurate shooting had Penola in front by eight goals at the first break.

The Eagles were strong in the mid-court and some strong defensive pressure allowed the visitors to extend their lead to 19 goals at half time.

April Possingham scored 48 goals for the Eagles in their win over Kybybolite on Saturday. Pictures: FILE

Penola continued to push forward with excellent play into the second half, coming home with a strong 30-goal win.

Penola's best players were Chicago Smith and Eva Manarangi.

B GRADE

PENOLA 72 d KYBYBOLITE 17

Penola's B Grade side once again had a strong win defeating Kyby by a monster 55 goals.

A slower pace this week allowed the Eagles to practice a few things they have been working on to improve their game even further.

With some changes to the lineup, an extra onus was on Eva Manarangi and Lucy Catlin to help the Eagles.

The pair played very well and did everything asked of them.

Sarah Eustace and Teegan Galpin moved and shot well as per usual with near perfect feeding from Ava Copping and Jess Blackmore all game.

After departing the game earlier due to injury, Monique Maney returned to the court and stuck to her player like glue to get her hands to balls on multiple occasions.

Jade Lythgo and Lauren Moore created immense pressure down the defensive end.

This resulted in the Tigers fumbling the ball and missing shots.

Moore and Copping were the best players for Penola.

A RESERVES

PENOLA 63 d KYBYBOLITE 40

In perfect conditions for netball Penola came out strong to take an 18-9 lead at the first break.

Penola worked hard defensively all day which resulted in some great transition down court and it extended its lead to 12 goals at the long break.

The Eagles showed their class in the third quarter as they patiently worked the ball into attack to create countless scoring opportunities.

Karly Honner and Kasey Venables were in fine form in attack and helped increase the lead to 18 goals at three-quarter time.

The last quarter saw Heidi Berkin enter the game for Honner and she scored three goals in the final term for Penola.

The defensive pressure from Sophie Schulz and Kim Wilson continued until the final whistle as Penola ran home 23-goal victors.

Venables and Wilson were the Eagles' best players.

Young gun aiming high with 36ers

By Lachlan Onions

Young Limestone Coast basketballer William Wimshurst is set to take his career to new heights after recently being selected to be a part of the Adelaide 36ers academy.

Wimshurst has been playing basketball since he was five years old and said alongside winning a silver medal at nationals recently, being selected in the academy was one of the biggest achievements in his career.

"I am very excited," he said.

"It will be a good experience and a big opportunity."

Wimshurst began his career at Millicent and made his way up with the Magic to Under 16 level.

He is currently plying his trade for the Mount Gambier Lakers and the Eastern Mavericks in Adelaide.

Wimshurst has been a mainstay for the South Australian Country basketball team over the last few years and more recently led his team as captain to the silver medal in the national championships in Perth last month.

During his side's impressive run, he got to share the court with his cousin Cooper Mugford, as well as fellow Limestone Coast basketballers Henry Pedlar and Jacob Sim.

Following his impressive performances Wimshurst was then selected into the Adelaide 36ers academy and will be in Adelaide for six weeks from August 14.

He hopes this experience can help him develop as a basketballer and take him to greater heights.

"The hope is to try and get an offer from somewhere after this and get my name around," Wimshurst said.

Moving forward, Wimshurst is set to team up with Pedlar once again next year to compete for the Albury state team in January.

Little aths club needs you - now!

Millicent Little Athletics will hold its 2023 AGM at Newbery Park Gym Hall at the end of the month.

All positions will be vacant and will need to be filled for the club to be able to run next season.

Due to members on the current committee moving on after several years there is a desperate need for new committee members.

Despite the busy lifestyle of modern families, the club encourages everyone to consider taking up a position, as without a committee there would be no club for children to participate in.

Millicent Little Athletics Club facilities and equipment are used by local schools within the Limestone Coast.

Without a full and committed committee, the equipment would no longer stay in the area, which would force schools to source other equipment and facilities.

The club hopes those who attend the AGM will bring new light and ideas to the club.

We ask if you all attend this AGM, to bring new light and ideas to the club.

Those with questions can contact the Millicent Little Athletics Club through its Facebook page, or on 0417590422.

Shanks wins the medal

IN ideal sunny conditions, there were 22 women who played a stroke round for the monthly medal at the Millicent Golf Club last week.

There were also prizes on offer for fairways and least putts.

With an impressive nett score of 68, Bec Shanks claimed the B Grade and overall monthly medal.

Shanks also won the nine-hole competition with the best front nine of the day.

Karen Altschwager was the B Grade runner-up with a nett score of 72.

In A Grade, Kirsty Bailey took home the win with a nett total of 73.

She was followed by Kathy Webber, who claimed second place with a nett score of 75 after a count-back.

Lyn Watson, Debbie Tincknell and Karen Lock were the ball winners with nett scores of 75.

The nearest to pin on the third hole was Alex Lambert, while Tincknell was nearest for the second shot on the fifth and Karen Lock was closest for the second shot on the 17th hole.

Bailey took out the putting competition with an impressive 25 putts.

It was a successful day for Bailey as she also recorded a birdie on the fifth hole.

Val Williams and Julie McKenzie were the fairways winners.

Eagles soar to victory

By Lachlan Onions

PENOLA 15.14 (104) d
KYBYBOLITE 12.7 (79)

Penola's A Graders claimed an impressive 25-point win against Kybybolite in Round 14 of Kowree Naracoorte Tatiara football on Saturday.

It was a dominant four-quarter performance with the Eagles leading at every change.

Penola hit the ground running in the first quarter and took a 29-21 lead at quarter-time despite kicking into the wind.

With the wind in their sails, the Eagles began to show their class in the second term as they stretched the lead out to 21 points at half time.

To the Tigers' credit, they remained in the hunt and reduced the deficit to 16 points.

However, Penola remained unfazed as it booted five majors in the last quarter to claim a strong win away from home.

Eagles coach Brad Maney was delighted with his side's display as they claimed their fourth win of the year.

"It was pretty close to a four-quarter performance and it was no secret that we welcomed back some important players, but it was really pleasing to get the result," he said.

He was also pleased with the scoring from his side as they passed the 100-point mark for the first time this season.

"If we kicked a bit straighter - as has been our Achilles' heal all year - we probably would have scored a bit more but it was really pleasing," Maney said.

"It came down to how we started the game, into the wind we were still able to kick a score and it was huge for our group and a pat on the back for all the work we have been doing with our ball movement."

Maney said his side's ability to control the play as well as match the Tigers' strength in the contest was a major factor in the victory.

"I felt we had a little bit more experience at different times and were able to slow the game down when we needed to," he said.

"I also felt we were able to match them in the contest and that is their strength - their ability with the contested ball - and we were able to match them which meant we could get to work."

After missing the last two months through injury, Brad Merrett made his long-awaited return to the line-up and played like he had never missed a beat as he booted four goals for the game.

"It is no secret that he is one of the best players in the league and he proved it," Maney said.

Brodie Foster kicked three goals for the Eagles in their win over Kybybolite on the weekend.

"He took seven marks in the first quarter and just completely set the game up for us.

"Whether he plays forward or back for us this weekend, I am not too sure, we will look at Bordertown's team and make the decision on Thursday night but he is incredible."

Merrett teamed up with Brodie Foster and Drew Clayfield to form a deadly three-headed monster in the forward line as the trio combined for 11 goals on Saturday.

"They were all very potent and when you can stretch a team with three talls like that, one of them is always going to get the third defender and that is where we tried to feast on those opportunities," Maney said.

"But all three of them, pleasingly, were selfless for each other and that was the most important thing.

"They weren't just trying to get kicks, they were trying to create kicks for each other."

In what has become a common occurrence this season for Penola, Brad Bryant has continued to find ways to reach new heights and was best on ground once again.

"I honestly believe the last quarter on Saturday, when the game needed to be won, was probably the best quarter he has ever played for us," Maney said.

"He was enormous, I think he has maybe taken a slight lead in the best and fairest, but it will tight."

Looking ahead to Round 15, Penola will host Bordertown in its final home game of 2023 with a win very much in the sights of both teams.

Both teams have won four games this year and a victory for the Eagles could promote them to sixth place on the ladder.

"They (Bordertown) are very similar to us, they have got very high-quality talls so it is going to be a very good match of country footy," Maney said.

"I think we can beat them.

"I thought the first time we nearly could have beat them, we just had a lot of players out and it really hurt us.

"We will be back on our home ground and we haven't won too many games there this year so it would be nice to get another one.

"We have had a really loyal supporter base throughout the year and to get them another win would be a reward for effort for us, but also a reward for those who have continued to support us in what has become a tough, but really rewarding season."

Tough weekend for juniors against high-energy Tigers

JUNIOR COLTS

KYBYBOLITE 8.7 (55) d PENOLA 2.6 (18)

Penola's Junior Colts made the trip to Kybybolite to take on a fourth-placed Tigers line-up in a must-win game for the Eagles to keep their finals hopes alive.

Kybybolite claimed a win in the reverse fixture so the Eagles knew they were in for a difficult game.

The home team turned on the weather and the game started in glorious sunshine and no wind.

The Tigers got off to a quick start as they kicked 4.4 (28) in the first quarter to assert their dominance.

The Eagles looked sluggish and unprepared for the high-energy football thrown at them and if it were not for the strong defensive efforts from Jackson Bowen, the score line could have been a lot worse early in the game.

Penola clicked into gear in the second quarter and was far more competitive.

Daxton Bryant showed strong commitment to the ball and fought hard against some larger opponents in what was his best game of the season.

Joel Crawford, George Berkin and Luc Baverstock all started to lift and the Eagles started to win more ball in the midfield and get some forward penetration.

Penola managed to stop the scoring flow in the second term but still went into the half time break trailing 36-1.

The Eagles continued to match it with Kyby in the second half and continued to restrict the Tigers' scoring opportunities.

Cormac O'Brien started getting his hands on the ball more and showed he could open the game up with some electric runs through the midfield.

Penola dominated the last quarter and scored two goals and had several other scoring opportunities which would have made the scores a lot closer at full time as the Tigers claimed a 37-point win.

Penola's best players were Luc Baverstock, George Berkin, Joel Crawford, Cormac O'Brien, Jackson Bowen and Daxton Bryant.

SENIOR COLTS

KYBYBOLITE 11.11 (77) d PENOLA 4.3 (27)

Penola faced a difficult task taking on the third-placed Tigers on Saturday.

Kyby jumped out of the gates early getting plenty of clearances and like their Junior Colts counterparts, stormed out to a 28-0 lead at the first break.

Penola immediately hit back in the second quarter through Alex Merrett, who kicked his side's first goal of the contest.

The likes of Ned Skeer, Toby Zerk, Johnny Gosse and Jojo McCarthy provided strong drive for the Eagles, while Kelem Cockling was working hard with pressure acts around the contest.

Finn Skeer created space off half forward and slotted through Penola's second goal before Thomas Currie followed suit.
